Wheat Burning Up.
We Drink More Whisky.
Six Billions for Weapons.
Howdy Do in Hodeidah.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

BAD NEWS from wheat-growing regions, intense heat burning up crops. The temperature at Sioux City, Iowa, yesterday, Monday, rose to one hundred, all May records broken. Chicago also broke a May record, above ninety-two. In Nebraska, hot winds added to injury done by the sun's heat, sweeping away moisture.

The experiment of planting only just as much wheat as is needed may prove disastrous if rain is too long delayed. You cannot regulate crop production as you can that of automobiles, or shoes.

IN THIS YEAR of Our Lord, Americans are drinking more whisky than they did before prohibition, and paying taxes on it. Three hundred millions of gallons of bootleg liquor is not included in the statistics. Beer drinking has fallen off fifty per cent, according to reports from Washington. Prohibition restored whisky as the national drink.

Thomas Jefferson, who thought beer would provide an antidote to drunkenness, which was widespread in his day, would be disturbed by the beer news. But he was old-fashioned.

FIGURES SUPPLIED by the League of Nations show that European countries have spent about six thousand million dollars since the last war on killing machinery for another war, while carefully refraining from paying the ten thousand million that they owe us

It is announced from Paris that, for the fourth time, France will default on the war debt to the United States. And it is probable that England will default again as she did last time. Last time she handed Uncle Sam "a token," saying:

"Please accept that, and don't call it a default."

It is doubtful that this country would accept a token this time. England probably either faces a substantial payment or official default.

OF A SUDDEN the Arabs become important, with fighting and conquest by one ambitious Arab fighter, King Ibn Saud, of Saudi. England and France are worried about the safety of their nationals in the city of Hodeidah, which sounds like a Hollywood exclamation.

This new outburst of Arabian power reminds you that, from time to time, the Arabs have played an important part in the world.

They nearly conquered the world, driven by the enthusiasm of Mohammed's new religion. And they were leaders in science, mathematics, chemistry, when the rest of the world was occupied with killing. Many words in our language, some important, much used, like alcohol and sofa, are Arab words.

IF INTERESTED in that puzzle of the ages, money, which nobody understands, and everybody pursues, read "What Is Sound Money?" by James H. R. Cromwell, published for twenty-five cents by the Economic Forum.

Mr. Cromwell undertakes, first, to show that the economic history of the world is "the tale of mankind's struggle to obtain enough money to support the distribution of production, upon which civilization depends."

Second, he asserts that "the progress and welfare of mankind to a considerable degree depend upon fortuitous discoveries of gold and silver." Third, he thinks our civilization will be in danger unless we find some means "to free ourselves from dependence upon such fortuitous discoveries."

IT IS TRUE the California gold strike started a magnificent boom. It even lowered greatly the usual number of suicides in London. They decided to go gold-hunting, instead of killing themselves.

But the perfecting of steam power did more for prosperity, produced a greater boom than any gold discovery, and later the development of electric power, and the automobile, did the same.

You will find Mr. Cromwell's book interesting, and worth while.

RAILROADS, BATTLING to recapture traffic, have orchestras on trains, pretty, sweet "hostesses," in club cars, saying:

"Can I do anything for you?"

Such things will help little. Quick, cheap transportation is what people want. The elevated railway in New York never made money until it changed from ten cents to five cents. Then it made a great deal until the subway came.

RAILROADS OWN rights of way of gigantic value on which, if they will forget the past and adopt new ideas, they can make all passenger, express and freight competition by automobiles or motor trucks impossible. With modern equipment, high speed, low rates, they can control all traffic again, as they did before automobile omnibuses and trucks came to worry them.

GOVERNMENT rules that Americans must not lend money to Russia, apparently because the general ruling that no loans may go to countries that are in default on their war debts.

The present government of Russia, however, is not in any war debt default. This country's infantile Wall Street financiers lent tens of millions to the comic opera Kerensky, and lent other millions to a tottering czar that he might have money to pay bills here. Seems hardly reasonable and not good business to hold the present Russian government responsible for the Russia of the czars, or for the debts of the amusing Kerensky interlude.

JUNE ROBLES' 'PRISON' FOUND

Steel Ring Drawing Tighter About Child's Abductors

CANANEA, Sonora, Mex., May 8.—(AP.)—The house in which kidnaped June Robles may have been held as recently as two days ago has been found, two patrolmen disclosed today.

The statement came as a manhunt, such as this ancient mining settlement has not seen since Mexico's dread Rurales swept down in pursuit of early day brigands, spread through Cananea and the surrounding territory.

KEEP SITE SECRET

Corps. George Ash and Tom Newell, of the Arizona Highway Patrol, did not disclose the exact location of the house, but they said they were convinced the 6-year-old heiress to the fortune of Bernabe Robles, Tucson cattle baron, was now in the hands of two men.

They pictured the abductors as dodging desperately from adobe shack to sun-baked arroyo somewhere inside the district around which a closing ring of steel-bandoleered Mexican federal soldiery with bayoneted rifles is converging. They were confident the kidnapers could not escape.

When they came upon the house, they found evidence the child had been there but two days ago, her kidnapers apparently having fled with her in alarm as the search, originating in Nogales on the border to the west, touched points near Cananea.

SEARCH TO GO ON

The report of the patrolmen came on the heels of a statement yesterday by criminal officers in which they said they knew the child was alive and probably would be returned within 24 hours. The point of her return proved in error and last night a large force of officers returned to their bases, empty-handed after an extensive search.

Newell and Ash declared the search would go on until either the girl or her abductors are found, or it is proved beyond doubt they have slipped away.

They indicated their information is the child is alive, and probably has not been badly treated, although closely confined.

So Knutson Struts; Pipe His Straw Lid

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—Representative Knutson (Rep.), of Minnesota, carried off all honors today for initiating the 1934 straw hat season among House members.

Knutson was so proud of his summer top piece—built like one of those affairs African big game hunters affect—that he parked it on the open rack in the Speaker's lobby instead of in his private rack in the Republican cloak room.

'Chiseler' at Work In Johnston's Office

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(INS.)—A real "chiseler" was found in the office of Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, today. He is Reuben Nakian, a sculptor who is making a plaster cast of the General. His ultimate aim is a bronze bust of the administrator.

INSULL GOES TO JAIL AS HE WEEPS

$200,000 Bail Lacking, Fallen 'King' Sent to 85-Cents-Day Cell

CHICAGO, May 8.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull was placed under $200,000 bond by a federal judge today and, unable to furnish it, was led away to jail.

The former multi-millionaire was started on his way to Cook County Jail, where the county houses short term prisoners for the government for 85 cents a day.

Eyes brimming with tears, steps lagging, he trudged silently between his guards to be locked up, ap risoner in the city where he had risen to greatness among the financial and utilities potentates of the nation.

Thirteen thousand miles of harried wandering across Europe, the Mediterranean and the Atlantic had brought him at last to the bar of justice.

COLLAPSED AT CHARGES

Crowds gaped at him in the station. He faced them impassively. At the United States marshal's office he heard the charges read: Use of the mails fraudulently, and violation of the bankruptcy act. He collapsed, his heart overtaxed by the physical and emotional strain.

He was fingerprinted, then led before a judge.

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green demanded $200,000 bond. The government, he related, had spent a vast sum chasing this elderly gentleman around the hemisphere and wanted assurance he would be on hand for trial.

Cleared By Grand Jury

ANDREW W. MELLON . . . . . HIS INCOME TAX APPROVED

GOVERNMENT'S CHARGE OF $700,000 TAX FRAUD REJECTED BY PROBERS

Andrew W. Mellon was cleared by a federal grand jury today of an accusation of attempted evasion of $716,144.27 income taxes.

The government returned as "not a true bill" the government's claims that the former Secretary of the Treasury "unlawfully, willfully, knowingly, feloniously and fraudulently did attempt to defeat and evade an income tax upon his net income for the calendar year 1931."

Pleased at the outcome of the proceeding, Mr. Mellon interrupted the performance of his many duties today to say:

"I am, of course, gratified that I have been exonerated by a jury of my fellow citizens.

"The fact that the grand jury reached a sound conclusion, notwithstanding the unusual methods pursued in my case, is proof of the good sense and fairness of the American people."

INCOME REVEALED

It set forth that for the year 1931 Mr. Mellon had filed a tax return showing a gross income of $6,758,707.12.

The principal source of revenue listed was $6,102,497.05 from dividends on stocks of domestic corporations.

The bill had set forth a claim that for the year Mr. Mellon's gross income actually was $9,212,905.21.

Challenged in the bill were claims of two losses by Mr. Mellon: First, on sale of stock of the Pittsburgh Coal Company; second, on sale of stock of the Western Public Service Company.

On the first an ordinary loss of $5,766.30 and a capital loss of $5,672,189.95 were claimed, and on the second an ordinary loss of $49,500 and a capital loss of $352,500 were claimed.

LOSSES CLAIMED

Capital losses are taken on stock held more than two years and ordinary losses on stock held less than two years.

The members of the grand jury left their room on the fifth floor of the Federal Building shortly before 10 o'clock this morning and descended to the courtroom of Judge R. M. Gibson on the third floor.

Judge Gibson asked:

"Do you have any return to make?"

The foreman of the jury, William Beeson, bank clerk, of Uniontown, replied:

"We have."

BILL IGNORED

Then Beeson handed the bill, marked "not a true bill," to Clerk

U. S. Will Drop Mellon Charges, Cummings Says

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—Attorney General Cummings said today there would be no further criminal proceedings against Andrew W. Mellon in connection with the present income tax case.

Informed that the grand jury had failed to return an indictment against the former Secretary of the Treasury, Cummings said "there is no disposition to challenge the result."

His statement follows:

"It was for the grand jury to say whether or not the facts disclosed and fairly and impartially submitted require further proceedings.

"Evidently they reached the conclusion that there was not sufficient evidence of improper motive to warrant an indictment.

"This was a function entirely within their province and there is no disposition to challenge the result.

"Very few people, I imagine, were seriously misled by Mr. Mellon's statements which were evidently timed so as to be current while the grand jury had his case under consideration.

"There is no reason, however, to believe that these highly improper assertions affected the result.

"The simple truth is that he was treated like anyone else in a similar situation."

After issuing the statement, Cummings said the case would not be submitted to another grand jury.

PARTY CHANGES RESTRICTED

HARRISBURG, May 8.—(AP.)—Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, ruled today that voters enrolled in one party may not switch to another unless they indicated their desire 62 days or more before the primary.

His opinion was asked by the County Commissioners of Cumberland County, where, the Commissioners reported, numerous registered Democrats wished to vote as Republicans.

The decision means that these voters must vote as Democrats or not at all.

In cases where citizens were enrolled as nonpartisans, Beamish held they had the right to indicate which party affiliation they desired up to 10 days before the primary.

The Pirates were out to record a success that would send their victory string to five in succession. They trimmed the Dodgers yesterday in 10 innings, 7 to 6.

The Phillies will come to Pittsburgh tomorrow to begin a four-game series with the Pirates.

VOLPE BROTHER SENT TO PRISON

Joseph Volpe, 19, "kid brother" of the three slain racketeers, today was sentenced to six months in the workhouse and fined $300 in a test case of the new state liquor law.

Volpe was arrested January 7 in Plum Township by State Highway Patrolman Arthur A. Ragdon, who testified he found six five-gallon cans of moonshine in Volpe's car.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park named Volpe on six counts under the new law. Volpe, who lives at 116 Bridge street, Wilmerding, pleaded guilty today. Sentence was pronounced by Judge W. Heber Dithrich.

Volpe is also scheduled to be tried—before serving his term—on charges of violating the firearms act, in allegedly having a revolver in his car at the time.

FOSDICK CALLS WAR 'SUICIDE'

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick has made his peace with the unknown soldier.

"I renounce war," the pastor of the Riverside Baptist Church (the Rockefeller Church) told a seminar on war last night.

The minister said after 35 of the 36 persons at another seminar had voted to refuse to serve in the event of future armed conflict:

"Rather than sanction another war, directly or indirectly, I'll see you in prison first."

Dr. Fosdick reproached himself for having counseled and exhorted soldiers before they went "over the top on their murderous and suicidal tasks" in France.

For what he had done as a chaplain in France, he said, he had "an account to settle with the unknown soldier." He made his renunciation of war, he stated, in "penitent reparation" to the unknown dead of the World War.

Teachers Oppose Oath of U. S. Fealty

700 in New York Oppose Bill's Approval

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Surprising opposition has been offered by 700 public school teachers to a bill recently passed by the Legislature which merely requires them to swear allegiance to the Constitution of the nation and the state.

This bill is now awaiting the signature of Gov. Lehman. The opposition is embodied in signed petitions circulated through the schools by a group known as the Teachers' Anti-War Committee, with headquarters at 112 East Nineteenth street. The petitions have been forwarded to Albany.

The protestants use such thumbworn phrases as "academic freedom" in seeking to explain their reasons for fighting a bill which, in effect, demands that they obligate themselves to be good citizens. The petition says:

"This bill, if it becomes law, will destroy academic freedom, make tenure subject to the arbitrary whims of state officials, and in time of war preparation make teachers the puppets of the War Department. The blanket provision for future assignments will make for automatic dismissal of teachers who oppose regimentation that has no place in the school system."

WHAT OATH REALLY IS

As a fact, the bill, as passed in its amended form, makes no provision, blanket or otherwise, for future assignments. The oath provided in the measure, which was introduced by Assemblyman

Anti-War Group Leads Fight on Measure

Cupid's Darts Linking Jean and Max

If Baer Comes Over 'Man Mountain' All's Swell

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK, May 8.—Love seems to have raised its dizzy head in our sports set and I am unreliably informed that no sooner will Miss Jean Harlow, the silver blonde of Beverly Hills, be freed of her current matrimonial chains, than she will take the orange blossom promenade with Maxie Baer.

A fetching couple surely.

This may prove to be a better match for Maxie than the one with Primo Carnera, though there is always the possibility that he would last longer with "Da Preem." You know how it is with matrimony out there in the old west, such as Hollywood and Reno. Out there it is quick on the trigger.

It was my understanding and from his own lips, too, that Mr. Baer had forsworn Cupid on the ground that he was a dangerous little devil, leading only in the direction of the divorce courts, breach of promise actions and the grave. But since the Livermore Lothario continues to have rain in his heart and smoke in his eyes, there certainly is no more dazzling partner in sight for him than the belle of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The chances are, however, that Maxie will not win La Harlow unless he can successfully dispose of Carnera next month and thereby become heavyweight champion of the world. Baer hasn't yet found it out, but his popularity and fame are based on the belief that he is potentially a great prizefighter. True he is a handsome hombre. So are quite a lot of other gents whom the public does not follow through the streets. Nor will it follow Maxie once the fact that he is a second-rater is disclosed—if he is a second-rater.

If Baer comes over the "Man Mountain" on the night of June 14, the world will be before him. If he doesn't, let him take my word for it now that he already has reached the high point of his career, from a motion picture and every other standpoint. If he walks down those little ring steps in the Garden Bowl defeated, he will be taking the road out. His future is in his own hands.

Wedding Bells Wait Miss Harlow's Divorce

ROOSEVELT OUTLINES TWO-WAY PROGRAM FOR SILVER

U. S. TO DECLARE TOKEN PAYERS IN DEFAULT

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The United States is through accepting "token" payments from the European debtor nations, it was learned today.

This government will declare Great Britain, Italy and the other former "token" payers in default under the Johnson Act the middle of next month unless they meet their unpaid obligations in full or a new debt agreement is reached in the meantime.

ANNOUNCEMENT SOON

Both possibilities are considered doubtful and indications are increasing that the United States will receive absolutely nothing from the debtor nations with the exception of the little Republic of Finland, which is expected to continue meeting its obligations in full.

Official announcement of the government's view that under the Johnson Act it cannot continue to exempt those nations which make token payments from the defaulting class may be made within the next few days.

This action is expected to terminate the so-called "token" payments and bring all European debt payments, with the exception of Finland, to an end until a new agreement is reached.

WEIGH REDUCTION

At the same time, reports were current that the administration was considering a new general debt revision plan that would reduce Europe's total debts to this government by approximately 10 billion dollars.

An agreement with Finland, which has drafted tentatively several weeks ago and is now on the President's desk, provides that future interest payments virtually be wiped out and all buf approximately one-eighth of past interest payments be applied to reduction of principal.

If this plan of virtually wiping out interest payments was applied to the European debtor nations in general, it would, it is estimated, result in a savings of approximately 70 billion dollars on the debts due this government.

TRADE PACT UNAFFECTED

It would reduce the total European war debt to the United States from about 21 billion under the present 62 year funding agreement to 11 billion.

The government's intention to consider the debtor nations liable to the penalties of the Johnson Act, prohibiting the debt defaulters from floating securities in this country, was learned almost simultaneously with announcement by Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, that his act would apply to all the debtor nations which failed to pay up in full after June 15.

It was emphasized the new act will not interfere with other ordinary commercial transactions.

SENATE GROUP CONFIDENT OF LEGISLATION

'Mandatory' Provision For 25 Pct. Currency Base Seen

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt outlined to Senate silver advocates today a two-way program involving nationalization of silver and a 25 per cent silver basis for the monetary system.

There was reason to believe that an understanding on this two-point program for rehabilitation of silver, at the discretion of the President, was nearing completion for legislative action.

ROOSEVELT STATEMENT

The following White House statement was issued after the conference with the Senate group.

"At a conference between a number of Senators, the Secretary of the Treasury and the President, there was further discussion of two points relating to the further use of silver as a metallic reserve for the United States.

"More specifically, the possibility of nationalizing silver in the same manner in which gold has already been nationalized through the purchase of existing free stocks at a limited price was explored.

"The meeting also explored the ultimate objective or national policy of having 25 per cent of the monetary value of the metallic reserves of the country in the form of silver."

SILVERITES SMILE

Leaving the White House smiling the Senate silverites generally conceded that if this program is worked out it would be satisfactory.

At the White House it was emphasized that the conference was not final and that more meetings would have to be held.

This was regarded as definite indication that a final agreement had not been reached between the President and the silver bloc on the legislative program.

Members of the Senate group refused to talk at the Capitol for publication, but several indicated the policy would represent a "reasonably satisfactory" result.

One member said the group would meet today or tomorrow with Secretary Morgenthau and other Treasury officials in an effort to draft "a bit" of legislation for passage at this session.

MANDATORY BILL

Asked if the bill would provide for mandatory or merely permissive powers, this Senator said a declaration of policy would be "mandatory."

Senator King (Dem.), of Utah, when leaving the parley wore a broad grin.

It was understood whatever silver legislation is proposed would be offered separately and not as amending other legislation.

Besides Senator King, Senators Pittman and McCarran (Nevada), Adams (Colorado) and Thomas (Oklahoma), all Democrats, and Borah, Republican (Idaho), participated in the conference.

Secretary Morgenthau and Herman Oliphant, special counsel to the Secretary of the Treasury, also were present.

Direct Road to Recovery

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL,
Financial Authority

SENATOR ELMER THOMAS, of Oklahoma, has offered a surprise amendment to the Glass industrial financing bill, which amendment contains the essence of all the popular silver measures offered or debated in this Congress.

It seems to me that this amendment drives the opponents of silver legislation up a blind alley, from which they will be unable to emerge.

It skillfully combines all the effective features which have received wide support and at the same time clothes the administration with discretionary powers—to the extent approved and invited by the President.

Silver bullion now held in the country would be taken over by the Treasury at the highest market price on the day preceding issuance of a proclamation provided for in the bill, not to exceed 50 cents per fine ounce.

THIS PROVISION effectively explodes one of the principal arguments of the gold bloc, as it eliminates all opportunity for exorbitant profits on the silver now held as an investment by banks and individuals.

The measure provides for the foreign sale of surplus agricultural products on the same basis as the Dies agricultural-silver bill, and in addition provides for similar foreign sale of surplus manufactured products.

This is an important addition. There is no room for debate on the certain opportunity this offers American industry. If our live wire manufacturers who have seen nothing but red figures since 1930 do not get clamorously aboard this joy wagon, they ought to be shot at sunrise.

The bill also authorizes the Treasurer to purchase silver at his discretion up to 30 per cent of our metallic money stock, and thereafter to maintain this ratio permanently.

Attainment of the 1926 commodity price level automatically arrests all the active operations of the measure.

THIS PROVISION absolutely prohibits inflation. At the outside, the extreme of effect on prices cannot exceed the restoration of the 1926 price level to which the administration and all authoritative and influential trade bodies are committed.

Silver Treasury certificates are to be issued for all silver delivered to the Treasurer under any of the provisions.

This is the potent feature of the whole bill, and will be the focal point of the opposition.

All the entrenched creditor groups, whose selfish interest is to keep wages and prices low, to require repayment of debts in money of high purchasing power, will bitterly oppose it.

All those who profit from our national distress—who would prefer the continuance of this tragic depression, will oppose it.

THIS MEASURE, if it becomes a law in its present form, will do what the gold purchase program failed to do. It will unquestionably raise commodity prices. The President knows this, of course. If he doubts it—let him issue a statement that he favors the legislation, and see what happens.

Surely he is aware that his announced antagonism to silver is directly responsible for the recent sharp break in the commodity and securities markets.

Even rumors of silver legislation will put the stock and commodities markets up IF THE MEASURES PROPOSED INCLUDE THE ISSUANCE OF ADDITIONAL MONEY.

The President's gold purchase policy would have done the same thing if gold certificates had been issued and distributed in payment of our extraordinary federal expenses, instead of sterilizing the gold as an inert mass in the Treasury.

THOSE PATRIOTS who are intelligently struggling to promote domestic recovery, and to recover American world trade, will support this measure.

Those who have fallen a victim to the cunning propaganda of the English central banking group, some of whose shrewdest members are in Washington pulling every available wire to defeat or delay every measure promoting American recovery, will oppose it.

MAJORITY RULE ON UNIONS AIM OF NRA

Leaders Agree on New Terms for Wagner Labor Bill

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—Complete agreement among administration leaders on revision of the Wagner labor disputes bill was reported today by Hugh C. Johnson.

The NRA administrator, however, declined to disclose the terms that he, Secretary Perkins, Donald Richberg, NRA chief counsel, and Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, had settled upon.

There was strong indication that the measure would amend section 7-A of the industrial act, the provision setting forth labor rights, to make possible majority rule in collective bargaining negotiations.

Johnson told reporters flatly that as the section stood now majority rule to the exclusion from negotiation of any minority group, no matter how small, was not possible.

The National Labor Board, under Senator Wagner, has taken a strong position that collective bargaining must be conducted by the majority union or group. Johnson and Richberg have agreed that this is not the most practical method for relations between employers and their workers, but have stood fast against permitting it to be done as long as the law stands as now drafted.

Communications Board Proposed By I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—Creation of a federal communications commission to regulate telephone, telegraph, radio, wireless and cable systems was advocated today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Meanwhile, Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator, said that while he may have to impose a code on the communications industry, "I don't want to impose any code if I can get out of it."

Johnson said the code would be given a hearing and would go through the regular administrative procedure.

The position of the Interstate Commerce Commission was given by Frank McManamy, a commissioner, in testifying to the House Interstate Commerce Committee on the Rayburn bill. He said:

"The Interstate Commerce Commission believes it to be sound public policy and in the interest of effective and economical regulation to consolidate under a single regulatory commission such closely related activities."

PRIVATE PLANES FLYING MAIL

Associated Press.

Flying of the airmail was resumed today by commercial planes.

Over four routes private airlines relieved the Army of mail carrying, and postal officials said at Washington that other routes would be surrendered to commercial ships within the next few days under the contracts awarded last week.

A United Air Line plane left Newark at 1:15 a. m. (eastern standard time) for Oakland, Cal., with the first bags of airmail touched by a private line since Postmaster General Farley's order cancelling contracts became effective February 19.

Other routes over which the air mail moved once more in commercial ships were between Seattle and San Diego, Salt Lake City and Seattle, and Salt Lake City and San Diego.

As a parting gesture in completing its mail flying, the Army Air Corps carried out a 2,732-mile flight from Oakland to Newark yesterday in what it claimed was record time for the northern transcontinental route. The flight was made in 14 hours 8 minutes.

A similar flight was made by Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., over the southern route from Los Angeles to Newark just before the mail carrying job was taken from private lines. This flight was made in 13 hours 5 minutes. However, the route flown by the Army was 279 miles longer.

EXCHANGE BILL KEEPS 'TEETH'

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—Nearly half a hundred amendments were aimed at the stock market control bill in the Senate today, but leaders predicted virtually all would be thrown out before a final vote.

Most of the suggested alterations were designed to remove limitations and restrictions written into the bill by the Canking Committee. More debate was expected, however, on two amendments claimed by their authors to add "teeth."

One of these, by Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, would follow the House bill in placing regulation of the exchanges in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission instead of a new commission. The other, by Senator Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio, would prohibit all margin trading through brokers.

M'LEOD SIGNERS REACH 109

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The petition for a vote in the House on the McLeod closed bank depositors' relief bill was gradually gaining signers today despite the opposition of administration leaders.

Signatures mounted to 109 while Democratic leaders were actively fighting the bill. This pressure for a vote caused Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, to declare action would be achieved before adjournment. The petition must be signed by 145 members to compel a vote.

Meantime, the House Banking Committee was moving near a showdown on the temporary deposit insurance continuation bill, which contains the Steagall amendment expanding authority of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, to take over assets of closed banks.

The Senate Banking Committee also had before it the bill of Senator Copeland (Dem.), of New York, authorizing the Deposit Corporation to make a reappraisal of assets of closed banks.

Thus the pressure for depositors' relief has extended to both branches of Congress.

State Aid Sought For Housing Relief

State aid to municipalities for proper housing of destitute families is one of the planks of J. Slevan, candidate for Legislature in the Sixth District. He wants a minimum wage act to permanently supplant the national recovery act code and social legislation.

SHAKEUP OUSTS LOAN AIDES

Drastic changes in appraising division personnel of the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation's Pittsburgh office are being made in an effort to improve appraising service.

The personnel changes are the result of an order from Home Loan headquarters in Washington, that all its appraisers submit a new application, according to J. S. Baughman, district manager.

Because of the new requirements the working staff of appraisers in the Pittsburgh office has been cut approximately in half.

Before the new applications were required the office had approximately 60 appraisers. Only about 35 have been recommended under the new application system and are now working, according to Baughman.

It is Baughman's object, he says, to employ between 80 and 100 appraisers.

Bar Head Indorses Kaufman Candidacy

W. W. Stoner, president of the Allegheny County Bar Association, has indorsed the candidacy of David E. Kaufman for Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor. Stoner cited Kaufman's ability as a lawyer and his diplomatic service.

U. S. SPEEDING VOTE TRIAL

The government is expected to close its case late today in the trial of three members of the election board of the Third District, Third Ward, on charges of conspiring to alter and falsify ballots in the November, 1932, election.

The defendants are Joseph Forte, judge, and Frank Audia and August J. Manfredo, inspectors. Michael J. Swide, another member of the board, who was indicted, died last November.

The government is represented by First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh and former United States Attorney Louis E. Graham. The latter was appointed a special government prosecutor after the resignation of Attorney Earl F. Reed.

British Erecting Walls To Bar Jap Goods

LONDON, May 8.—(AP.)—New anti-dumping laws, it was indicated today, will be added to Great Britain's ultra-protectionist policy—a policy which has led her into declaring an open trade war on Japan.

News of the new development came today fast upon the heels of declarations by Walter Runciman, Board of Trade head, and Dominions Secretary J. H. Thomas, that Britain is prepared to fight with all the means at her command to improve the empire's trade.

It was revealed that there is a growing sentiment in the House of Commons for laws to protect home manufacturers and producers against the competition of low-priced goods here and in the colonies and dominions.

Japan today found the gates to British colonies barred to two-thirds of her former sales of cotton textiles there as a result of Runciman's edict, sounded before a surprised Commons yesterday.

Quick steps will be taken to revise the duties upward in the homeland on silk and other Japanese products and then the dominions will be asked to do likewise.

Weather Conditions

The high pressure area, yesterday central over the upper lakes, increased in intensity, and developed southeastward and is now central over Western Pennsylvania (Pittsburgh, 30.36), overlying the lakes, the southern plains and eastern states. Light frost occurred over portions of West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and Western New York. A trough of low pressure extends from the Canadian Northwest (Edmonton, Alberta, 29.64), southward to Arizona, and a disturbance is also centered over Southern Texas. Weather is clear over the southern states, the lower lakes and Ohio Valley and eastward to the coast, but there is considerable cloudiness in the Upper Mississippi Valley and upper lake region, and light rain in Northern Iowa this morning. It is much colder in the Ohio Valley, the Middle Atlantic states and New England, and warmer in the Dakotas and the Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 1.5 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.2; Pittsburgh, 10.5; Dam No. 4, 9.1; No. 6, 7.4; No. 10, 8.7, and No. 12, 7.8. The dams are up.

Terrorism Sweeps Alabama Coal Fields

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 8.—(AP.)—Three persons were shot and extensive property damage caused by dynamiting early today and last night in a wave of terrorism and intimidation sweeping Walker and Jefferson county mine fields.

DARROW REPORT BOLT STUDIED

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt is reserving action on the resignation of John F. Sinclear, Minneapolis economist, from the NRA monopoly investigation board pending a study of the report with which Sinclear disagreed.

Clarence Darrow, veteran lawyer and chairman of the board and five other members joined in a report to the President. Sinclair disagreed.

Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, declined to say whether he would adopt the suggestion of the board for attaching an NRA official to that agency.

The Darrow suit was set up to criticize NRA from the viewpoint of small business and recommend relief for complainants.

'Gas' Strike Notice Promised by Union

William J. Kelly, spokesman for the newly-organized union of gasoline station workers, said today that in the event of a strike, the public would be given 48 hours' notice. There would be no interruption, he said, of gasoline for hospitals, doctors, mail trucks, dairies and other necessary services.

Most of the 5,000 gasoline station workers in the district are members of the union, he said. They are asking employers for a minimum monthly wage of $100, with $135 for station managers, $120 for "grease men," and night shift workers, a five-day, 40-hour week, and union recognition.

NRA REVISING STEEL CODE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Revisions for the steel code which expires on May 31, are under consideration by the NRA, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, declared today.

Johnson declined to outline the proposed changes, but it was indicated that various points brought out in the Federal Trade Commission's report are under consideration.

The commission's report pointed specifically to the matter of trade prices and rebates and injustices that were being promulgated under this section of the steel code.

'Kick-Back' Inquiry To Be Nationwide

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(INS.)—The Senate Committee on Education and Labor voted unanimously today to expand its "kick-back" investigation on a nationwide basis.

Under the kick-back system, contractors pledge payment of existing wage levels, but force employes to return a portion of their pay each week.

Adequate national defense is being urged by Dr. Frank C. Ferrante, candidate for Congress in the Thirty-fourth District. At a meeting in Clairton last night, Ferrante urged a separate air corps unit, and an alert chemical warfare service.

Labor Holds NRA Fate, Miss Carr Tells Unions

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—Organized labor today was told by Charlotte E. Carr, State Secretary of Labor and Industry, that the fate of the NRA rests largely on its shoulders.

Speaking at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, Miss Carr said:

"In the last analysis, NRA codes will stand or fall as labor is organized. The codes have been good codes or bad codes as organized labor has been representing in the making of them. The codes will be complied with or not complied with as organized labor assists in their compliance."

Miss Carr added that the feeling that the New Deal had lessened the need for unionization was short-lived, explaining:

"The New Deal has helped labor exactly in the degree labor has been organized to take advantage of the opportunities presented to it. Where labor has not been organized, its gain under the New Deal has been slight."

Miss Carr told the convention delegates that all legislative gains to aid workers since 1.15 have come during the two administrations of Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

DORMONT SCHOOL BOARD REJECTS PERSHING MURAL

PAINTING VOTED DOWN IN HOT CONTROVERSY

'Education vs. Crime' Stays in Cellar As Storm Rages

"Education versus Crime," the mural painted by Louise Pershing at an estimated cost of $340 to the Public Works of Art Project, is going begging.

Painted for the Hillsdale public school, Dormont, the mural was declined by the Dormont School Board last night during a brief, but heated meeting at Dormont High School.

While pro and anti-muralists wrangled, the cause of the controversy leaned against a wall of the Hillsdale School cellar, "hideous" or "inspiringly beautiful," depending upon who had the floor.

'I DON'T LIKE IT'

Claiming to represent the views of a number of mothers, Mrs. J. L. Perry, president of the Hillsdale Parent-Teacher Association, declared:

"I don't like it. It's not fit for any elementary school child to view every day."

Mrs. Perry then produced a letter from Willis Shook, director of the Art Institute of Pittsburgh, and read, in part:

"It is out of harmony with the efforts of our art teachers . . . The actuating motives in so-called modern art are most often to swell attendance at the gallery . . . Some paintings are fine for schools—others are equally fine for cellars."

'I KNOW IT'S GOOD'

Miss Pershing followed Miss Cuthbert in defense of her picture. She declared:

"You all have discussed only one side of the picture. I painted it particularly for an educational purpose, and I don't think it is fair of the board to pass on it without seeing it. From an artistic standpoint I know it's good."

From the ranks of the board itself—Harry E. Emeigh speaking—came a startling pronouncement. A motion that the board decline to accept was up; another that the mural be hung for a month for popular vote had been voted down. Mr. Emeigh said:

"Where is this painting? Have you seen it? (Several had, it appeared.) Well, I haven't, and I'm not goting to vote on anything when I haven't seen it."

'SOMETHING BUXOM'

Dr. John F. Golden, another member of the board, declared:

"It seems to me we're morally committed to acceptance. We allowed the work to go to completion. I am frank to say that I like something of the Victorian type better — something buxom, y'know, rather than thin like that. But in my opinion children should face reality."

Someone suggested that Miss Pershing had her money anyway, and as a result was not interested in the work any more to any great extent. The speaker drew fire from the artists' gallery. Miss Cuthbert took issue:

ARTISTIC FURY

Suggestion that, inasmuch as the board would not permit hanging of the mural in the grade school for public vote, the work be placed in the high school, where, it was deemed, it would be more appropriate, also met with artistic fury. Miss Pershing would have none of it.

The board's final vote was 3-2 with Dr. Golden and Mr. Emleigh for acceptance. Other members of the board are Dr. P. W. Snyder, Mrs. C. R. Hinkley, J. Lee Shields, Albert T. Eyler and Samuel Lynn, president. Mr. Eyler was not present.

Machine Gun Traps Ohio Pen Fugitives

LANCASTER, O., May 8.—(AP.)—A machine gun halted the flight of three Ohio Penitentiary convicts who slipped down a cable from the high prison walls at Columbus.

Sheriff William Belhorn yesterday captured the trio—Rufus Deeds, Arthur R. Koontz and Martin Schmidt—in a quick attack on their hideout in a "hobo camp" a mile from Hooker Station. They had escaped Sunday, April 28.

Niece of Bradley Weds at Stock Farm

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 8.—(AP.)—Miss Peggy Bailey, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Bradley Bailey, Philadelphia and Palm Beach, and niece of Col. E. R. Bradley, nationally known sportsman, was married to Frank Speno, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Speno, Ithaca, N. Y., at Col. Bradley's Idle Hour stock farm here yesterday.

The Return of Samuel Insull

The news cameras' story of the dramatic arrival in America of Samuel Insull, today at last in Chicago after he acted out the last of his strange Odyssey—two years' wandering, some hurried, to avoid the Arm of the U. S. Law.

preme Court and now defender of Insull, protested:

"This means he will be compelled to go to jail.

"If the government thinks we are bluffing, the government will find it is mistaken. We cannot raise this amount."

Judge Barnes listened briefly to the arguments of Green and the defender.

"The only question before the court is the amount of bail which would reasonably assure the presence of the defendant at his trial. Under the circumstances I am of the opinion that the suggestion of the government is not excessive."

LED AWAY TO JAIL

Deputy marshals assisted the broken man to his feet, marched off with him to the office of United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer where only an hour before Insull had been delivered into his custody by Burton Y. Berry, the President's messenger, who had brought him from Istanbul. Samuel Insull, Jr., cried:

"What can we do? Father will have to submit to incarceration. We cannot make the bond."

Young Insull, once the partner of his father in directing the three billion dollar utilities empire that stretched from Maine to Texas, said no attempt would be made to raise the full amount of bond required. Preparations had been made to supply $100,000 for his release, but the Insulls and their counsel had not counted on so great a sum. The elder Insull was quoted by his son:

"I am resigned to jail."

'Date' With U. S. Balks Insull Invitation Here

An old man with white hair was in Chicago today facing charges of having lost a bet—and an empire with it.

It was the end of the odyssey of Samuel Insull, interrupted here last night for three brief hours of carefully guarded delay.

Shorn of his utility empire, the one-time multi-millionaire sat in the Pennsylvania Railroad's East Liberty yards—where the circus train is shunted when the big top's in town.

Insull consented to see one Pittsburgh reporter and to pose for one Pittsburgh cameraman.

Pleasantly he moved to his stateroom to pose for the photographer, who asked him to rest his head on his hands. Insull refused, retorting:

"I haven't taken to holding my head in my hand yet."

The photographer's wife had sent an invitation to the former utility magnate—he looked like her late father; wouldn't he visit with them for the night? Insull laughed and said:

"You can tell your wife that I thank her very much, but I have a previous engagement with Uncle Sam."

Firemen Injured When Walls Crash

PATERSON, N. J., May 8.—(AP.)—At least a dozen firemen were injured shortly before midnight when St. Bonaventure's lyceum building, weakened by a fire that brought most of the city's apparatus to the scene, unexpectedly collapsed.

Earlier in the evening the young women of the parish had held a social on the main floor. Everyone had left when the fire was discovered.

One Dead, 10 Burned In Grain Dust Blast

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—(AP.)—One man was killed and 10 were burned, five of them seriously, in a sudden series of three violent grain dust explosions this morning in the huge Missouri Pacific elevator on the Mississippi River front in South St. Louis.

Residents Protest New Incinerator

Fifty-six residents living in the neighborhood of the proposed incinerator site at Larimer avenue extension and Clifford street, Twelfth Ward, have protested to City Council against the construction of such a plant in that neighborhood.

'The Thin Man'

Dashiell Hammett is recognized by readers and critics everywhere as the outstanding master of detective story fiction in America today—and "The Thin Man" is his greatest story! Hammett has an unsurpassed first hand knowledge of the underworld, gained through many years as an actual operative of the famous Pinkerton Detective Agency. And all this knowledge of mobsters, molls and con men is brought vividly to life in this stark, breathless murder mystery that reaches from New York's smart set right down into the grim world of the real gunmen and racketeers. Don't miss the first thrilling installment of "The Thin Man" in Thursday's Sun-Telegraph.

BOMBS WRECK BEER STORE, MARKET

Dynamite Blast Hurts Widow, Imperils Her 3 Children

Two dynamite bombings, one in Pittsburgh, the other in Russellton, West Deer Township, motives for which could not be learned, were reported to police and county detectives today.

WINDOWS SHATTERED

The bomb was placed between two buildings. One of them was extensively damaged, county detectives said. An adjoining building was shaken and windows broken by the blast.

Mrs. Borga's three children and John Massimino, his wife and eight children, who live next door, were not injured.

Assistant District Attorney William J. O'Donnell took charge of the investigation after County Detectives John Dudstadt and John Burke had made the preliminary report.

Detectives reported that in each of the bombings, the supposed victims were hesitant to discuss possible motives.

BLAST ON 'HILL'

A dynamite bomb placed under a front porch at the fruit market of Pete Macri, 64, of 1306 Colwell street, early today, broke windows in the neighborhood and threw Macri and other residents from their beds.

The blast tore away the porch of the two-story brick building and slightly damaged the cellar. Macri and a helper, Tom Messina, 35, were sleeping on the second floor. Neither was injured.

STORK IGNORES RED TAPE

International News Service.

WINCHESTER, Va., May 8.—The world can be assured Charity will not be the Christian name of Mrs. Lillie Funk's offspring, who slipped into the world outside of the offices of the Board of Public Welfare in City Hall yesterday, to which she had appealed for hospitalization.

Unable to raise the money the hospitals required, Mrs. Funk, whose husband died five months ago, waited with mental anguish as the board started to untangle its red tape.

Friends gave the mother and her babe the best attention they could, carefully placed them in an automobile and started for Frederick County to find a hospital that would admit the pair.

But they had not gone far beyond the city limits when an ambulance overtook them and brought the mother and child to a hospital here. The board's red tape had been untangled.

Reserve Officers To Meet Thursday

The Pittsburgh Chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Ninety-Ninth Division headquarters in the Westinghouse Building Thursday.

Betrothed?

ISABEL DODGE SLOANE

DERBY WINNER'S OWNER MAY WED

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Society was intrigued today by a rumor that the engagement of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, "lucky lady of the turf," to Milton W. Holden, divorced husband of Fifi Widener and former Philadelphia grocery delivery boy, would soon be announced.

Although the rumor lacked confirmation, it was pointed out that the charming divorcee and Holden, an "eligible" society bachelor, have been seen together frequently of late.

Holden was the first to congratulate Mrs. Sloane when her thoroughbred Cavalcade won the Kentucky Derby at Louisville Saturday, and later was a member of a small party which accompanied Mrs. Sloane in her private car to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for golf.

Mrs. Sloane's father was the late John F. Dodge, Detroit motor magnate.

Trumpeter's Wife Granted Divorce

Mrs. Willa McFarland, of 201 North Sprague avenue, Bellevue, was granted a divorce by Judge John P. Egan from Earl T. McFarland, trumpeter in Eddie Peyton's orchestra. She charged McFarland would come home drunk and beat her. They were married three years ago.

Divorces were also granted William C. Robinson against Bessie E. Robinson, Randolph Gothart from Louise Gothart, Ruth Martin from George P. Martin and Alfred J. Bennett from Ethel H. Bennett.

'GET DILLINGER' NOW MOTTO FOR U. S.

Government Will Trap Desperado Some Day, Keenan Says

CHICAGO, May 8.—(AP.)—The government has avowed to "get" John Dillinger—even if it has to wait until the 1,201st clue is run down.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan asserted last night that "systematic, persistent, intelligent effort" would prove the undoing of the desperado who can vanish into thin air as easily as he stirs up headlines. Keenan curtly said:

"There are no super-sleuths."

Lew Baker, day warden at the Crown Point (Ind.) Jail, from which Dillinger made his "wooden gun" flight, said the fugitive apparently did not lock three jail attendants and eight trustees in a cell.

He testified yesterday at the trial of Ernest Blunk, finger-print expert charged with aiding in the estate, that Dillinger forced him into a cell and the door was closed. He was asked:

"Who closed the door?"

He replied:

"I don't know. It must have been closed by someone else. It must be closed from a lever box at the end of the hallway and Dillinger was standing in front of the cell at the time."

BANK CLUE 'FLOPS'

LONDON, O., May 8.—(AP.)—Fingerprints found in the First National Bank at Fostoria after two men held up the bank with a machine gun barrage that wounded five persons and fled with $17,000, are not those of known members of the John Dillinger gang of desperadoes, H. C. Robinson, officer in charge of the state bureau of criminal identification, said today.

Robinson finished developing the prints today and compared them with those of Dillinger, Homer Van Meter, John Hamilton and others of the Dillinger gang.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 8.—(INS.)—Evelyn Frechette, the part Indian sweetheart of Desperado John Dillinger, must go on trial here May 15, on charges of conspiracy to harbor and assist America's No. 1 outlaw.

Two others indicted on the same charges, Dr. Clayton May and Mrs. Augusta Salt, his nurse, will go to trial on the same date.

LOVE 'LINGERS' FOR DOUG, JR.

International News Service.

MANCHESTER, England, May 8.—Several items not on the ordinary theater bill today attracted Manchester theatergoers to "The Winding Journey," co-starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Gertrude Lawrence, British actress to whom Fairbanks has been reported engaged.

Not the least was the fact that many members of last night's cheering opening-night audience saw in the plot of the play an analogy to the marriage of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., and Mary Pickford.

Another item of interest was that the play itself, although not regarded highly by critics, is noteworthy for its prolonged love scenes. One of these lasts for 20 minutes, and the fact that the starred couple have been reported planning to marry during the run of the play added to its effectiveness.

Fairbanks, making his first stage appearance in England, and Miss Lawrence were warmly received by a brilliant, packed house. Critics were unanimous in declaring both scored great personal successes.

Fighting Forest Fire

STATE FOREST FIREMEN AT WORK IN BRADFORD WOODS

Unionville State Forest Fire Department members at work in the 100-acre plot in Bradford Woods laid waste by fire. Notice the rising smoke, the grayed brush. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

FIRE RAVAGES FORESTS HERE

Approximately 1,100 acres of Allegheny County woodland had been destroyed today after two forest fires, fanned by a heavy wind, swept over the areas yesterday and last night.

About 200 volunteer firemen from Leetsdale and Fair Oaks boroughs, aided by farmers and Boy Scouts, battled the stubborn blaze that spread over approximately 1,000 acres in Sewickley Township yesterday.

Forest Warden Edward Costello, of Glenfield, directed the work.

One hundred acres in Bradford Woods, on the Perry highway, had been blackened today by a forest fire. Farmers in the neighborhood pressed a tractor into service and surrounded the threatened area with a widely-plowed ditch.

The Civilian Conservation Corps was called from North Park and 150 men under Capt. James Hood Miller attacked the flames, assisted by the Wexford Volunteer Fire Department and the State Forest Fire Service from Unionville, Beaver County.

Dillinger 'Host' To See Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP.)—Emil Wannatka, proprietor of the Little Bohemia Lodge at Spider Lake, Wis., where John Dillinger fought it out with federal agents is in town to see President Roosevelt. He said:

A. W. MELLON CLEARED BY U. S. JURY

of Courts J. Wood Clark, who passed it over to Judge Gibson. The judge, noting the finding, returned the bill to Clark with orders that it be filed.

Among other members on the grand jury besides Beeson were five laborers, two mechanics, two farmers, two engineers, one carpenter, a plumber, an author, a lumber dealer and a banker.

Before retiring to deliberate at 3 p. m., yesterday, the jury had heard five witnesses called by the government.

Among them were three government employes. R. H. Maguire, in charge of income tax collections in the office of Collector of Internal Revenue David L. Lawrence; Lee R. Pennington, of the Washington office of the Department of Justice, and Donald A. Banks, a special agent in the Pittsburgh office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The other witnesses heard were Carl R. Korb, a vice president of the Union Trust Company and H. A. Phillips, a confidential manager for Mellon, listed as an employe of the Mellon National Bank.

CHURCH BLAMES ROOSEVELT

Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, said today:

"The action of the grand jury in exonerating Mr. Andrew W. Mellon from the attempt of the government to make him a criminal without the privilege of having a hearing and making an argument in defending the honesty of his income tax return will gratify every impartial mind in this country.

r"In seeking to justify his assault upon Mr. Mellon's character, Attorney General Cummings made the announcement that it is his policy to present to each citizen the government's tax cla mi,and if the full amount of that claim is not paid without any further discussion of the matter, a criminal indictment will be demanded.

"The cool, calculating villiany of this statement has shocked America, and in attempting to enforce such a ruthless policy the government has jeopardized the liberty of every citizen.

"The action of the government in Mr. Mellon's case is a shame and an outrage, and the responsibility for this unpardonable act of tyranny must rest directly upon President Roosevelt."

LIQUOR LINKED IN BUS CRASH

FREMONT, O., May 8.—(AP.)—Nine injured passengers were questioned as county officials and inspectors for the State Utilities Commission began their inquiry into the deaths of two persons in a collision of a Great Eastern Stage and a Lake Shore Electric baggage car at Clyde on Sunday.

Mrs. Edith Eskilson, of Leamington, Ont., yesterday told Coroner D. W. Philo and Prosecutor Glen Bracy that she smelled liquor on the breath of the bus driver, David Yeigh, of Euclid, O., who is near death in Memorial Hospital here.

Two others, Willie Mims, a porter on the bus, and Meyer Brie, 27, of Coney Island, a student driver, said they noticed a "sweet-like odor" in Yeigh's breath, but did not detect the odor of liquor.

Bus line officials attributed the accident to a blow-out of a tire on the right front wheel.

TEXT OF MELLON BILL U. S. JURY IGNORED

Following is a copy of the bill which the grand jury ignored in clearing Andrew W. Mellon of income tax evasion:

Andrew W. Mellon, hereinafter called the defendant, heretofore, on to-wit, the 15th day of March, 1932, at the city of Pittsburgh, in the state of Pennsylvania, and within the western district of Pennsylvania and within the jurisdiction of this court, unlawfully, willfully, knowingly, feloniously and fraudulently did attempt to defeat and evade an income tax upon his net income for the calendar year 1931, as hereinafter set forth, which tax was imposed by an act of Congress, approved May 29, 1928, entitled "An Act to reduce and equalize taxation, provide revenue and for other purposes," which act is known as the Revenue Act of 1928, which said unlawful and willful attempt to evade and defeat said tax was by the means and in the manner following:

PITTSBURGH RESIDENT

That the said defendant, during the calendar year ending December 31, 1931, and up to and including March 15, 1932, was an individual, a citizen of the United States, who was single and who had no dependents, and whose legal residence and principal place of business were in the said City of Pittsburgh, in the State of Pennsylvania, within the Twenty-third Internal Revenue Collection District of the United States for the State of Pennsylvania, and who was a person required by law, after the close of the calendar year 1931, and on or before March 15, 1932, to make to the Collector of Internal Revenue for said Twenty-third Revenue Collection District aforesaid, under oath, a return for the calendar year ending December 31, 1931, stating specifically the items of his gross income and the deductions and credits allowed by Title I (income tax) of the said Revenue Act of 1928, by reason of the fact...that the regular annual accounting period of the defendant was on the basis of the calendar year and not on the basis of a fiscal year, and by reason of the fact . . . that in said calendar year 1931, he, the said defendant, had and derived and received a gross income (computed in accordance with the provisions of said Revenue Act of 1928, and exclusive of items which, under the provisions of said Revenue Act, shall not be included in such gross income and shall be exempt from taxation, and including capital net gain from the sale of assets held more than two years, amounting to more than $5,000, that is to say, the sum of, to-wit, $9,212,905.21, derived as follows,

CAPITAL GAINS

And that he, the said defendant, had and derived and received for the said calendar year 1931, a net income, to wit, the said gross income less the deductions allowed by law, of to wit, $7,767,173.73, including capital net gain as aforesaid, upon which said net income of said defendant for said calendar year, 1931, after allowance of all proper credits, as income tax of, to wit, $1,363,703.63, under the provisions of said Revenue Act of 1928, became and was due by him, the said defendant, on to wit, March 15, 1932, to the United States of America, at least one-fourth of the amount of which should then and there have been paid by the said defendant to the Collector of Internal Revenue for the said Twenty-third Internal Revenue Collection District aforesaid; and that the defendant on, to wit, the 15th day of March, 1932, well knowing all the premises aforesaid, and being indebted to the United States of America in the amount aforesaid, by reason of the said tax imposed by the aforesaid Act of Congress, in the City of Pittsburgh aforesaid, within the Western District of Pennsylvania and within the jurisdiction of this court, then and there well knowing that the gross income had and derived and received by him during said calendar year 1931 was as aforesaid, and well knowing that the deductions to which he, the said defendant, was entitled for said calendar year 1931 were not in excess of the amount aforesaid, and well knowing that the net income derived and received by him during the said calendar year 1931 was as aforesaid, unlawfully did willfully, knowingly, feloniously and fraudulently attempt to evade and defeat a tax of, to wit, $716,144.27, upon his said net income for the said calendar year 1931, in that he, the said defendant, well knowing all the premises aforesaid, did on, to wit, March 15, 1932, make a false and fraudulent income tax return for said calendar year 1931, and on, to wit, said 15th day of March, 1932, did file and cause to be filed with the said Collector of Internal Revenue at Pittsburgh aforesaid said false and fraudulent income tax return for the said calendar year 1931, prepared as aforesaid, stating specifically therein the items of his gross income (exclusive of capital net loss claimed and shown on said return of, to wit, $3,625,758.16), for said calendar year 1931 to have been the sum of $6,758,707.12 and no more, derived as follows:

DEDUCTIONS CONTESTED

Salaries, wages, commissions, etc., United States government	$ 15,000.00
Interest on bank deposits, notes, corporation bonds, etc. (except interest on tax-free covenant bonds)	1,187,854.93
Interest on tax-free covenant bonds upon which a tax was paid at source	72,601.58
Rents and royalties (loss)	139,421.02
Loss from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc.	552,968.56
Taxable interest on Liberty Bonds, etc.	1,965.63
Dividends on stock of domestic corporations	6,102,497.05
Other income:
Refunds	2,226.40
Foreign interest	57,184.21
Improvement leases	11,766.90
Gross income (exclusive of capital net loss claimed as aforesaid)	$6,758,707.12

And stating specifically the items of deduction allowed by the revenue act of 1928 for said calendar year 1931 (other than deductions taken in arriving at gross income aforesaid) to have been the sum of $1,205,832.56, on account of the following, to-wit:

Interest paid	$ 672,432.58
Taxes paid	99,453.32
Contributions	340,079.37
Other deductions authorized by law	93,867.29
Total deductions	$1,205,832.56

ERRORS CHARGED

And stating therein no other items of deductions, and stating specially his net income, to-wit, the said gross income less the said deductions allowed by law for said calendar year 1931 (exclusive of said capital net loss claimed as aforesaid), to have been the sum of $5,552,874.56 and no more, and showing the total tax due and payable by him, the said defendant, for said calendar year 1931, after allowance of all credits, to have been the sum of $647,548.11, and no more, which amount was adjusted by correction of errors in computation to, to-wit, $647,559.36; and that, on, to-wit, March 15, 1932, the said defendant, in the aforesaid income tax return, willfully, feloniously, fraudulently and knowingly, and with intent to defeat and evade income tax as aforesaid, stated, claimed and asserted that he had sustained, suffered, incurred and had losses on the sale of certain stock acquired on June 24, 1930, to-wit, stock of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, in the sum and amount of, to-wit, $5,766.30, and had sustained, suffered, incurred and had capital net losses on the sale of certain capital assets held more than two years, to-wit, stock of the said Pittsburgh Coal Company, in the sum and amount of, to wit, $5,672,189.95 and had sustained, suffered, incurred and had losses on the sale of certain stock acquired on September 12, 1930, to-wit, stock of the Western Public Service Company, in the sum and amount of, to-wit, $49,500, and had sustained, suffered, incurred and had capital net losses on the sale of certain capital assets held more than two years, to-wit, stock of the said Western Public Service Company, in the sum and amount of, to-wit, $352,500; he, the said defendant, then and there well knowing the facts . . . that said statements, claims and assertions of losses as aforesaid on said stock of said Pittsburgh Coal Company and Western Public Service Company, were wholly false and untrue, and which he, the said defendant then and there well knew to be wholly false, untrue and fraudulent; and in that he, the said defendant, although well knowing the premises aforesaid, did then and there falsely and fraudulently deduct from his gross income for said calendar year 1931 as aforesaid the said claimed and asserted losses on said stock of said Pittsburgh Coal Company and said Western Public Service Company, and did therein and thereby show in said income tax return for said calendar year 1931 a much smaller amount of net income than he, the said defendant, had derived and received for said calendar year 1931, and did therein and thereby consequently show in said income tax return for said calendar year 1931 a less amount of income taxes than he, the said defendant, actually and lawfully owed for said calendar year 1931, as he, the said defendant, then and there well knew; and in that the said defendant, although well and truly knowing that the income taxes due from him for said calendar year 1931 were as aforesaid, did pay to said Collector of Internal Revenue the sum of $647,559.36, and no more, as and for his income taxes for said calendar year 1931; and so the said defendant, in manner and form as alleged, did then and there unlawfully, willfully, knowingly, feloniously and fraudulently attempt to defeat and evade income taxes for the calendar year 1931; against the peace and dignity of the United States of America, and contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided. [Section 146 (b), Revenue Act of 1928.]

700 TEACHERS OPPOSE OATH OF FEALTY

Irving M. Ives, Republican, and amended by the Senate, reads:

"I solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States of America, the Constitution of the State of New York, and that I will faithfully perform all duties of any position to which I am now assigned."

Only that, and nothing more.

Elliott Janeway, spokesman for the Anti-War Committee, said the group had fought the bill "because it tends towards Fascism and will restrict the constitutional rights of teachers."

Janeway said the committee is an affiliate of the American League against War and Fascism. He said the organization has no Communistic tendencies and then added that the aid of Communists would not be rejected.

The league, he said, is an offshoot of the United States Congress Against War. The league's officers are: Harry F. Ward, chairman; Robert Morss Lovett, Lincoln Steffens and Earl Browder, vice chairmen; Annie E. Gray, treasurer; Donald Henderson, secretary, and Ida Dailes, assistant secretary.

Ward is a professor at the Union Theological Seminary, and Lovett a professor at the University of Chicago. Henderson, a former instructor at Columbia University, was ousted last year because of Communistic leanings. Browder is general secretary of the Natoinal Communistic Party.

Literature of the U. S. Congress Against War, parent body of both the teachers' group and the League Against War and Fascism, reveals the following named prominent Communists as members of the "arrangements committee:" William Z. Foster, Gilbert Green, Young Communists' League of U. S. A.; Clarence Hathaway, editor Daily Worker; Harold Hickerson, Workers Ex-Service-Men's League, and Robert Minor, Communist Party, U. S. A.

Charges Communism Taught in Schools

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(INS.)—Charging the Communism was being taught in many of the nation's public schools, Representative Kenney (Dem.), of New Jersey, today introduced a resolution in the House forcing all public school teachers to swear to uphold the federal Constitution. Kenney asserted:

"Throughout the country there are many teachers whose loyalty to the government may be questioned seriously. The nation should have the benefit of its children receiving instruction from those who are in accord with the principles of the Constitution."

Kenney declared Communist tendencies of school teachers were particularly evident in the larger cities, including New York and Chicago, as well as in New Jersey.

Mayor Eddie's Arrest Ordered, He's Unafraid

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 8.—(AP.)—Mayor Eddie McCloskey, traveling about the state in his campaign for Secretary of Internal Affairs, faces arrest upon his return home.

The Cambria County Court yesterday ruled the Mayor failed to obey a court order for the reinstatement of Detective John F. Carroll, ousted in 1932, and directed McCloskey and Police Chief Harry F. Klink should be arrested.

McCloskey, informed of the court action in Philadelphia, said he was "no more scared than I was before."

If forced to reinstate the detective, McCloskey said, he would instruct him to "devote his entire time in trying to get something on me, or in hunting Dillinger, or in arresting all the ballot thieves."

MAY 12 NAMED HOSPITAL DAY

The birthday of Florence Nightingale, English philanthropist and nurse consulted by this country during the Civil War, will be celebrated by hospitals throughout the nation as National Hospital Day, May 12.

Issuing a message for the day, President Franklin D. Roosevelt said:

"It is a good thing to celebrate National Hospital Day at least once a year and in this way, to focus the natio.'s attention upon the institutions we have created to shelter the sick and health-exhausted citizens of our country."

100 NEVILLE PUPILS STRIKE

Retaliating in protest to refusal of the Neville Township School Board, which embraces all of Neville Island, to recognize their committee, more than 100 junior high school students again went on strike today because three of their teachers had been dropped.

It was their second walkout within 10 days. They returned to their classes after the first strike only after members of the school board are said to have promised them a hearing over dismissal of the teachers.

At a board meeting last night a student delegation of 12 appeared, but was denied a hearing. Board President William Irvine, Sr., refused to recognize the body.

The controversy between students and board members started recently when Miss Martha Willard, Miss Twilla Johnston and Mrs. Grace Constantine were notified that their contracts would not be renewed for next term.

A. L. Phillips, Jr., a member of the board, said that last night's meeting had been confined to discussion of the budget. The next regular meeting is scheduled for May 28.

Carrying American flags, banners and placards, the students planned a parade and demonstration today through Neville streets. They gathered early this morning on the school grounds, but refused to go to their studies.

WIFE CHARGES KNIFE THREAT

Climaxing a series of abuses, Harry N. Kuehner held his wife on the floor and spit in her face, the wife, Mrs. Theresia Kuehner, of 2100 Brent street, testified today.

At a hearing on her divorce suit before Judge Thomas M. Marshall, Mrs. Kuehner declared her husband became provoked with her one night for attending a moving picture show, and met her with a butcher knife in his hand when she came home.

Seeking a divorce from Harry Orris, Jr., Mrs. Anna E. Orris told Judge Marshall that another woman was so much in love with Orris that she wanted to "keep him." Mrs. Orris, who lives at 810 Fifth avenue, said she was forced to support herself by maintaining a rooming house

asks Helen Hayes [A RECENT OLD GOLD CONVERT]

Dear Miss Hayes:—

There isn't any mystery about the exceptional smoothness of Old Golds. The whole credit belongs to Mother Nature, Father Time and his ally, Experience.

Old Gold tobacco is picked from the heart of the stalk, where Nature stores her richest tobacco fragrance and flavor. Then it is aged and mellowed at least thirty months. Then it is blended, for delightful mildness and taste appeal, by America's most experienced tobacconists (Est. 1760).

Such tobacco needs no artificial flavoring. And that's the FINAL reason why Old Golds are so easy on the throat; so cool and biteless.

Sincerely,
P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.
ESTABLISHED 1760

P. S.—The net of it is this, Miss Hayes:

NEW MOONEY PLEA STUDIED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—(AP.)—Tom Mooney's hopes for freedom, blocked thus far at every move in his long struggle for exoneration, today rest with the Federal courts.

District Judge A. F. St. Sure, before whom a habeas corpus petition was filed yesterday, charging Mooney was convicted on perjured evidence of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, said he expects to study the matter several days before taking action.

In the event Judge St. Sure issues an order to show cause why the writ should not be issued, Warden James B. Holohan, of San Quentin Prison where Mooney is a prisoner, said he would ask the Attorney General of California to represent him.

Procter's Widow Inherits Wealth

CINCINNATI, May 8.—(AP.)—Col. William Cooper Procter, chairman of the board of the Procter & Gamble Co., left the bulk of his estate to his widow, it was revealed with the filing of his will for probate.

The amount of the estate, not divulged or estimated, was supposed to run into millions of dollers.

FINED BUT GETS PLEDGE OF AID

John Planinac, 19, arrested for writing numbers, added force to his plea for clemency today by taking off one of his shoes and showing a big hole in the sole to Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Morals Court.

Planinac, who lives at 104 South Seventeenth street, declared he was writing numbers to buy a new pair of shoes because it was the only job he could find.

The judge promised to buy a new pair of shoes for Planinac, and added:

"But I can't free you of this charge. I'll have to fine you $5."

Identifies Wife's Body at Morgue

The body of a woman found between the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks at Emblem, near Versailles, Saturday, was identified at the county morgue last night as that of Mrs. Esther Bellairt, 46, of 177 South McDonald street, McDonald. Mrs. Bellairt's husband, Julian Bellairt, who identified the body, said his wife left home April 30 to visit relatives in Pittsburgh.

FURNITURE LEFT TO MUSEUM

By her will filed for probate today, Miss Anna Hilke gives the Carnegie Museum its choice of household goods and furnishings in her home, 3853 California avenue. The remainder goes to the Salvation Army.

The will disposes of an estate valued at $15,000. After funeral expenses, not to exceed $5,000, are paid, the principal is placed in trust with the Union Trust Company. The I. O. O. F. home, North Side, the Emanuel Baptist Church, and the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church are to receive the income in equal shares.

U. S. Court Rejects Auto Damage Suit

The suit of Donald St. Pierre, 22, for $30,000 damages from James Heim, of Kane, Pa., growing out of an automobile accident five years ago, was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, who, in an opinion handed down several weeks ago, held that the case did not come within the jurisdiction of the United States District Court.

When the suit was filed Pierre claimed residence at Elmira, N. Y., but the court held he was a resident of Kane.

EAST LIBERTY Broad & Collins OPEN WEDNESDAY NIGHT

REED ATTACKS PROCESSING TAXES

A crowd which almost filled North Side Carnegie Hall last night heard Senator David A. Reed denounce federal processing taxes as strategems to "pour Yankee money into the South and far West." It was the Senator's closing personal appeal for votes in this section, and he asked earnestly for support from citizens of his home county.

Outstanding in the speeches of the evening was the endeavor to show that the Senator had been a consistent friend of veterans, despite his vote against the bonus. Albert Yahres, past commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Attorney Ben Giffen, commander of East Liberty Post No. 5, American Legion, of which Reed was the first commander, declared the Senator had been in the forefront of veterans' legislation.

Raymond D. Evans, chairman of the Reed campaign in Allegheny County, pointed to a group of disabled veterans on the platform, and said they knew of the Senator's service, as they had met him in France, when all were in the Army.

FRIEND OF SLAVS

Nicholas Unkovich, son of the Jugo-Slav consul, said the Senator had been a friend of Slavs, who should not be swayed by some "self-appointed" leaders to any other candidate, and took a shot at some recent Pinchot appointments when he said:

"The Slavic people are not to be won or swayed by the empty recognition of a few representatives of their races, but are and will be influenced by real, practical and constructive service for their race as a whole. This service Senator Reed has given us."

Gabriel H. Moyer, manager of the Workmen's Insurance Fund in the first Pinchot administration, denounced the Governor, and was particularly caustic in his attacks on Mrs. Pinchot for her picketing activities in labor troubles. The farmers, he said, would vote for Reed, despite the highways recently built. Many roads, he charged, had been built in the interests of friends of the Governor and Mrs. Pinchot. He declared he didn't want any "so-called Progressive Republican in Washington."

CLASS HATRED CHARGED

Pinchot, he said, would array the masses against the classes, while Reed favored orderly, constitutional government. He attacked the assessment of state employes.

Reed, apparently noting some indorsements of his candidacy within the past few days, declared he had never joined in any movement that had its origin in racial or religious intolerance. By some of his auditors this was interpreted as comment on his indorsement by the German-American Federation at the same meeting at which Adolf Hitler was cheered.

Reed said he had opposed processing taxes and the extention of the NRA through codes which in effect broke down the anti-trust laws. He approved relief measures, and declared he had obtained money for that purpose when Gov. Pinchot was unable to get it from federal agencies because of alleged misrepresentation of conditions.

ASSAILS PINCHOT

Directing himself to the Governor espousal of the cause of the "plain people," the Senator said:

"My opponent announces that he is the one and only person who has the interests of the people at heart. The only proof of this is his own unsupported statement. He has never been known to work in or contribute to any hospital or other charity, such as the rest of us have done for many years without boasting of it. He has savagely cut the appropriations for hospitals all over the state, at the same time that he was demanding increases in appropriations for his own press agents and secretaries. In other words, his love for the people is apparent only when he is running for office.

"I am not willing to compete with him in making such claims. It is better that the facts should speak for themselves. I have lived and worked in Allegheny County throughout my life; my family and myself have consistently supported Allegheny County hospitals, colleges and other charities, both by regular annual contributions and by work as officers of those institutions. My interest in this work and in the welfare of the plain people was shown many years before I first ran for the Senate."

SENATOR CHEERED

References to the Senator's record by other speakers were frequently cheered, and the Senator's recital of his own attitude toward recovery legislation brought applause.

Mrs. Walter Riggs, vice chairman of the Reed committee, urged women to aid him and introduced Mrs. Suzanna Edmonds as the "mother of the veterans." Mrs. Edmonds asked for votes for Reed.

A number of Republican leaders were on the platform or in the audience. Among them were County Chairman William H. Coleman, Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport; Mrs. Laura J. Hinnau, vice chairman of the county committee; former Councilmen C. B. Connelley, W. Y. English and Frank Duggan, and Miles Bryan, of McKees Rocks, reputed to be supporting Charles J. Margiotti for Governor.

Senator Reed repeated that he was not linked with any candidate for Governor.

Barrickman Backed By Roosevelt Club

The Roosevelt-Garner Club of Pittsburgh, professing a membership of 3,500, has announced its indorsement of Van A. Barrickman as candidate for Democratic County chairman. James Brennan is president.

TAX UTILITIES, SAYS MARGIOTTI

ALTOONA, Pa., May 8.—(AP.)—Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, seeking the Republican nomination for Governor, predicted last night the Democrats will "clean out" the Republican party unless the Republicans themselves "clean out" their present leaders on May 15.

Addressing a gathering of 2,000 in a downtown theater, the attorney centered an attack on Attorney General William A. Schnader, saying he had been selected out of a group of 16 candidates "by the Mellon-Vare Grundy crowd because he would do their bidding."

Gen. Edward C. Shannon, he said, "is only angry because he didn't get the support Schnader did and is in the race for a grudge fight."

Margiotti said he favors a "new deal" in the state banking setup and promised to force the taxing of utility companies' real estate "even if I have to get down from the Governor chair to prosecute the case."

Margiotti also said he would reduce taxes on real estate by 50 per cent and would demand revenues be made available for support of public education and for old age pensions.

PHILLIPS SEEN AS VICTOR

Thomas W. Phillips is the only candidate for Republican gubernatorial nomination who can win in November, according to both Alexander P. Lindsay and James A. Walker.

Lindsay, Allegheny County campaign manager for Phillips, said in a statement today that the rank and file of all parties had lost confidence in the old bosses. He predicted victory for Phillips as the only unbossed candidate working for the people.

Former Secretary of the Commonwealth Walker, of Philadelphia, declared Phillips offered a new deal in politics.

Rankin Progressives Indorse Pinchot

The Progressive Club of Rankin today announced indorsement of Gov. Gifford Pinchot for the United States senatorial nomination and Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon for governor. Others approved were: Carl C. Baldridge for State Senate, Forty-fourth District; Michael E. Sweisey, Patrick Mooney and Andrew Farina for Legislature, Tenth District.

SCHNADER ASKS SCHOOLS FREE OF POLITICS

Denouncing interference of politicians in the school system, Attorney General William A. Schnader today opened a busy day of speeches in the Pittsburgh district.

Speaking at his headquarters in Grant street, Schnader declared:

"The worst thing that can happen to a school system is for it to fall under political rule. The schools belong to the people. They are for the children.

"Political control or interference never helped any school or school system."

Declaring himself against further centralization in government and duplications and overlapping in local rule, Schnader stated he had made "no deals to get votes," adding:

"I have not dangled false hopes before the electors and asked them to vote for me as a miracle man. I have not tried to sell any gold bricks."

Strengthening of the election laws and a square deal for labor are also among his objectives, Schnader said.

After attending a luncheon for women workers, he was to make three radio addresses and culminate his day's schedule with a speech tonight at Elks' Temple, McKeesport.

According to advance plans, the attitude of the Attorney General toward labor problems will be outlined in his McKeesport speech. Republican County Chairman William H. Coleman, himself a McKeesporter, is to preside at tonight's meeting.

Schnader will leave for the East tonight, covering ground which recently has been traversed by Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon and Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, two of his leading opponents.

Pinchot Aide Assails Reed as Friend of Rich

Senator David A. Reed's attitude toward all legislation is controlled by his anxiety to protect the capitalistic classes, Horace Thomas, Jr., has declared.

Thomas, chairman of the committee supporting Gifford Pinchot for Republican nomination to the United States Senate, last night at Peabody High School attacked Reed as having voted against the interests of the soldier. He said:

"Reed's life and associations are such that he cannot understand the opinions or needs of the ordinary person. To him, we, who are of the rank and file of the common people, are something to be tolerated, but never consulted."

Thomas illustrated his point by saying Reed had in the halls of Congress called the people of Pennsylvania "a lot of dunderheads" when they failed to vote as he desired.

Pinchot, Thomas said, would fight for the people and the policies of the President. Pinchot will take orders only from his own conscience, Thomas averred.

Vote-Getters Hold Candidates' Forum

An open forum for legislative candidates in the Third District will be held at 7:30 p. m. today in Schenley High School by the Vote-Getters League.

SHANNON CALLS LIQUOR GROUP VOTERS' FOES

HARRISBURG, May 8.—(AP.)—The "New York liquor interests" are accused by Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, Republican candidate for Governor, of supporting Republican "bosses' candidates" for next week's primary election. He said last night:

"On May 15, the fight of the people versus the bosses and the New York liquor interests will be fought to a decision.

"The only question before us is: Will, or will not, the bosses' candidates be permitted to lead the Republican party to defeat in November."

Shannon addressed his talk to the farming population of the state and promised "wherever possible, to give the farmers the opportunity to obtain employment on local projects to the amount of their taxation."

His speech was broadcast over Station WHP.

While the Lieutenant Governor was speaking, Grover C. Talbot, Speaker of the House and candidate for Lieutenant Governor, was asking United States Senator David A. Reed either to remove Vincent A. Carroll, of Philadelphia, as chairman of the Reed-for-Senator volunteers or halt Carroll's use of "your candidacy as an excuse to promote his own interests."

Carroll is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, but Reed has repeatedly said he has no running mates.

Disabled Veterans Indorse Robinson

Greater Pittsburgh Chapter No. 8, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, has indorsed the legislative candidacy in the Sixth District of Norman A. Robinson. Robinson is past commander of the chapter.

Seeks Economy in Tax Collection

If elected to State Senate in the Forty-fourth District, George E. Mills pledges himself to appoint a committee of tax experts to recommend a more efficient and economical tax collection system. He favors stronger banking laws and social legislation.

Two Meetings for Shannon Planned

A meeting supporting the candidacy of Edward C. Shannon for Governor will be held in Fifth Avenue High School at 8:30 p. m. today. Attorney Horton Smith will be principal speaker.

Another Shannon meeting will be held at the same time in Connelley Trade School. In a formal statement today, Coroner W. J. McGregor indorsed the Shannon candidacy.

M'Kay, Schullman To Address Meet

Marion K. McKay and Alexander H. Schullman, candidates for Congress in the Thirty-second District, will speak in Morningside School tomorrow night.

Jesse M. Wesoky, legislative candidate in the Second District, will explain his platform, "A New Deal Plus a New Deck."

TEACHER FLAYS POLITICIANS

Proposing to wipe out government of, by and for politicians, Alma Double is a candidate for Legislature in the Fifth District.

For 17 years a school teacher, Miss Double stands for an equal opportunity for education for every child in the state.

With less money being spent, fewer teachers employed, and more children enrolled, education is going backward, she said in a statement today.

Vogt, Slav Council Indorse Shannon

Indorsement of the gubernatorial candidacy of Gen. Edward C. Shannon was announced today by Prothonotary John Vogt and by the Central Council of Slavic and Allied Civic Leagues of Allegheny County.

Stressing Shannon's home rule platform, Attorney Horton Smith spoke today at a noon meeting in Shannon headquarters, Magee Building.

Vann will address a meeting of the Thirteenth Ward Democratic organization at Carnegie Library, Lang and Hamilton avenues, tonight. Other speakers will be Mrs. Mary Jane Clark, Edward Tappe and Albert F. Steinmetz.

GLICK SPEAKS FOR SCHNADER

William A. Schnader is the gubernatorial candidate of the young and independent element of the Republican party, according to David Glick.

In an address last night, Glick said:

"It was the challenge of youth that brought out Bill Schnader as a candidate, and the old guard is following us. We have smashed what was known as the old machine. We will not deviate from our straight course because of the support that has followed in our wake."

Judge Fills Places On Election Boards

POLISH FALCONS FOR MARGIOTTI

The Polish Falcons of America have announced their indorsement of the candidacy of Charles J. Margiotti for Republican nomination for governor.

On the last lap of his campaign, Margiotti was today stumping eastward to Philadelphia. He planned to be in Lewiston at noon and Harrisburg in the afternoon.

Tomorrow he will visit Mt. Carmel, Bloomsburg, Berwick and Wilkes-Barre. Thursday morning he will spend in Philadelphia, finally leaving for Chester and later Wayne.

Friday he goes to Allentown, Northampton, Nazareth, Easton, Bethlehem and Southern Philadelphia. The tour will include speaking engagements on five state-wide radio programs.

CHURCH CHANGE TALK TONIGHT

Suggested merger of the United Brethren Church and the Evangelical Church will be discussed tonight at a dinner commemorating Founders Day of the Evangelical Church in Pittsburgh.

The dinner will be held at the First Evangelical Church, Center avenue and Graham street.

Among the speakers at the dinner will be Dr. Charles A. Mock, of Cleveland, associate editor of the Evangelical Messenger, and Dr. Warren H. Hays, of Wilkinsburg, who will bring fraternal greetings from the United Brethren Church.

Merging of the two churches has been discussed quietly for nearly a year, according to Walter W. Haller, toastmaster. Commissions to consider the matter have been appointed by both churches. They are to submit a final report in the late summer.

Rollator Refrigeration

In selecting a refrigerator for your home, remember this one caution: Look to the mechanism first. Beauty of design and finish—interior arrangement—convenience features—all these are important. But most important of all is the cold-making mechanism—the heart of any refrigerator.

Why is Rollator Refrigeration Better?

Think of a refrigerating mechanism with but three slowly moving parts—a mechanism with surplus power to make more cold than you'll ever need to chill foods and to freeze ice in the blistering heat of midsummer—one that uses so little current and saves so much food that users report savings up to $11 a month. • Think of a mechanism which, on factory test, has been running constantly for the equivalent of 29 years in your home and today is more efficient than when it started—a mechanism which actually improves with use. That's the kind of cold-making mechanism you get in the Norge. And only in Norge. For there is no other cold-making mechanism like the Rollator.

See the Norge before you buy

See the Norge. See its beauty of design and finish—its many conveniences that make better housekeeping easy. And certainly don't buy any refrigerator till you've learned about Rollator Refrigeration.

PLUNGE FAILS, DIES BY GUN

Rescued from drowning in the Ohio River, after a plunge in a reported attempt to end his life, Saturday, Ralph Lautz, 34, of 1541 Fallowfield avenue, Beechview, shot himself to death in Lane's Hotel, 118 Anderson street, early today.

Lautz put a bullet through his head when he was refused a glass of beer, police were told.

The body was identified at the morgue by Alfred R. Johnson, of 21 Orlando avenue, West View, a friend. Johnson said Lautz had been drinking.

Lautz was saved from drowning Saturday by river patrolmen after he had plunged from the McKees Rocks-North Side Bridge. He was to have a hearing today in North Side Police Court on a disorderly conduct charge as result of the jump.

SUIT LINKS FATE OF REDFERN

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP.)—The mystery of Paul Redfern, the aviator who disappeared while making a solo flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Rio de Janeiro in August, 1927, came up today in Bronx Supreme Court.

Justice Albert Cohn reserved decision on a motion for a change of venue in the suit brought by Thomas Snaith tor ecover $1,121.77 which he alleges he expended for equipment after being hired by Richard S. Redfern, late Rochester (N. Y.) real estate man, to lead an expedition into the Brazilian jungles in search of the missing flier, his nephew.

Mrs. Jennie B. Redfern is defendant in the action, as executrix of her husband's estate.

Fined for Mushball Raid on Park Seats

Magistrate Theodore L. Moritz, who is also the Mayor's secretary, fined Albert Diulus, 26, of 51 Boundary street, Oakland, $10 with a choice of 30 days on a charge of malicious mischief in Oakland Police Court today.

Police say that Diulus was the leader of boys who hustled 30 Schenley Park benches from Schenley Oval down over the hill and across the B. and O. tracks to a field last Friday and Saturday, to accommodate mushball spectators.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

Girls, Encouraged By Junior Birdmen Membership Privileges, Seek Special Class Group!

By J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander

Greetings, Junior Birdmen! Many letters from girl members of the Junior Birdmen of America have been received asking why they have been neglected. I really didn't know that they were, for although I have had no direct activities for them or any special news for girls, all of our daily columns have been directed to their attention just as much as to the boys. You will find in our column that girls have been given as much consideration as the boys in all of our activities.

But since you girls are asking for individual attention, we will give it to you with today's column which is written especially for you. But keep in mind that you have the same privileges as the boys to enter all of our activities and compete for all the many fine awards and honors that we will announce from time to time.

First All Girls' Post

Since we inaugurated our flight squadron plan yesterday, and today we conduct this column for girls, probably a combination of both these features would be a proper set-up for this column. Our National Director has on hand the first request for a flight squadron sent in by a girl. It comes from Miss Gladys A. Palmer, a teacher at the Belltown School in Stamford, Conn.

Miss Palmer sent in the names and addresses of 24 members of her school class with applications for their membership. She also enclosed 25 cents for Flight Squadron registration fee (to cover the cost of the official charter, officers' bars and booklet) with the hope that she was the first to forward a flight squadron application from a girl. Included in the unit, which as a matter of fact was the second application of all to be received and thus will become Flight Squadron No. 2, are 12 girls and 12 boys. I'll bet there is a tie between a girl member and a boy member when they vote for their officers.

That certainly does start our girls' column off with a high-dive and, sure enough, Miss Palmer's wish comes true. She was the first girl to send in for a flight squadron and this is a good time to announce it.

No Separate Class For Girls

Many girls have asked why the Junior Birdmen of America has not set aside a separate group for them. The answer to that is we should have set aside a special class group for the boys, for I have seen many girls in model plane meets and other contests come through with flying wings. As a matter of fact, in our recent motto contest, the winners of which were announced in Sunday's column, the girls played a very large role. So why should they be set apart, and isn't it even true in aviation! We have the names of Amelia Earhart, Ruth Nichols, Laura Ingles, Viola Gentry and many others ranking with such famous male fliers as Lindbergh, Hawkes and Rickenbacker.

However, while we have no separate group for the girls, and they can enter all of our model competitions and other activities, we will have a special added model-plane contest late in August for them, and then we will really see what they can do by themselves. But I expect to see the girls give the boys some keen competition at our July local and national meets and I am looking forward to seeing at least three girls winning the city model plane championship in their cities, out of our 18 local wing city meets.

Happy Landings!

And here we are already at the end of our "rudder!" It looks like we will have to pull the stick back and make an emergency landing, for, although I have plenty more to tell you girls about, time and space are up. Remember that all Junior Birdmen activities are for the benefit of all members—boys and girls. Just because we are called the Junior Birdmen, that by no means places you girls in any lesser light than the boys. Of course, to have called ourselves the Junior Birdmen and Birdwomen of America might have been more proper, but the name would be too long.

I hope that this column has "squared" me with you girls and that you have a more first-hand knowledge of where you are standing. Here's hoping you girls keep "on the top of the loop!"

Happy Landings!

Man Who Gassed Exchange Mobbed

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP.)—Eugene Sanger Daniell, Jr., Harvard University graduate and Boston attorney, was pulled from a soap box yesterday in Union Square and attacked following his remarks about the Communist Party.

Daniell, who last winter was convicted of flooding the New York Stock Exchange with tear gas, attacked the Communists on the ground that it only uses words, whereas the party he heads (National Independent Party), uses action.

PUBLIC NURSING ON INCREASE

Steady increases in Public Health Nursing service, against declines in hospital occupancy, have been recorded since 1931, according to a bulletin released today by the Bureau of Social Research, Federation of Social Agencies.

Total days' care provided by 22 private hospitals during 1933 was 1,064,908, 53.4 per cent of which were free, according to the bureau's report. Public Health Nursing service increased one-fourth from 1931 to 1933, the report read, and free visits increased from 73 to 87 per cent.

Both the Public Health Nursing Association and the Federation of Social Agencies are supported through the Community Fund.

CIRCUS CROWD SEES GUN FIGHT

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 8.—A shirt-sleeved circus crowd in Brooklyn saw a show that was not on the bill when a fleeing gunman and a policeman shot it out in a running battle across the circus lot.

One shot, fired by the bandit, wounded, Harry Corcoran, circus blacksmith. One of the patrolman's bullets took effect in the robber's side as he escaped.

A crowd of school children, jammed directly in the path of the chase, were uninjured, as the criminal sped through them.

The battle started when Patrolman Roman Tomocak fired on the gunman as he was holding up a department store delivery truck, after robbing a milk truck of $130 in collections.

They Hit It With Everything But a BUZZ SAW!

Fast new cars, on smooth straight roads, put a new strain on tire treads — and the "G-3" meets it by keeping its safe, sure grip 43% longer

"Battle Royal" Knocks Out Brakes on Test Cars, But Proves New Tread a Winner—43% Longer Non-Skid Mileage

IT was a great fight. First, the engineers put new tread designs up against sandpaper made from sharp-cutting granite grit mounted on high-speed "grindstones". Then followed grinding road tests. When the new "G-3" Goodyear Tread showed it could take it better than any tread the engineers had ever seen, they equipped the Goodyear test cars.

And how they mauled "G-3"! Brakes "went out" in 8 hours, had to be relined every 72. Day and night the "G-3" test tires were scuffed, dragged, and mauled. They wracked the cars, but "G-3" kept right on rolling.

When the tests were over, we knew we had the answer to a puzzling problem that had to be faced by the tire industry. Treads were wearing out too fast—all well-known makes, even ours. The new, modern automobiles with flashy starts, snap stops, and high speeds were giving tires harder wear than ever before.

"G-3" proved to be exactly what we wanted—a tire retaining all the advantages of the famous All-Weather Tread for safe, quick stops on smooth highways—but improved to modern needs.

See "G-3" at your Goodyear Dealer's. The tread may appear familiar. But look closer and check every one of these facts:

It is wider — 5½% more road contact

WARNING!

Watch the rest of the industry try to copy this amazing tire. Watch them try to duplicate Goodyear's claims. But, remember, you have to have "non-skid" before you can have "non-skid mileage." And to have "non-skid," you have to have GRIP where you see it here—GRIP in the center of the tread—the place where it counts, because it's the spot where the tire contacts the road. Look at the grip on this Goodyear Tire and ask yourself why buy any tire that lacks this safety?

"...'G-3' showed it could take it better than any tread the engineers had ever seen"

It is firmer — the non-skid blocks are nested closer; ribs are 11½% wider; grooves are narrower; there's more rubber in the tread

It is stronger — the tread "squirms" less under pressure; "heel-and-toe" wear and "cupping" are reduced 50%

The Result—43% Longer Non-Skid Mileage!

Frankly, such a marvelous improvement in an already-famous tire would have been impossible without Supertwist. This is the patented Goodyear cord fabric, you know, the fabric that has extra strength, extra elasticity, extra durability. For, with a wider tread, there is increased sidewall strain, and Supertwist takes this without the slightest trouble.

When you can get a tread like this "G-3" All-Weather and know that it has under it the matchless strength of Supertwist, will you be satisfied with anything less?

See the "G-3" All-Weather. Keep yourself up-to-date on how good tires are being made these days. It costs more to build—but nothing extra to buy.

CURRIER & IVES PRINTS NOW ON EXHIBIT

By PENELOPE REDD

The most comprehensive collection of Currier and Ives lithographs ever exhibited in Pittsburgh is now on view at the Gillespie Galleries until May 21. Every type associated with these now desirable American prints is included in the hundreds shown with the exception of the insipidly sentimental ones.

Miss Redd

The subjects exhibited from the 4,317 prints produced represent rare marines, Western life, outdoor and sporting incidents, portraits, comics, and the idealized genre of farm and suburban life. The only Pennsylvania one is the "Pennsylvania Railroad Scenery," with a view suggesting Horse Shoe Curve. If we remember correctly, there is an impression of the "Great Conflagration at Pittsburgh in 1845" in the Pittsburgh Room at the Carnegie Library.

Nathaniel Currier, one of the first to follow lithography directly it was introduced into this country in 1824, had founded an independent lithographic press by 1834. His first success was a topical print made in 1840. His shop in New York was the favored haunt of such celebrities as Henry Ward Beecher, Horace Greely and P. T. Barnum.

HAND-COLORED

All of the Currier and Ives prints from the early and middle periods were hand colored. The name chromo-lithograph is a misnomer for any print published prior to 1889. The firm sold out in 1907 and shortly thereafter was discontinued.

The staff artists recruited by Currier and Ives were almost all foreign born. Louis Maurer, who only died within the past two years after his hundredth birthday, was of German origin. A. F. Tait, Charles Parsons and Fanny Palmer were British by birth. George Durrie, who did a majority of the eagerly sought "American Farm Scene" series, was born in Connecticut.

The group of lithographs relating incidents of Western life, "The Last War-Whoop" and "Life on the Prairie — The Buffalo Hunt," by A. F. Tait, are two of the rarest items in the group. Amusingly, Tait and Maurer studied the Indians from the famous book done by Prince Maximilian of Wied. Tait, however, in his scenes of Americans hunting and fishing, was on thoroughly familiar ground, as he had a camp in the Adirondacks and was keen for sport.

HELD UNIQUE PLACE

Fanny Palmer started to draw for Currier and Ives around 1850 and spent much time sketching on Long Island. The landscapes, cottages and churches which she drew were supplemented by figures done by Maurer. She is one of the few women artists of the period whose work was professional.

These prints, which represent the most characteristic pictorial art of the period of our early development as a nation, were originally sold by pushcart salesmen. They retailed from a quarter down, while the large ones, now worth $1,000 and more, sold for $1.50 to $3.

Just as the Japanese color prints were destroyed because they shared the fate of common things, so did the Currier and Ives vanish as fashions changed. Now they are regarded as an important part of our artistic heritage.

Archabbot Koch To Reorganize Oblates Here

RT. REV. ALFRED KOCH

St. Vincent's Head To Address 950 At Meeting

The Rt. Rev. Alfred Koch, archabbott of St. Vincent's at Latrobe, will speak at St. Mary's Church, Lockhart street, tomorrow. He is to address a meeting of all oblates and prospective oblates of the Order of St. Benedict.

His purpose is the more solid reorganization of this ancient institution. He also plans to provide some means of enabling the 250 oblates and the 700 applicants enrolled under the title of the archabbey to keep in closer touch with St. Vincent's. At the meeting proposals concerning these problems will be made.

Archabbot Koch chose Pittsburgh for the meeting rather than the archabbey at Latrobe as a matter of convenience for the oblates, the majority of whom live in the Pittsburgh district.

Women Killed By Hit-Run Driver

County detectives and Coraopolis police today were searching for a hit-and-run driver whose automobile, they said, struck and killed Mrs. Rosalia Ciarletta, 40, of 1358 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, last night. Mrs. Ciarletta was crossing the street near her home when struck.

Suffering a broken leg and scalp lacerations when struck by a truck near his home, Thomas Denning, 6, of 322 Thirtieth street, McKeesport, was taken to McKeesport Hospital yesterday.

LEAGUE FOES HAVE WEEK TO PROTEST

The campaign of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and patriotic groups in this district for signers on the petition protesting entry of the United States into the League of Nations and World Court, continued strong today, with just one week left in which to obtain signers. One week from tomorrow the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington will conduct a hearing for opponents to the league.

To date more than 40,000 signatures have been obtained in the Pittsburgh district and another 10,000 probably will be obtained during the remaining seven days. Petitions sent into the Sun-Telegraph are immediately forwarded to Washington for presentation to the Senate Committee during the hearing.

There is still time to sign petitions protesting against this country's entering into any foreign alliances and entanglements. In this issue of the paper there appears a blank petition, with sufficient room for several names. Additional names can be added by pasting signatures to the bottom of the petition.

If you have not signed a petition, do so at once and return it to the Sun-Telegraph. There is still time to have it sent to Washington to be presented with the many other signatures.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

Foot in Plumbing, Firemen Free Boy

Firemen from Engine Company No. 12 were summoned last night to release Harry Rapuciuskas, 3, after his right foot had been caught in the plumbing apparatus in an outhouse in the rear of his home, 1925 Wrights way, South Side. His mother, Mrs. Margaret Rapuciuskas and neighbors worked more than an hour to free him. Failing, they called firemen who cracked the china fixture with an ax.

TOKIO PREDICTS NAVAL PARLEY FAILURE

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, May 8.—Utter failure for the scheduled 1935 world naval parley, if it is convened at all, was forecast today in high Japanese official circles.

Because of the wide divergence of views of the powers concerned on vital questions, observers pointed out, the conference is likely to break up soon after it meets, unless intervening events cause is to be postponed beyond next year.

Although comments were withheld on the effect of Japan's position upon the prospects of a successful conference, it was obvious that Japan's insistence upon certain points in her program could not be otherwise than an obstacle to a mutually acceptable agreement.

Japanese observers regard it as certain that Great Britain and the United States will unite on opposing Japan's demand for naval parity. Japan has made it plain she will insist upon abolition of the 5-5-3 ratio established at the Washington conference.

This one obstacle immediately will arise, it was predicted here, which might easily make success of the conference impossible.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS -:- By PAUL MALLON

Bootleg Oil May Gush All Over Federal Regulators

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The New Deal is running into more trouble every day.

First the milk situation boiled over on the AAA cooks, and curdled. Now oil is boiling threateningly. The PAB chefs secretly fear it is going to explode.

The milk experience made such a mess that it was stricken from the New Deal menu. What will be done about oil remains to be seen. If the oil wells start spouting all over the New Deal, now that the cows have walked out on it, the New Deal kitchen may undergo a major renovation.

BOOTLEG

Informative pipe lines from the West already bring tidings that an excess of bootleg oil has begun to come on the market at the rate of 200,000 barrels a day. Refiners are beginning to get frightened.

That much extra production means around 400 excess tank cars of gasoline a day. Three months ago, 50 extra tanks cars a day was enough to break the Chicago market.

The fear of a broken market some time soon is not at all unreasonable.

CONTROL?

The inside boys here feel like the fellow who tried to stop an oil gusher by putting his finger in the pipe. They have felt that way since the Supreme Court put off until fall a decision in the case brought by the government against five independent Texas oil men for code violations.

They are praying for enactment of Senator Thomas' new oil control bill, but they have little hope because it is caught in the closing Congress jam.

It may be good for the consumer temporarily, but not for the oil business if everything goes back to a year ago. Then oil was selling for 10 cents a barrel. The oil men were acting like the peddler who lost money on every sale but tried to make it up on volume. They tried to pump all the oil out of the ground as fast as possible. Troops were called out, and pitched battles waged. Nobody made any money or even had a good time.

Refiners were giving gasoline free in some places just to keep their retail outlets. At least one company went even further. It practically paid gas stations to take its gas, offering the gas station proprietors checks with which to pay part of the tax on the gas.

STATUS

Today oil is $1 instead of 10 cents. Production has been brought down to 2,300,000 legal barrels a day. (A year ago the East Texas oil field alone was spouting a million barrels daily.)

Not only that, but the code authorities here are convinced that there is a beginning of co-operation among refiners and that the retailers are better off.

For these reasons, Mr. Ickes' Petroleum Administration Board has been patting itself on the back, that is, it did until it found out about the new influx of bootleg oil and the fact that it cannot get a decision on code violations until fall, if then.

INSULL

The State Department became very solicitous last week about Samuel Insull's heart.

Newsmen who wanted to go aboard the State Department's cutter to greet Mr. Insull were told they could not do so because it might affect Mr. Insull's heart.

The newsmen went to the White House and asked how it came about that the State Department was playing nurse as well as jailer to Mr. Insull.

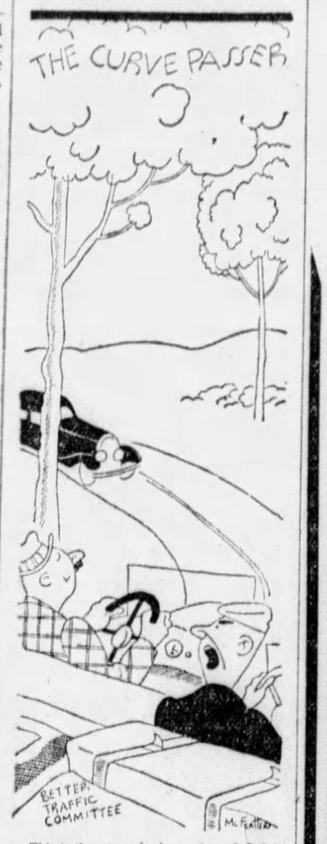
The White House telephoned the State Department immediately, whereupon the State Department issued cordial invitations to the newsmen to come aboard the cutter, Mr. Insull's heart to the contrary notwithstanding.

WOODIN

Tributes to ex-Secretary of Treasury Woodin were not just the customary compliments to a man after he is dead.

Mr. Woodin gave several years of his life as a token of loyalty to President Roosevelt. The President had to send him home to bed on more than one occasion during last year's banking crisis.

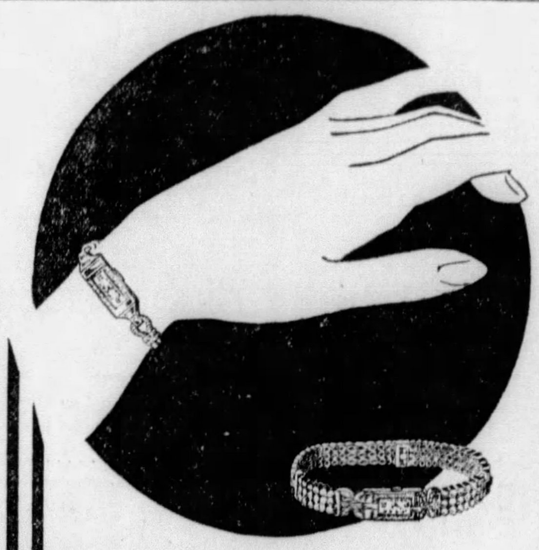
The frail businessman who liked music did not stay here long enough to find out what the Treasury job was all about, but everyone who really knew him here was his friend.



This is the second of a series of Safety Cartoons drawn by a CWA artist for the Better Traffic Committee as an educational aid in reducing the growing number of traffic accidents in Pittsburgh. The artist, Frank McFeatters, was one of 100 CWA workers assigned to the Traffic Committee and his art ability was an accidental discovery.

The curve-passer is an optimist. He believes that all highways bear one-way traffic, and so believing he serenely passes on curves.

Passing on a curve is a violation of the State Vehicle Code when the view of the highway is obstructed within 300 feet. The penalty is $10 or five days.



WRIST WATCHES

The study of Watches is a romance of history, of science, and of art. The realization of such romance may be fully comprehended by wearing a Grogan Watch.

They are all dependable. Even the tiniest Women's Wrist Watches, in jeweled mountings, have instantaneous mechanisms that work with the accuracy of astronomical instruments. Their style and character have an appeal quite as deep as their mechanical features.

2 GIRLS, 3 MEN HURT IN CRASH

Five persons, including two girls, were injured when their autos collided at Penn and Negley avenues early today.

Ruth McCandless, 22, of West Sunbury; Edna Linahan, 22, of Oil City, and Henry Miller, 25, of R. D. 1, Butler, driver of one of the cars, were treated at West Penn Hospital. Miller suffered from concussion of the brain.

Harry Azinsky, 26, of 5865 Alderson street, the other driver, and his companion, Fred Cook, 25, of 4325 Murray avenue, were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Edward F. Schreibeis, 32, of 433 Cedarville street, was injured early today when his auto collided with a car driven by Mary C. Holveck, 23, of 2008 Crafton boulevard, at Boulevard of the Allies and Wood street, police reported.

Schreibeis was treated at Mercy Hospital for injuries to the chest and side.

Minister Denies Claim He Has Wife

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 8.—(AP.)—The Rev W. D. Welburn, Jr., San Antonio Methodist minister, reiterated today his denial of marriage with Mrs. Wineta Long Welburn and the parentage of her child in a formal answer to her divorce suit pending in District Court.

Wage Conferences To Be Resumed

Officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and representatives of 1,800 platform workers will resume negotiations tomorrow on a new wage agreement to replace one expired several weeks ago. A meeting was held yesterday, but no decision was reached.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver and bowel poisons before breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish tang which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

Sister Connie

Connie Boswell, of the Three Boswell Sisters, is featured on the Caravan broadcast with Glen Gray's orchestra and Stoopnagle and Budd, over a CBS-WJAS network every Tuesday night at 10 o'clock.

Crime, Punishment Drama on WCAE

A study of justice and penalogy is depicted in the dramatization of "Who Shall Be Paroled," offered tonight at 7:30 by WCAE.

Rich variety marks the seven hours of entertainment, including piano recital by Gene Llewellyn at 6:15; Howard Price, tenor, as soloist, at 6:40, and a political address by William A. Schnader at 7:15.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Other features in order—Baron Elliott's band at 6:15; Paul Gannon at 6:45; Herbert Fritsche band at 8 and Martha Lewis at 8:45.

Two political talks also billed — Independent Democrats at 8:30 and "Voice of Shannon" at 10:30.

HarvardMan New KDKA Producer

By AIRCASTER

Whether he's to be congratulated or consoled, Sherman McGregor, free-lance producer, has been brought to Pittsburgh to take the place of Claude Morris as KDKA production man.

At just the time when Pittsburghers are beginning to think about New England's rock-bound coast, sandy beaches, lakes and streams—"The Vacation spot of America"—McGregor comes here as a recent graduate of M. I. T. and Harvard Engineering School up New England way.

* * *

Frank Mulloy, WCAE publicity director, announces that Dave Olsen has been officially designated Ed Harvey's successor as program director at WCAE.

* * *

Jean Shirk, secretary to Jesse Kaufman when he was general manager of WCAE, departed yesterday for New York to become Kaufman's assistant in his new position with the American Radio News Corporation.

* * *

* * *

Jessel himself will be master of ceremonies and will, throughout the summer, at least, remain a fixture in this spot, which will encompass not only music, comedy, etc., but dramatizations, eminent guest speakers and artists in every field of entertainment.

* * *

From unofficial but practically infallible sources the news comes this morning of the plan of the Columbia system to toss a challenge to the NBC Sunday Rubinoff hour.

The tossing is to be done by CBS when it tosses on the kilocycles either the first or second Sunday night in June, an hour's variety show, simultaneously with that provided by Rubinoff and Jimmy Durante.

At the moment, the Columbia showmen, one hears, are negotiating, as I predicted here weeks ago, with Georgie Jessel, who will be assigned to the selection of talent, just as Rudy Vallee is privileged to make up his own weekly broadcasts.

The pursestrings have been loosened, and Jessel returns to Columbia, say my informants, with the proviso that expense is to be no object.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

An artist in language could have painted a picture of the old and the new when the streamlined railroad train, the Zephyr, recently visited Pittsburgh.

He was highly excited over the shiny vehicle, commenting on good points here and changes that he would suggest there. I asked his name, and who he was, and finally was introduced to D. V. Reed, Clarion street, Oil City, Pa.

Mr. Reed had been a railroad engineer or connected with the railroad for 47 years and had made a special trip down from Oil City to look over the newest comet of the rails. He found it good and in his eyes came the expression of wistful longing for the "bye and bye" as he pictured himself seated at the throttle of this newest of railroad locomotives.

I asked his age and he said:

"If I live until next month I will be 101 years old. I rode all night last night to be here first thing this morning to see this train. I spent all day at the station on my feet and I'm taking the 9:10 out for Oil City this evening, where I'll meet my friends at the station. Then we're going on a 'coon hunt until dawn."

QUEST SPEEDS ON TO WRITE EPIC FOR MT. RUSHMORE

Thousands Revealed As Polishing Up Their Texts

The youth of the nation—spanning from universities and colleges to the little country school house—today are joined with their elders in an effort to write America's epic for the Mount Rushmore National Memorial in the South Dakota Black Hills.

Educational leaders have aided in stimulating the enthusiasms by urging student participation in the inscription competition. The quest to find a 600-word text based on nine specific episodes of history that will be carved on the mountainside as today's message to America for 1,600,000 years has also gripped the historic pride of teachers and professors. Their entries will not be judged in competition with the students' texts but will be entered in the adult class.

Evidence of this marked interest was disclosed today by Prof. W. J. Mathewson, chairman of the competition committee in Duquesne University. Every indication reveals 400 texts will be the minimum number of entries in that school, according of Prof. Mathewson. Praising the support being given to the nation-wide competition, sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers, he said:

LEGACY OF AGES

"In addition to the interest it has for students and pupils in colleges and grade schools, the competition to aid the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission in finding an inscription for the national monument is likewise making a deep impression on maturer intellects.

"The American epic to be engraved on the mountain by Gutzon Borglum will be a legacy for the ages, and any man, woman or youth who writes the winning text will earn nation-wide distinction. Whether the writer of this text is to be an adult or a pupil in one of the country's schools awaits to be seen. The outcome of the competition will be invested with an interest that will be unique."

Further proof of great part schools are taking in the competition is revealed in an announcement today that every pupil in American history at the Kittanning High School has prepared a text. The same participation is reported throughout the tri-state district from scores of schools.

FINISHING TOUCHES

As the closing date of May 30 draws nearer, thousands of students are putting the finishing touches to their texts while many others are taking advantage of the remaining sufficient time and are starting the preparation of their entries. If you have hesitated in starting your text, there is no time to be lost if a worthwhile entry is to be submitted.

Remember that the text must not exceed 600 words. It must be based upon and contain the nine specific points of history outlined by the National Commission. Do not write on what the episode was, but tell what effect the episode had on America's progress. Read the list of nine episodes that must be contained in the text. They are published elsewhere on this page.

There is no desire for "flowery phrases" or "fancy writing." Only simple words, written from the heart, can tell America's history so all can understand the inscription.

STUDENT SPECIAL ENTRY FORM

Students attending colleges and schools in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia without active participation arrangements should attach this blank to their text entries. entries. Address entries before midnight, May 30, to:

Nine Episodes Sought For Inscription Listed

Here are the nine episodes in American history that the Rushmore National Memorial Commission plans to include in the inscription on the monument in South Dakota:

1—Writing of the Declaration of Independence.
2—Drafting of the American Constitution.
3—Purchase of Louisiana.
4—Ceding of the Floridas to the United States.
5—Rise of the Republic of Texas and its entry to the Union as a state.
6—The Mexican War and the acquisition of California.

Junior Patrol

There are some boys and girls who grow up without really playing with other boys and girls their own age. Maybe they think they must be the leaders all the time.

And the other boys and girls won't let them, and they must go home angry.

And there are some fellows who won't take their turn doing the things that aren't so much fun. For instance, in baseball, they want to be at bat all the time. They never want to catch of pitch or run out in the outfield.

Well most games are team games. Which means that one group of fellows plays another. And all such games depend on every player on the team to win; if one fellow goes to sleep he may lose the game right there.

So we are hoping that our Junior Patrol members will all be good team players. We have to work with other people no matter what we do in the world. Team play is one of the best ways of learning how to do it.

We read the other day that if you ever go to England that you will think that the British are a cold and unfriendly race. They don't like to have you ask them questions. They think that it takes time to be a man's friend. And so they put strangers "on probation" for a while. Which means that they don't admit them as friends until they have known them for a while and associated with them. It seems unfriendly at first, but once you become a friend, they stick to you and help you all they can.

Well, we are Americans, fellows, and the English way seems too chilly to us. But we do think that they have some good ideas about making friends. They don't like to hear a fellow boast and puff himself up. Neither do we. They don't like a fellow to "boss" them in a big way. Neither do we. They pick their friends carefully. We think that's a good idea, too. Junior Patrol clubs should be groups of friends who like to meet and work together.

City Engineers Want Longer Hours

Charging that they receive less than Relief Works Division workers, 50 employes of the City Bureau of Engineers have petitioned Council to amend the salary ordinance to give them more working time. It is charged that 68 men receive only three and one-half months' work each per year and that others get but four and one-half months.

Nathans Promises Aid for Cripples

State aid for crippled children is the leading plank in the platform of Joseph Nathans, candidate for Legislature in the Fourth District.

Nathans, whose own child was afflicted with paralysis, wants more appropriations for charitable hospitalization to insure a healthier future citizenship. He also stands for economy, better housing and slum eradication.

Burning Feet Attacked By Dermastalsis

Painful Foot Ailment Disables Thousands

FEET that ache, throb, vibrate with pain—feet cruelly padded with hard, lumpy callouses—are ready targets for DERMASTALSIS. This dreaded, injurious foot malady has already caused untold misery. Watch out for it. For these tough, rock-like, fibrous callouses actually destroy living cells, thrusting painfully up, up, up into the flesh. They crush relentlessly against the irritated, unprotected nerves and tissues—until every step you take is a nerve-wrecking torture.

Why let your feet be crippled? . . . End Dermastalsis—enjoy complete, refreshing relief. It's easy, this pleasant, inexpensive way.

At bedtime soak your feet in hot water—just 15 minutes. Then rub in COOLENE, the ivory-white, vanishing foot cream. Feel the callous soften as Coolene's soothing, cooling medication stops all irritation—instantly draws out inflamed swelling from the sore, burning tissues beneath. Checks DERMASTALSIS by removing painful pressure—softens and in a short time actually tends to destroy the entire callous growth.

Be sure to get COOLENE today. Your first application brings amazing relief. For a full day your feet will stay wonderfully cool, springy, untiring. COOLENE is greaseless—will not stain sheets or clothing.

CLUB LEADERS ADDRESS MEET

Business sessions of the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Boys' Clubs of America opened today in the William Penn Hotel. The visitors were officially welcomed by Joseph C. Trees, a member of the board of directors of the national organization and president of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh. Other speakers were William E. Hall, of New York, president; R. K. Atkinson, New York, secretary; Walter M. Hall, of Columbus, and Jacob M. Burnes, of Boston.

This afternoon the delegates were to be entertained at the Trees home, Warrendale road, and tonight they will be be addressed by Dr. Sheldon Glueck, of Harvard University.

David O'Connor Dies, Sinn Fein Leader

CORK, Irish Free State, May 8.—(AP.)—David O'Connor, who was a leader in the Sinn Fein movement and at one time was an organizer of the Friends of Freedom in the United States, died here yesterday. He had retuned of Cork recently from Germany, where he had been living. O'Connor was in America from 1914 until 1922.

Hill Laundryman Pays Rival for 'Dirty Trick'

Sun Lee and Sam Wing got together in Alderman A. M. Maloney's office last night and settled their differences.

Both men operate laundries in the Hill.

Sam charged Sun Lee with sending him a shirt, containing dye, to be cleaned. The shirt was put in a tub with other clothes and several dozen shirts and collars were ruined. Sun Lee agreed to pay $40 for his prank.

FIRED FIREMEN SPLIT $1,400

There'll be no more "whoopee" in the fire house of the Leetsdale Volunteer Department if members of the borough Council can prevent it.

A recent fish-fry, said to have ended in hilarious fashion and described by Council members as "disgraceful," has resulted in the dismissal of the entire department, with the exception of Chief Ira McKee. The department was organized in 1905.

The 25 members, victims of the councilmanic ax, will split the company's treasury of approximately $1,400 among them when they disband tomorrow, however.

Their successors are to be named at a special Council meeting scheduled for tonight.

Officially, Leetsdale has been without fire protection since April 18, when the men were fired, it became known today. The volunteers have continued to respond, however, and yesterday went to the forest fire in Sewickley Township.

HANDICAPPED BY DEAFNESS!

The world is full of otherwise capable people who are barred from business, society, all life's desirable activities because they cannot HEAR. DEAFNESS is usually preceded by frequent colds, catarrh of the nose and throat, head noises, etc., which, if properly and promptly treated, may be cured. Heed these warnings! Be treated at once and avoid the consequences of neglect! If you are already DEAF be examined by a specialist.

IT MAY NOT BE TOO LATE!

Different types of ear troubles require different methods of treatment. WE USE EVERY APPROVED METHOD!

BOOTLEG LIQUOR FLOODING COUNTY, SLEUTH FINDS

POLITICS

G. O. P. Regulars Are Not Blanks in Primary

By MARK SHIELDS

A feature of the present primary election which is being overlooked, so far as it affects the Republicans, is the delivering capacity of the regular organization leaders who are supporting Attorney General William A. Schnader here and elsewhere in the state for the gubernatorial nomination.

Mark Shields

It is customary when assaying the potency of these leaders to note that in recent elections many of them have met defeat, in some cases so thoroughly as to amount to a political debacle. That is the fact in Allegheny County, Philadelphia, Delaware and numberless other sections.

However, it should be recalled that these defeats were in general election campaigns by Democratic candidates supported by independent and disaffected Republicans, and not in primaries, such as this.

Last September former Mayor John S. Herron and Senator James J. Coyne, both of whom are supporting Mr. Schnader, were able to establish a handsome victory in their party scramble over Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Councilman P. J. McArdle for the mayoralty nomination. Their trouble came in November when the leadership of Mr. Herron and Senator Coyne was severely trounced by Mayor William N. McNair. Mr. McNair was backed by thousands who had voted for Mr. Mackrell and Mr. McArdle.

Experience Is Similar In Other Counties

In Delaware County, Senator John J. McClure, despite thouble with the federal courts, was able to nominate his candidates in the primary, but the general election was another story And the experience of Philadelphia was similar.

Any one will admit that the Pittsburgh regular leaders associated with Mr. Schnader have not the power this year that they had in September of 1933. For one thing they have lost the advantage of the city payroll, most of which has registered Democratic. That is, naturally, a greater blow to an organization ward chairman than to an independent lieutenant or to such regulars as have been from time to time associated with the organization, but were not recognized in the dispensing of patronage by the last administration.

Nevertheless, on a percentage basis of ability to deliver, these Schnader supporters among regulars are in better position to make a showing than they will be in November.

This is something which should be considered by all rival candidates and their supporters when attempting to arrive at conclusions based on analyses of recent election results.

There is some diverting political strategy involved in the projected visit to Pittsburgh this week of Senator Harry B. Scott, of Centre County, candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor. While no printed slates of candidates are being circulated, it is unquestioned that Senator Scott, as well as Mr. Schnader, have been indorsed by the regular organiation state chiefs in the Mellon-Grundy-Vare group.

When he comes here Senator Scott probably will be shepherded about by Senator Coyne and his lieutenants, as he was when in Pittsburgh a short time ago. The prominence of Senator Coyne in the Scott movement is in contrast to the manner in which he has been shunted to the background by the immediate Schnader managers, William B. McFall and Mr. Herron.

Senator Coyne is for Senator Scott not alone because of senatorial associations; indeed, not much because of senatorial association.

Schnader Strategists Will Remain Aloof

Senator Scott was adopted by the state organization on the direct insistence of Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin, his friend and political associate of years standing. Senator Coyne and Mr. Baldwin have a reciprocal working arrangement whereby the Senator enjoys all of the patronage of the inheritance tax office, appointments in which are under the jurisdiction of the Auditor General.

While Senator Scott is here it is assumed that the Schnader headquarters management will ignore him publicly, not because the Senator is an undesirable citizen, but because the fiction must be preserved that there is no slate—and so far as the immediate Schnader management here is concerned, there sincerely is no slate.

Some state organization leaders have not cheered for Senator Scott as a candidate, but there was no other way in which the support of Senator Baldwin could be secured. While his county of Potter is not much more productive of votes than a small ward in Pittsburgh, he has patronage, and there is little of that for distribution in the pie pantry of the regular organization these days.

BUSINESS GAINS SLASH RELIEF LISTS HERE

Signs of Prosperity Cited and Expected To Continue

A spurt in business has trimmed thousands of cases from the relief list and further reductions are in sight, George P. Mills, executive director of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, declared today.

Two weeks ago, approximately 70,000 families and more than 250,000 persons were reported dependent on relief.

With reductions during the week of April 30 to May 5, the relief list was reduced to 62,164 cases on Saturday, according to Mills' report, which is being sent to Harrisburg.

Despite the delayed resumption of the Relief Works Division program here, few RWD workers have found it necessary to apply for temporary relief, Mills said. A total of 496 former RWD employes applied for aid last week, but continued delays in resuming the RWD program may force more workers to ask for temporary aid, he said.

Generally improved conditions among the unemployed indicate a business recovery, which Mills declared showed signs of continuing. He said:

"I believe the pulse we touch is a splendid barometer which quickly shows changes for better or worse, and in this case for the better."

KERR TO ACT ON INSURANCE

City Council should take steps to regularize the extensions to insurance policies arranged by City Assessor William B. Foster, in the opinion of City Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully.

Foster, who has been advising Mayor McNair on insurance matters, had prepared 30-day extensions to city fire insurance policies, and City Controller James P. Kerr asked Scully for an opinion on their legality.

Scully, in his opinion, said:

"If the agents whose names are signed to the attachments properly epresent the companies, the binders and extensions are adequate. We call your attention, however, to the fact that policies of insurance should now be delivered against these binders and that an ordinance should be introduced in Council under the Wallace act regularizing this manner of placing insurance."

Controller Kerr said he would send in such an ordinance Monday.

Gibbs to Support High Tariff Policy

Strict adherence to the Republican party policy of high tariff to prevent "dumping" has been promised by Maj. Ralph W. Gibbs, candidate for Republican nomination for Congress in the Thirtieth District. Gibbs said a lowered tariff would mean the ruination of the American workman.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SALINAS, Cal., May 8.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This is Salinas, the home of the wild west rodeo. It takes place in July. They let everybody in free that comes horseback, and they come by the hundreds. The horse all over the country is not coming back. He is back.

Will Rogers

Fred Stone and I spent all day Sunday, went 4 or 5 hundred miles, just driving through these old California ranches, that were land grants from Spain, and seeing the old missions. Good horses, fat cattle, plenty to eat and plenty of mortgages, but, Lord, every branch of businesses have them.

There is a change coming over the country anyhow, people have just got to get more used to debt. lets all let the fellow we owe do the worrying, and the U. S. will be the happiest land on earth.

Yours, WILL.

Pinchot Backs Pittsburgh Plan For Rent Relief

HARRISBURG, May 8.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot, chairman of the State Emergency Relief Board, today indorsed proposals that taxes, insurance and water rents on houses occupied by unemployed persons be paid out of relief funds. He said:

"I shall do my best to secure the funds necessary to put it through."

The suggestion, made by Eric Biddle, executive secretary of the board, is patterned after a plan advanced by the Pittsburgh Association of Real Estate Boards.

"Owners of houses occupied by the unemployed have suffered severely because in Pennsylvania there has not been enough relief money to pay rent.

"Many Pennsylvania owners of real estate have lost—or are losing—their property. Although their houses are rented, they receive no rent. That is all wrong."

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Unemployment relief will cost $100,000,000 this month, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, admitted today.

This is from ten to twenty million above previous estimates and is partly accounted for by delayed payments due in April for materials.

The figure includes rural relief, payment to unemployed teachers on the educational program, and all other relief costs. Neither Secretary of Interior Ickes nor Hopkins are willing to forecast when the "break" will come in relief costs.

TRACTION POST OFFERED EVANS

Mayor McNair's newest candidate for Charles A. Findley's job as chairman of the Traction Conference Board, is George E. Evans, present superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection.

McNair today announced he is planning to submit Evans' name to Council Monday, but there is little possibility that Council will remove Finley from his post, it was reported in City Hall.

Council yesterday refused by a vote of 5 to 3 to replace Finley with William P. Witherow.

Meanwhile, Finley has announced his acceptance of the resignation of Councilman William A. Magee as attorney for the Traction Conference Board.

Magee's resignation, filed January 1, was worded to take effect not later than the approval of the extension of the Traction Board by the Public Service Commission. Officialy notification of the extension of the greement for two years was received yesterday by the Traction Board.

Iceman Accused In Hit-Run Death

Earl R. Barclay, 29, an iceman of Findlay Township, near Coraopolis, was held today on a charge of manslaughter to await a Coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Rosaria Ciarletta, 40, of 1358 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis.

She was fatally injured when an automobile driven by a hit-and-run driver struck her in Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, last night.

HOUSE PASSES KELLY BRIDGE BILL

County Authority Now Waits Senate Action, Court Rule

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Allegheny County Authority was one step nearer realization today following passage by unanimous consent in the House of the Kelly bridge bills, providing for carrying forward a $27,000,000 works project here.

Congressman Clyde Kelly, sponsor of the bills, expressed himself as confident of success in the Senate and of the President's approval. Before the Authority can actually be put into effect, it must also be declared constitutional by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Decision is expected May 21.

GET UNANIMOUS CONSENT

The bills were passed yesterday in the face of strenuous preliminary objection by several members, who demanded an explanation of the nature of the improvements contemplated by the county.

After Kelly explained the fact that the legislation would enable Pittsburgh and Allegheny County to begin improvements on a large scale by Public Works Administration funds, objections were withdrawn and the bills passed by unanimous consent.

Funds for the undertaking are expected to come from the $1,600,000,000 the President has asked for works projects.

JOBS FOR MANY

Discussing his victory, Kelly said:

"This is a great day for Allegheny County. The County Authority can now proceed to replace the condemned bridges by new structures and at the same time carry out improvements, including new street improvements, the Saw Mill Run boulevard and other projects which are sorely needed and which will give employment to a great number of people."

The bridges are Highland Park Bridge across the Allegheny River; Homestead High Level Bridge at Homestead; the Rankin Bridge, the Glenwood Bridge; Dravosburg Bridge and the new Downtown Bridge across the Monongahela, and Fifth Avenue Bridge across the Youghiogheny River at McKeesport.

TRADE TOURISTS IN WHEELING

About 50 members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, traveling in two special buses, reached Wheeling this afternoon on the first stop of their good will tour into southern communities.

They were guests of the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting at the Fort Henry Club.

The party was scheduled to stop at Marietta later in the day and then proceed to Parkersburg to spend the evening.

Tomorrow the tourists will visit Clarksburg, Grafton, Fairmont and Uniontown, where they will be guests of the local Chamber of Commerce at a dinner in the White Swan hotel and view an exhibit of Uniontown products.

Married Under City Police Guard

MR. AND MRS. ROSS MOLINARO LEAVING HOLY ANGELS CHURCH IN A RICE SHOWER TODAY

PAIR MARRIED UNDER GUARD

Pittsburgh police were drafted as aides of Cupid today and stood guard outside Holy Angels Catholic Church in Baldwin road, Hays, while a young couple was wed, after, it was charged, the bride's mother had threatened to break up the ceremony.

The honeymoon door will be guarded tonight.

Today's ceremony, performed by the Rev. Michael Vittale, was the second for Marie Dayton, of Baldwin road, who became 19 today, and Ross Molinaro, 21, of Ashby street.

They eloped recently to Wheeling, W. Va., and were married there by a justice of the peace. They went through the second ceremony to comply with regulations of the church. When they eloped, the girl had been reported kidnaped.

When the bridal party arrived at the church, they were accompanied by two plainclothes men, and six uniformed patrolmen, under Lieut. William H. Madine, of South Side Station, were on guard in front of the building.

Dillinger Distillery Now 100 Years Old

The original Dillinger distillery at Ruffsdale, Pa., now operated by the Ruffsdale Distilling Company, will be 100 years old tomorrow. The distillery, although containing new equipment and machinery, follows the old-fashioned methods of yeasting and distilling, its operators say. A section of the plant is now devoted to the manufacture of Holland gin under the direction of August Midden, a native of Schiedam, Holland.

HALF LICENSEES VIOLATE LAW, BEACHY SAYS

Low Cost, Public's Taste Ascribed as Evasion Reason

Half the liquor sold in Allegheny County is bootleg, according to W. H. Beachy, supervising investigator of the beverage division of the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

Beachy's statement coincides with the assertion by National Alcohol Administrator Joseph H. Choate, Jr., that more than 50 per cent of the liquor sold in the nation is bootleg.

215 CONVICTIONS

Since the advent of repeal last December, 215 liquor law violation convictions have been obtained in the county, Beachy said. Today he asserts:

"Half of the holders of beer and liquor licenses either have violated or are now violating the liquor laws."

His division is now co-operating with J. Jimcousky, newly appointed district supervisor, in the enforcement of the state revenue laws applying to liquor, Beachy said.

The bootleg traffic is now carried on in speakeasies, cutting plants, licensed beer parlors and "joints" selling without license, Beachy avers.

BOARD TO GET LIST

He gives two reasons why it is flourishing in spite of the state's and municipalities' efforts to enforce the law:

"First, the bootleg stuff is cheaper than legal liquor. Secondly, thousands of people acquired a taste for the old-type bathtub gin and hard liquor during prohibition. They now demand that kind of stuff."

With the expiration of malt liquor licenses May 31, Beachy said, the Liquor Control Board will have available a list of all licensees in Allegheny County who have been convicted of liquor law violations. He was unable to say whether the board will be guided by this list in granting new licenses.

STOWE REHIRES SCHOOL STAFF

After a stormy meeting in the Foster School, the Stowe Township Board of Education last night voted the reappointment of the 100 teachers, 12 janitors, truant officer, doctor and nurse it had failed to re-engage a month ago.

Instructions were issued to Supervising Principal Gale S. Stroup to check the list of teachers for those unqualified or eligible for retirement with a view of replacing them with applicants from the township.

During the discussion it was disclosed that the pay of the teachers is now four months in arrears. It was stated the board expected to pay a half month's salary next month.

The resignation of Robert Angelo as football and basketball coach to devote his full time to teaching in the high school was announced. Bernard Andrews, history instructor and Angelo's assistant, was named coach.

TECH TABLOID FOR CARNIVAL

The paper, the Daily Carnivalian, will appear on the campus with news of the various carnival events as quickly as the afternoon Pittsburgh newspapers, according to Joseph Adams, editor. The Carnivalian will have its own photographer and art staff. It will also boast a colored section.

1 JAILED, OTHER FLEES IN HOAX

One man was held for further investigation after a hearing in Oakland Police Court and police sought another suspect today in an alleged attempt to obtain money from Chinese by impersonating immigration officials and threatening deportation.

Officers James Stratton and John Barrett arrested Chester Cox, 25, of 1410 Colwell street, after, they said, he fled with another man from the Yee Gam Ting laundry at 112 Meyran avenue. He was accused of having demanded to see Ting's naturalization papers and to have suggested that money would take care of everything.

Rushing Postcards Over Rockies Was Help to Army Pilots

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Private companies are again taking over the sky.

The mail must go through. That doesn't mean through the roof.

Col. Arnold says rushing postcards over the Rockies did the Army boys a lot of good. It comes in handy. Paul Revere was practically carrying the mail that night.

We're glad the trouble is over, that Mr. Farley is happy, the Army is vindicated and service is resumed.

What! A House Stolen! The Needle, Watson

The boys in the County Detective Bureau had to relax their intensive efforts in hunting crooks today and start looking for a frame house and foundation, mysteriously missing.

The last seen of the house was when it stood proudly on its stone foundation at 181 E. Lemington avenue, Penn Township.

On Sunday, H. V. Silberstein, real estate broker of the Standard Life Building, thought he would look at the house and lots surrounding it, part of the estate of his father.

Silberstein blinked his eyes a couple of times, but all he could see was a hole in the ground, where the house had stood. Even the stones of the foundation had vanished.

The house was considerably larger than McNair Manor so no one could have put it in his pocket, Silberstein told the county detectives.

Shot Fired in Quarrel Strikes Boy in Leg

A policeman's son was shot last night when struck by a bullet fired during a quarrel between two Negroes in the East End.

John Walker, Jr., 14, 234 Emerson street, son of an East Liberty cornerman, was struck in the right leg by the bullet. He was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital.

Thomas Johnson, 54, janitor at Hunt Armory, according to police, and Russell Hinton, 25, of 6305 Shakespeare street, were struggling on the porch of the latter's house when Johnson fired a shot. The bullet struck the Walker boy, passing nearby.

Police said Johnson shot himself after the tussle with Hinton. Both were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital, Johnson with a bullet wound in the chest and Hinton with a cut on the ear. The two were later arrested and held over after a hearing in Oakland Police Court today. Johnson accused the latter of paying attention to his wife, police said.

Which ticket to

HERE are two summer roundtrip tickets to California. Both cost the same. One takes you straight to Los Angeles and back on the same route. The other takes you to New Orleans, then to Los Angeles on our famous Sunset Limited across the picturesque Old South and the Southwest, then up the coast to San Francisco and the Pacific Northwest, and back home on a northern U.S. or Canadian line. The first ticket shows you one narrow strip of the West. The other shows you the whole Pacific Coast and a different part of the West each way. Both cost the same. Which ticket would you buy?

Our four leading trains to California—Golden State Limited, Sunset Limited, Overland Limited and Cascade—approach California through four entirely different scenic regions. By going West on one of these trains and returning on another you make a roundtrip that is really round, yet the rail fare is not 1¢ higher!

COOL WEATHER ALL THE WAY!

Club cars, lounge cars, room cars, dining cars and observation cars on the Golden State Limited, Sunset Limited, Overland Limited and Cascade will be air-conditioned this summer.

Our dining cars serve delicious "Meals Select"—complete luncheons and dinners for 80¢ to $1.25, breakfasts for 50¢ to 90¢.

CALIFORNIA AND BACK $107.10 45-day limit

—good on all trains leaving May 15 to Oct. 15. Ticket with Oct. 31 limit costs a little more. Still lower fares good in tourist Pullmans and chair cars west of Chicago and New Orleans. Pullman charges are much lower than last summer.

Is This A Free Country or Isn't It?

That's the question that's probably running through the mind today of a certain Pomeranian pup belonging to Mrs. C. A. Luebbe, Cochran Road, Mt. Lebanon. At least he found out that "freedom" in this country does not apply to pet dogs who happen to live in Mt. Lebanon and choose to go on trips of their own without leaving any forwarding address. It's a "dog-gone" known fact that very rarely does the wandering canine escape the dragnet that is cast by a Sun-Telegraph "lost ad." This case was no exception . . . the young fella was quickly captured and returned.

17 Dogs were reported lost in April and 12 were recovered through Sun-Telegraph "Lost Ads."

Firestone
LEADERSHIP
"The Ultimate Test of Leadership is Performance"

FIRESTONE has maintained its leadership in tire development by producing a new tire for 1934 with a wider tread, flatter contour, deeper non-skid, greater thickness, and more and tougher rubber, which gives greater non-skid safety, more traction, greater blowout protection, and more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

These achievements are made practical by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, providing greater adhesion between the plies of the high stretch cords and between the Gum-Dipped body of the tire and the tough, massive non-skid tread. It also provides greater strength, longer flexing life, and greater protection against blowouts.

Gum-Dipping made it possible for Firestone to design, develop and put on the market the first successful balloon tire in 1923. This tire was the pattern used by all others and completely revolutionized the tire industry and set new standards for the automobile industry.

Firestone also developed the first all-rubber non-skid tire, and has always been first to give motorists the benefits of new discoveries in non-skid design, providing more traction and greater non-skid safety.

For fourteen years leading race drivers have driven to victory on Firestone tires, built with Gum-Dipped high stretch cords. They have trusted their lives to Firestone Leadership—as they know that the patented Firestone construction features provide them with greater safety—longer mileage—and greater blowout protection.

Protect yourself and family by driving in today and replacing your smooth, thin, dangerous tires with the new Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934.

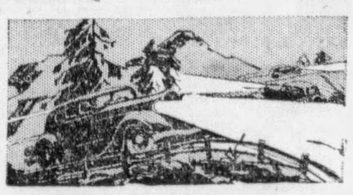
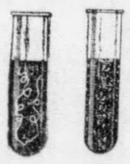
Firestone Tires are ROAD TESTED on the large fleet of Firestone test cars, day and night every day in the year, over all kinds of roads and highways.



THE ADHESION TEST

Note how the rubber in a Firestone tire clings to the high stretch cords. This greater adhesion is made possible by Gum-Dipping which soaks the cords in liquid rubber, and saturates and coats the millions of fibers inside the cords.

THE ACID TEST



Firestone Gum-Dipped Fibers — Ordinary Cotton Fibers

To be positive that rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, a solution of sulphuric acid which quickly destroys cotton but not rubber, is shown in test tubes with Firestone Gum-Dipped fibers and fibers from any other tire made. Firestone Gum-Dipped fibers withstand the acid because they are the only fibers that are insulated with rubber, minimizing friction and heat, the deadly enemy of their life.

ROAD AND TRACK TEST

The extra strength—longer wear—greater traction—more non-skid safety—and greater blowout protection of Firestone High Speed Tires are the results of the most severe road and track tests. These have made possible the outstanding world records on road and track.

The NEW Firestone AIR BALLOON for 1934

The new Firestone Air Balloon for 1934 embodies all the improvements in the new Firestone High Speed Tire. The lower air pressure provides maximum traction and riding comfort. Gum-Dipping safety-locks the cords, providing 30 to 40% greater deflection and blowout protection.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

Man She Loves Neglects Her, Girl Complains

Desperately in love, and often neglected.

What a miserable situation for any girl. There are enough woes in genuine affection without also being disregarded. There are the adjustments to be made, such as are bound to exist where two different natures meet. There are the little love spats. There are the times when opinions differ. And it takes ever so long to arrive at the compromise.

That does seem enough for any sister to battle with. But here is one who is suffering the woes of non-attention, and all the while her heart is weighted with an over amount of caring.

Dear Miss Brunot:

Since you have helped some of my friends already, I do feel you can aid me. I am desperately in love with a boy. But although he has told me he loves me, yet he neglects me. The last time he did so, I told him I did not love him as much as I had, and he got angry. He calls up occasionally, but never mentions seeing me. I do love him so much that it hurts me the way he acts. Was it wrong for me to say what I did? Should I apologize. Will be waiting patiently,

Miss Brunot

BROKEN HEARTED.

Perhaps you were hasty, Broken Hearted. Yet a fellow so easily chased away, hasn't much backbone . . . and men need such vertebrae when courting. Wait awhile, and maybe he will get up courage enough when he telephones, to suggest a visit. The very fact that he telephones shows you are still in his mind even if not deeply rooted in his heart.

Dear Miss Brunot:

Here I am back again. I am going to describe a boy friend: He is a blond, blue eyed, tall, broad shouldered, girlishly shy, and a very good boy. He doesn't smoke, drink, or stay out late at night and never disobeys his mother's wishes. A basket ball star and a senior in High School, he isn't so terribly handsome, but there is something that draws me to him!

BOY MEAN TO HER

I like him very much, but I really do believe he hates me. He is very quick tempered. The boy knows who I am, and several times has talked with me. He knows nothing about my home life or my impish ideas. I am on the wrong side of him and want you to help me out, and over to his side.

One day I met him in the hall, and said: "Hello, A——" (that is the first letter of his name). My goodness, he almost tore me to pieces. He gave me a mean answer, and hasn't spoken since. What shall I say to him, apologize? He graduates this May, and I want to make up before then. Thanks again, I will be waiting.

AGNES.

Well, Agnes, I can't see that you did anything very impish, by saying "Hello, A——," Surely a high school student couldn't expect you to address him as Mister. The fellow may be too dignified, and so be entirely out of your sphere. Of course if your heart is dead set on him, go right to it, sister. I feel by the tone of your letter you maybe know better than I can tell you. Girlishly shy boys are often quite good chums when one gets to know them well. However, Agnes, you better watch out for A's mother. She may keep a close tab on him. Try being pleasant. Do not quit speaking, and use your winnin' ways, as Vance in the S. S. Van Dyne thrillers would say, and I feel quite positive you will get what you want. I wish you luck. I am glad you have written again to me. And keep it up, I am always ready to help you.

PARENTS OBJECT

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am a girl of 15 and a sophomore in high school. I am considered somewhat attractive, and dress neatly and nicely. I am well acquainted with the boys and like them all. My personality is pleasing, and I am considered the life of a party. Now, here is my trouble: My mother and father do not allow me out with the boys yet. And all the boys want me to go skating and accompany them to parties. What shall I do? How long do you think a girl of 15 or 16 should be allowed to stay out in the evening? I skate directly in front of my own house, as it is used for that sport, being level. The fellows who pass by that I know, skate with me. Father and mother think this is a shame.

I read your column closely, Miss Brunot, and you say so many things that fit into my life . . . Thank you, A. S.

Your parents are right about your being young for real attention. Fifteen may seem a great age to you now, but it won't seem so in a few years. I can't exactly see any great harm in your skating with the boys in front of your own home. However, it is the manner in which you receive such attention. Girls your age should be at home before dark, as it is not wise for anyone so young to be on the streets late at night. These evenings are nice and long, so you have plenty of time for fun. I like to see all young people enjoy themselves. But also each sister has to look out for her future, as it may be a very long journey if each lives the number of years accorded us.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

Girl of Breeding Who Turns "Moll" Mystifies Fay King

By FAY KING

In underworld slang the consort of a crook who carries a gun is called his "gun-moll." He may be married to her or not. Alas, we read a great deal about "gun-molls" in our newspapers these days.

Most of them are girls who had little chance in life. One may say of them that they only drifted from little to less, by force and fear, perhaps, against their wills.

Hugh's Arrival Anxiously Awaited

There was such genuine sorrow and terror in the wailing chant from Lee Chow's lips, asking Hugh Grantland to come as quickly, as only he could help him, that I looked at Lillian in bewilderment. Surely that was not the voice of a suddenly crazed man, but of one in desperate need, pleading for aid.

Yet, if we put aside the hypothesis of insanity, it left no alternative of belief for us but that which accused Lee Chow of cooly, deliberately plotting against Dicky's life, and concocting some diabolical scheme in which I was to be the central figure.

Lillian slowly shook her head at my bewildered look.

"Better not try any of the conjecture stuff," she advised. "We're up against something new; something that is puzzling your father and Harry, and which, I think, has Hugh buffaloed also. But one thing's sure. We can't do a dratted thing about it until Hugh comes back—that is, except keep the gifted Mr. Lee safely tied up, so he can't get out to do any more mischief.

"And now that he is safely in Dicky's room—didn't you hear them carrying him kicking and struggling down the hall?—I think it's time for you to untangle those frayed nerves of yours, unclench those mental fists, as it were, and relax your mind and body."

She turned as she spoke and went swiftly into the next room, Katherine's bedroom, returning in a minute to give Katie rapid instructions.

"Put clean linen upon that bed of Mrs. Bickett's, please, and make it up at once. Then go down to the kitchen and bring me a glass of hot milk."

TO SLEEP NEAR CHILDREN

"Oh, boy! I feex heem qveeck," Katie replied. And I realized that her curiosity-ridden nature was reveling at the chance to get out into the corridor and as near as possible to the center of excitement.

She disappeared into the bedroom and I caught Lillian's arm.

"Oh, you dear'" I said gratefully. "You are planning for me to sleep here near the children tonight?"

"Bull's eye, the first shot!" she returned, looking at me affectionately. "Come now, 'fess up! Isn't it the one thing that will satisfy you, and let you get to sleep?"

"Yes, yes; of course it is." I returned. "But where will you sleep?"

"In the place I like better than anywhere else," she said, "on the couch in the sun porch out here, wrapped in warm blankets from my head to my toes. I wouldn't trade a night's sleep outdoors in this winey autumn air for a month of ordinary outdoor sleeping. Then, besides, I'll be right near you if you want me. If necessary I'll tie a string from your toe to mine, schoolboy fashion."

"I don't think that will be necessary," I told her, smiling with the relief from nerve strain that her very presence always brings me.

SUBDUED KATIE

Bed all feex," she proclaimed. "I go now, bring hot milk fast as leetle sheep's tails kin viggle."

"I no tink anything like dot," Katie began loftily. But her eyes were not proof against Lillian's quizzical glance, and it was a much subdued Katie who hurried out of the room.

"I hate to ride her," Lillian commented, as she locked the door again, "but we don't want her snooping around keyholes for awhile, at least, and you know strong measures are necessary to accomplish that desired end."

"I know all about it," I answered. "I also know that you have just about saved my reason tonight by bringing me in here. I've had about all that I could stand. May I look at the children before I lie down?"

"Goof! Why the docility?" she retorted, and led the way to the nursery, where Baby Faith in her snowy crib was demonstrating anew her resemblance to a crumpled roseleaf; and then to the room beyond, where Junior and Roderick were sprawled in healthful, boyish slumber.

My father's voice, calling through the door, brought us back in haste to the front room.

"I want to talk to you both, please," he said.

The Home Fire Drill

Every member of the household should know how to send in a fire alarm or what number to call on the telephone in case of fire. It takes but a little while to instill into a child's mind what he should do in an emergency and it might save lives and a home at some future time.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

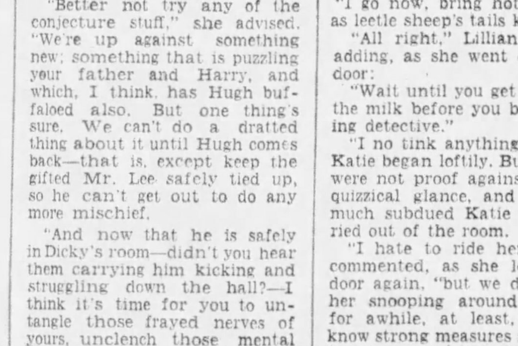
Experts at Their Worst

I have discusesd often the expertness of the bidding and play displayed by some of the country's leading Bridge players. That, of course, is a natural thing because if they did not play expertly, if they did not bid their hands correctly and then take advantage of all their Bridge lore and applied psychology, to fulfill the contract, they would not be ranked as experts.

However, the hand below, in which two of the country's leading experts were playing East and West, contains so many atrocities that I feel I cannot even mention the names of the players.

East, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♠ (1)	2 ♣
3 ♡ (2)	Pass	3 N T	Pass
4 ♠ (3)	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble (4)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A diamond would be a much better call on this hand.

2—Despite the fact that East has passed originally and his hand contains reasonably good distribution in support of spades, with only one Ace and no King or Queen in the hand the three-heart bid is a very bad overbid.

3—Naturally East has no choice at this point but to return to four spades.

4—Adding insult to injury. After East has forced his partner, who may have opened on an absolute minimum, up to game all by himself without even ascertaining whether there is a heart fit in the hand, the Redouble, however, courageous, is most unwise.

In the play West might have saved something from the wreck, bad as was the bidding of his partner. Possibly his one excuse is that he was completely demoralized by a view of the Dummy.

North opened the diamond 2, and the Declarer made his first mistake when he played the five rather than the Knave from Dummy. South's nine forced the Queen, and West now led a low heart, North's lone King losing to the Ace in Dummy. The next mistake was the lead of a low spade from Dummy, and the finesse of the Knave in the closed hand, which permitted North's blank Queen to win. North now led the club Queen, which South won with the Ace, and South returned a diamond, which West won with the Ace. The Declarer now led a heart, which was won by South with the Ten, and a club returned. West won the trick with the King and returned the third round of clubs, which was ruffed in Dummy but over-ruffed by South. South now led the Ace and Ten of spades, which put the Declarer in his own hand again, and he was forced now to concede two diamond tricks to North, who had retained the King and Ten. In other words, the defending side took three spade tricks, one heart trick, two diamond tricks and one club trick for a set of 2800 points.

Correct Manners

Thanking the Editor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When an editor accepts a manuscript, is it necessary, customary, or optional, to write a note of thanks for the remunerations? L.

Writing this note is optional, but it is a gracious amenity that shows that you are a polite and appreciative person. And the editor will like to receive it!

Linen Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning a linen shower for my girl friend next month. If you will please send me some information I'll appreciate it. K.

First, in your invitation, state what kind of shower you are giving, so that your guests will bring gifts of linen. Your shower can be in the form of a luncheon, a tea, a luncheon with bridge after it, or a tea with bridge before it.

For a linen shower you may buy a paper trunk, attractively covered or ready to be covered, with novelty paper with a wedding suggestion. Or if you can't locate a proper trunk, cover a large box, or make a Jack Horner pie, as the container for the shower presents.

Try to give the present-container the gala appearance of a "hope chest," for this is especially appropriate for a linen-shower. You may place this gift box on a table near the luncheon or tea table, and have the honored guest open the gifts at the time you think is convenient.

How to Keep Well

Insulin Not a Cure for Diabetes

Despite the tremendous advances made in the treatment of diabetes, this disease continues to be a serious menace to health. A recent report states the diabetes death rate in New York City is about 50 per cent higher today than it was 20 years ago.

Dr. Copeland

Probably the disease is more readily recognized now, but whatever the cause of the increase is, I believe it can be traced to failure of most diabetis sufferers to follow the rules and treatment prescribed for this ailment. Many persons consider diabetes a harmless affliction. They deprive themselves of proper medical attention and resort to home remedies and unauthorized methods of treatment.

Another error I wish to correct is the common belief that insulin cures diabetes. Many take insulin for a short period of time and discontinue this valuable substance believing they are cured. Please bear in mind that insulin does not cure diabeses. It supplies the body with the necessary material to permit the body properly to digest certain foods.

Of course all sufferers from diabetes do not require insulin. Mild cases respond to diet treatment. When proper diet and the necessary precautions are taken, the symptoms and discomfort of the disorder disappear. But even though the symptoms disappear, the progress of the case should be checked by repeated urine tests as well as blood tests.

I am often asked what is the best diet for a diabetic. This is difficult to answer, since the diet is influenced by the amount of sugar present in the urine and blood of the patient. In addition, age, weight, sex and tolerance of the body to certain foods must be considered.

The diet should be divided into definite quantities of protein, fat and carbohydrates. Your doctor will prescribe the exact amounts. If diet alone is not sufficient to control the disease, insulin must be given.

As a rule, milk, bread, sugar, pies, pastries, candy and coffee, are omitted from the diet. The diet is planned to supply sufficient nourishment, yet prevent overweight or excess of fat. It is dangerous to include in your diet foods that are not acceptable to the body. To neglect this precaution leads to serious complications.

I cannot overstate the danger of neglecting diabetes. If you are afflicted with this disease, my advice is to consult with a physician and to report to him at periodic intervals. Follow his instructions carefully.

SKINNY? Add 5 lbs. of Alluring Curves This Quick New Way

New Natural Mineral Concentrate, Free From Drugs, Rich in FOOD IODINE Building Up Thousands of Nervous Skinny Rundown Folks Quick New Way

If you are thin, rundown, underweight, don't rule your digestion and overload your system with rich, heavy foods which kill your appetite and keep you feeling miserable.

The only way to add weight is to eat a normal amount of good, nourishing food and see that your digestive glands and assimilation processes get the good out of it.

To do this you need plenty of the precious hard-to-get minerals found in Kelp-a-Malt, the new vegetable concentrate rich in vital mineral salts and precious FOOD IODINE. Kelp-a-Malt feeds FOOD IODINE to the starved glands which normally should produce the digestive juices which enable you to digest fats and starches. By providing the proper FOOD IODINE supply it also assures the body enough Thyroxin, that mysterious body substance without which food materials cannot be turned into firm healthy flesh, rich red blood and day-long energy.

Try Kelp-a-Malt for a single week. Its Food Iodine is the one mineral that is indispensable to all glands. Watch the difference that it makes. If you do not gain from 3 to 5 pounds, look and feel younger, find noticeable relief from stomach troubles, bring back the bottle and your money will be returned. Generous 10-day supply of Kelp-a-Malt costs but little. Fine for Children Too—Improves Their Appetite. Get Kelp-a-Malt today.

15c Practical Pattern

You can see in the sketch how it looks on a young figure with its smart double shoulder ruffles and its gay little sash! But, if you use your imagination a bit, you will realize that an older woman can wear it charmingly also. That front panel gives height to the figure and creates an illusion of slenderness. It is not necessarily a print frock—it makes up delightfully in a plain chiffon or voile, and you really couldn't do much better for one of those dark georgette frocks which are so often life-savers in warm weather.

Pattern 1837 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3⅞ yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. MARGARET R. JOHNSTON, 181 Grasmere street, Crafton.
JELLIED FUDGE APPLES.

Half cup sugar.
One cup water.
Six apples, peeled and cored.
One package lemon gelatin.
One cup cold water.
One cup brown sugar.
One tablespoon butter.
One-quarter cup milk.

Boil together sugar and water for about 10 minutes. Add apples and cook until tender, but not broken. When done, drain and arrange in one large or six small molds. Measure boiling syrup, add boiling water to make one cup. Pour over lemon gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add one cup cold water. Cool. Prepare fudge by boiling together brown sugar, butter and milk to 238 degrees F., or until a soft ball forms when tested in cold water. Fill centers of apples with fudge mixture. When it has cooled, pour gelatin mixture over apples to fill mold. Chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream. One-half cup chopped walnuts or pecans may be added to fudge mixture if desired. Serves six.

Five $1 Prize Winners

MRS. H. M. WOOLRIDGE, 1584 Ridge avenue, New Kensington.
SCRAMBLED CORN AND EGGS.

Three eggs.
One cup milk.
One tablespoon finely cut green pepper.
One tablespoon butter.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Put corn, pepper and one-half of milk into saucepan, cook five minutes. Beat eggs and other half of milk until light; add to corn and pepper and cook slowly, stirring constantly until set. Add the butter and salt. Serve on thin slices of toast. The pepper can be omitted and parsley or green celery tops used instead. Canned corn can be used when fresh corn is not in season.

CLARA STUPY, Monrose Terrace, Emsworth.
JELLIED PINEAPPLE GINGER

One package lemon gelatin.
One cup boiling water.
One cup canned pineapple juice.
One cup cream, whipped.
Three-fourths cups crushed pineapple.
One-fourth cup chopped preserved ginger.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add pineapple juice and chill until thick, but not set. Whip until frothy. Add cream, fruit and ginger. Pile in sherbet glasses and chill.

Dark Part:
One cup of shortening (half butter, half other shortening).
One and one-half cupfuls of brown sugar.
Two eggs, well beaten.
Three cupfuls flour.
One-half teaspoon of cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon of mace.
One teaspoon of soda.
One-quarter teaspoon of salt.
One cupful chopped nuts.

Cream shortening and sugar very thoroughly together, add the eggs, and the dry ingredients which have all been sifted together, then the nuts. No liquid is needed in this part. Mix well, and set aside while you make the light part.

Light Part:
One-half cupful of shortening (half butter, half other shortening).
Three-quarter cupful granulated sugar.
One egg, beaten.
One teaspoon vanilla flavoring.
One teaspoon almond flavoring.
Two cupfuls flour.
One-quarter teaspoon of soda.
One-half teaspoon of salt.
Two tablespoonsful cold water.
Three-quarter cupful of raisins, cut fine.
Twelve candied cherries, cut fine.

Cream the shortening and sugar, add the egg, the dry ingredients sifted together and the cold water and flavorings, then the chopped raisins and cherries. Mix well. Take half the dark part and press it down into a long, narrow pan (a bread pan can be used). Lay the light part on top, and press down evenly, then lay the remaining dark part on top, and press down as before, making the top smooth. Let stand in refrigerator at least 12 hours before attempting to turn out and slice. Then slice with a sharp knife, place on a very lightly oiled cookie sheet, and bake quickly in a hot oven (425 to 450 degrees), watching carefully so that they do not burn.

These are very nice to have on hand to serve with fresh fruits. Slice off and bake only what are needed at one time.

Bellevue Banker's Parole Plea Refused

Ainsley D. Smith, serving eight years in jail for embezzlement of funds of the closed Citizens Trust Company, of Bellevue, of which he was secretary and treasurer, was refused a parole late yesterday by Judge A. B. Reid. He was convicted January 28, 1933, and, after losing an appeal for a new trial, was sentenced by Judge Reid last September. He claimed ill health in his parole application.

Salvation Army Issues Warning

Warning that persons representing themselves as Salvation Army budget drive solicitors have been canvassing in various parts of the city was issued today by army officials. All persons authorized to participate in the campaign carry identification badges. The drive is being conducted in an effort to raise $108,500 to enable the organization to meet its 1934 budget.

SHE LOST 27 LBS. IN 8 WEEKS
HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE DOWN, TOO

"I am more than glad I used the SYL-VETTE method to reduce because I lost 27 pounds in 8 weeks. And it served a double purpose in my case. When I started taking SYL-VETTE my blood pressure was 245 and it came down to 150 while using it, so I cannot praise this delicious food enough. I felt wonderful all the time I was reducing, and feel better now than I have for years. SYL-VETTE certainly does satisfy the appetite and also improves you physically."

Mrs. Alberta Noland, 306 N. Wabash St., Wheeling, W. Va.

NO DRUGS — NO THYROIDS — NO SALTS — SYL-VETTE IS A FOOD

SYL-VETTE is a drugless, safe system of weight control, a condensed hunger-satisfying food substitute of which one teaspoonful equals a breakfast or a lunch.

SYL-VETTE not only satisfies hunger, but supplies nourishment and strength—also prevents sagging muscles, wrinkles, and that distressed, haggard look so common with other reducing treatments. That's because SYL-VETTE is rich in non-fattening proteins and carbohydrates.

HERE'S PROOF—19 out of every 20 users lose 3 pounds or more the first week—10 to 15 pounds a month—which is pronounced safe by doctors. Economical, too 30 slenderizing meals $1.00.

Today we've some wedding news from California, news of the marriage of a Pittsburgh son to an eastern girl in San Diego.

The George Yates Gilberts, of Ridgewood, N. J., announce the marriage of their daughter, Adele Louise, to Clarke Painter, son of George E. Painter, of Pittsburgh, which took place Saturday at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Sketchley Gilbert, of San Diego, Cal.

Mr. Painter and his bride will probably spend the greater part of their time in California.

Woman's Exchange Plans for Rummage

With the flurry of rummage sales in the past few years—nearly every organization one can think of has given at least one as a benefit—it's astounding to find that still more rummage can be produced.

But it can be. All day yesterday members of the Woman's Exchange board were putting price tags on rummage, and there was so much that they had to go back today for another all-day session.

Perhaps because attic resources have been pretty much exhausted in the past several years of rummage sales, wardrobes are being looted now. Mrs. William Zang, of the exchange board, tells me that dressess and hats galore have been contributed.

Sale to Be Held On Two Days

The Woman's Exchange—the Woman's Industrial Exchange, to use the full title—will hold its rummage sale, an annual event, on May 10 and 11 in two vacant houses at Stanwix and Penn, near the Exchange Building on Penn avenue in downtown Pittsburgh.

Proceeds from the sale aid the board in paying maintenance charges of the exchange, which sells work of women who cannot leave their families to earn money.

Many of the city's social leaders may be found at the scene of the rummage sale, preparing for the opening day.

Social Registerites To Be Saleswomen

In charge of the sale of china will be Mrs. George Macbeth with Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Mrs. William Zang and Mrs. John Gibson among her assisting "saleswomen" for the two days.

Mrs. B. K. McMechen will be in charge of the book department; Mrs. B. F. Jones, silver and jewelry, with Mrs. Moses B. Atwood confining her interests to the jewelry counter.

And there'll be scores and scores more of our social registerites taking the role of saleswomen for the two days—Thursday and Friday. Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, of Sewickley Heights, is the capable president of the Woman's Exchange.

Today will find many enthusiastic golfers playing their first eighteen holes of the season, for both Allegheny Country Club and Longue Vue Country Clubs are having their first matches of the season today.

The women's golf committee of the Wildwood Country Club announces the opening of its golfing season on Friday with golf in the morning and a luncheon at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. E. L. Anderson is chairman of the committee which includes Mrs. A. R. Kumer, Mrs. G. W. Feltyberger, Mrs. J. D. Ritchey, Mrs. J. F. Callahan and Mrs. T. H. Thorn.

North Side Girl Is Wed

At a pretty church ceremony Saturday Miss Anna M. Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Patterson, of McClure avenue, became the bride of J. A. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Wilson, of Knoxville.

The wedding took place in the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church with the Rev. William V. Parsons officiating in the presence of the two families and a few close friends.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ilona B. Patterson, and Eric Fawcett, of Toronto, Canada, was best man. There was a small reception in the home of the bride's parents after which Mr. Wilson and his bride left on an eastern motor trip. After June 1 they will be at home in Prospect street, Avalon.

Mrs. H. J. Volker Tells of Life In India

Going to India with wedding present checks which she and her husband expected to invest in electrical equipment and finding that the only running water they had was carried by a black boy, was one of many equally amusing sidelights on their three-year residence there which Mrs. Henry J. Volker, of Aspinwall, told the Woman's Press Club yesterday. Mrs. Volker and her husband, a mining engineer, lived 40 miles from the nearest white people and brought up their baby daughter in the jungle.

Hair-raising experiences with snakes and even a passing acquaintance with panthers, leopards, tigers and elephants were among many other intensely interesting things related by the speaker. Miss Bernice Shine presided in the absence of the president and vice president.

Miss Sylvia Flygar Engaged to Marry

Mrs. Olivia A. Flygar, of North Braddock, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sylvia Flygar, to Harry Layton Crooks, of Pittsburgh, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George F. Crooks, of Butler.

Helen Thomas Wed To Atlantic City Man

Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Thomas, of Patterson avenue, Carnegie, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen Adams Thomas, to Herbert A. Wright, of Atlantic City, N. J., which took place in the Thomas home on Saturday.

Controversial Subjects Mrs. Roessing's Topic At Club Institute

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

No club can function today without controversial subjects; but both sides must be presented, Mrs. Jennie Bradley Roessing said yesterday before the club institute conducted by the southwestern district, State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, in the Hotel Schenley. Why not debate openly what is discussed privately, Mrs. Roessing asked, adding that strength comes only from struggle and debate gives mental alertness and vigor.

Telling why she is a club woman, Mrs. John A. Caughey, of McKeesport, said the training and associations of club life give courage to meet individual problems and that progress, service, mutual helpfulness, friendship, education, exchange of ideas and keeping abreast of the times are all to be found in club work. In her talk on "The Art of Program Making," Mrs. Joseph Dury said programs must give inspiration, mental stimulation and opportunity for expression, and that the club should get new aspirations from its programs. Under three B's—"be interested, be business-like and be active," Mrs. T. M. Stahlman discussed "The Importance of Business Meetings."

Mrs. Alfred A. Crooks, State Federation chairman of institutes, conducted a question box and later talked about the three C's in club work—civic consciousness, courage and courtesy.

Children's Charity Meeting Arranged

The first organization meeting in the new East Liberty Presbyterian Church will be that of the Children's Charity, which will have an all-day sewing in the sewing rooms on May 16. The meeting has been postponed until that date in order that it might be held in the new building.

Women Begin Golfing Season

Today is opening golf day for women members of the Shannopin Country Club, with golfing in the morning and luncheon at 1 o'clock. Saturday will be family day at Shannopin, with golf, bridge and tea and a dinner dance in the evening.

Beginning June 16 there will be a dance at the clubhouse every Saturday night, and dinner dances will be held on Memorial Day, July 4 and on Labor Day.

Morningside P. T. A. To Elect Officers

Annual election of officers of the Morningside Parent-Teacher Association will take place Thursday evening. Preceding the business session motion pictures will be shown and afterward groups of pupils will give a demonstration of the work in dramatic expression under the direction of Miss Stella M. Burgo.

"Let's Fall in Love" is the song they sing to the Girl with a CAMAY COMPLEXION

"I still can hear them ringing in my ears—those grand things he said about me and my complexion."

Evening Gown, Courtesy Ten Eyck Couturier, New York

Love has many languages. The language of flowers, of whispered compliments, of tender song.

And the charm that inspires them all is the peach-bloom softness of a lovely skin — the smooth, clear beauty of a Camay Complexion.

A few cakes of Camay—and soon your own mirror will reflect a clear, fresh skin. And your fingertips, when you touch your cheek, will be greeted by a smooth, soft texture.

A CAMAY COMPLEXION AND ANOTHER BEAUTY CONTEST IS WON!

You may not ever care to be selected "Miss Universe" or to take part in the kind of Beauty Contest the newspapers illustrate.

But even if you're shy and unassuming, your beauty and charm are judged in life's great Beauty Contest. Why, almost every day someone's eyes look you over, someone's mind is made up, a friend is gained or lost. And the sure way to win people's favor and praise is to get yourself a Camay Complexion!

A pretty young matron said, "There's a cool, glamorous freshness to my complexion ever since I began using Camay. I feel sure the improvement in my looks is due to Camay's rich, creamy lather."

Try Camay—and convince yourself. You'll be more pleased with the results than you dream! Camay is the perfect soap for your skin—and a boon to a girl's good looks!

CAMAY BUBBLES ARE BEAUTY BUBBLES

Camay's lather is a beauty lotion in its finest form. Each drop of water mingles with the pure white soap in a shower of fragrant, jewel-like Beauty Bubbles—freshly made each time you cleanse your skin.

And this is true of Camay—and only Camay. For Camay is made by its own secret blending process—of the most delicate oils. Because of its careful blending and pure ingredients, Camay is the perfect beauty soap!

PARIS, May 8.—The social pace-setters of the American colony in Paris had a merry chuckle today when they learned that the former Mrs. H. H. Rogers, who has resumed the name of her previous husband, Basil Miles, forgot herself at Cannes and absentmindedly signed "Daisy Rogers" to a 3,000-franc bank check, with which she paid for a fashionable dinner party at the Martines Hotel.

MRS. BASIL MILES
Widowed Mrs. Miles, divorced Mrs. Rogers . . . She meant to sign "Miles," she did sign "Rogers . . ."

When the hotel authorities reluctantly and deliberately approached the socially prominent guest, she laughed good-naturedly and wrote a new check in the name of Mrs. Basil Miles.

This was cashed by Lloyds' Bank with the easy air denoting there is "plenty more where that came from."

GRAND DUCHESS
Grand Duchess Cyril . . . "Empress of Russia" . . . Eyeing U. S. "eligibles" . . .

Grand Duke Cyril, of Russia, pretender to the throne of the czars and his grand duchess are eyeing the eligible American bachelor corps over here on behalf of their attractive daughter, Princess Kira, who has just celebrated her twenty-fifth birthday.

Number one plum seems to be wealthy Frank Burke Roche, who has been seen at numerous parties for the princess in Paris. L. E. Brown, son of Mrs. Henry S. Downe, is another. He gave a luncheon party for the princess at his mother's Paris apartment recently, and has been seen frequently at the Ambassadeurs Supper Club.

In fact, the princess has been extremely popular in American circles and has been entertained at parties attended by Americans, among them, Mrs. Ernest Wagner, Charles Crane, Edward Rocke, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Taylor and others.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carr, of Chicago, have just returned to their villa at Valponne, near Cannes, and are looking for a household staff without teeth.

Their last butler bit off the ear of their valet de chambre in a quarrel, proof of which is the ear itself, which is now pickled in alcohol in the Grasse police archives.

The Marquise De Meyronnet De Saint Marc, the former Eleanor Waln, of Philadelphia, celebrated her recovery from chickenpox the other night at the Cannes Casino, where she looked most charming in a pale yellow georgette gown matching a sable trimmed coat and blending with a coronet of diamonds.

MISS WHITE

Among other "improved" Americans seen about lately is the vivacious Pearl White, formerly of Hollywood, who has just recovered from a nervous breakdown.

She gave a large cocktail party, at which she wore a gold lame gown especially designed to go with a huge gold leaf chair which is a copy of King Tut's, and in which she loves to sit.

POST-PINAFORE STYLES THAT SATISFY

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IF YOU ARE at the age when you know exactly what sort of clothes look best on you, and still are supposed to wear things that your elders pick out, it might be wise to gum shoe into the specialty departments during shopping tours. For there are a number of shops that feel for sprouting belles, and there is more than one designer who supplies swell clothes exclusively of this genre.

There is a pocket-piece scrap of an artist and dressmaker who has a grand formula for the early 'teens—she invented it in her own 'teens for herself—which is blended of dash, impudence, usefulness and good style. She turns out carefully fitted, streamline little numbers, and like all the latest (and earliest) successful garments for the growing young, they are practically constructed for cleaning and the wear and tear of high spirits. Great big buttons, trick pockets and fastenings that require a minimum of effort are part of all these models.

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc.)

The trig jacket frock, right, is headed for a checkered career, for it involves a jumper dress in black and white checks with which school day or dressier blouses may be worn, and the coat is as matinee-minded as it is campus correct. White pique blouse supplied.

Quite a bib, this white pique gadget which is held on its matching blouse by one bow through the skirt and another at the throat. The material of the bolero jacket and the sleek little skirt is blue woolen with a white pin stripe.

A ruffly, crisp bit of dotted Swiss makes an ideal Summer negligee . . . . or so one of the stores thinks! For they have brought out lovely feminine scraps of voile and Swiss fashioned into soft, ankle-length garments with fichus, or ruffles, or puff sleeves or all three of these . . . . and called them Negligees. In pastel prints . . . sizes small and medium . . . and prices $2.98 and $3.50. They wash practically forever.

What would you think if someone suggested using a glass rolling pin as a cocktail shaker? WE think it's a pretty smart idea.. You know the feature of the glass rolling pin is its hollow middle where you put ice water . . . the place for the cocktails in this instance. Just unscrew one end and pour in. Only 50c . . . and approved by Good Housekeeping.

Sail ho! Even though you may not be planning to "sail away for a year and a day" you'll find these sailor suits are about the best things to perambulate about in that you could wish!

One of the stores tell us that they can hardly keep them in stock. They're blue or white pique . . . washable, of course . . . and have all the regulation anchors, eagles and white lacing up the front. Somewhat reminiscent of the days when you, as a pig-tailed edition of femininity, wore Peter Thompson suits! They're $5.95 . . . 14 to 20.

* * *

And in the same marketplace we uncovered cotton jackets with all-over embroidery. Done up nicely in mandarin style . . . loose - swinging from the shoulders, and fastening closely 'round the throat . . .loose sleeves. In navy, browns, reds and blacks (the embroidery is white). Nice for sports, town wear and even the beach . . . if you're beaching this season. $5.95!

Hot news, girls! One of the town's most high-and-mighty lingerie, negligee and corset shops is doing well by all the little femmes now that they're offering all their utterly delectable underpinnings for 20 discount!

We popped in for a look 'round and beheld whole counters full of peach colored . . . maize colored . . . pink-and-white unmentionables piled up for your choosing! From the merely "handfinished" to the entirely handmade . . . and you'd better believe that these at 20 per cent off are A BARGAIN. We're telling you!

* * *

Dip your little nose into one of these cocktail cups and emerge . . . feeling the better for it (in more ways than one!) Because, anyone having "theirs" in one of these cuplets will enjoy just that much more atmosphere . . . for as little as 48c. They're V-shaped . . . glass with a red foot on them and a different subject painted on the side in white. Roosters . . . galleons (old sailing ships to you!) . . . flowers . . . fish . . . quite stunning! If yours were bashed up during moving days . . . this is a chance to have some even smarter ones for little!

Mt. Lebanon Club Hears Review

"The Life of Cecil Rhodes," by Sarah Gertrude Millen, is being reviewed by Mrs. J. H. Blocker and Mrs. Carl Hathaway at today's meeting of the reviewers, Mt. Lebanon Women's Club. Following the discussion hour tea is being served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. T. Whitney and Mrs. H. G. Sands.

Council Plans For Party on Saturday

The weekly card party sponsored by the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women at the council house on Saturday afternoon will be in charge of Mrs. John Murray. Assisting the chairman will be Mrs. Martin J. Flucker, Miss Virginia Ginnity, Mrs. Joseph G. Keener, Mrs. Margaret Schill, Miss Mary M. McGarry, Mrs. Gertrude Normile, Mrs. George A. Findley, Mrs. John Cronin and Mrs. K. L. Aubele.

On Monday evening at Council House the mothers and friends of the Queen's Daughters are invited to view "The Cavalcade of Gowns," a fashion show that will be modeled by the "Daughters" themselves.

Tea will be served following the entertainment. Miss Harriet Flanagan is chairman.

Phi Alpha Kappa Gives Tea

The Chartiers branch of Phi Alpha Kappa Sorority gave a tea Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Jean Yourd, Thomas avenue, Roslyn Heights, for its new pledges, Miss Thelma Kaiser, Miss Betty Mae York, Miss Virginia McCune and Miss Estelle Smith.

Sunset Dance For Pitt Girls Arranged

It is traditional with the alumnae of the University of Pittsburgh that the sunset dinner, honoring the senior girls, be held the Saturday preceding commencement. Saturday, June 2 is this year's date. Dinner will be served at the University Club, following the reception (another tradition) given by Mrs. John Gabbart Bowman and Miss Thyrsa W. Amos.

Miss Mary Kammerer, of Etna, has been appointed general chairman by Miss Eloise R. Bonhard, alumnae president. Reservations are to be made with Miss Margaret Morrissey.

Literary Review To Conclude Study

Concluding its study of Pittsburgh, the Literary Review of the North Side will have a meeting Friday at Mrs. Edward F. Geyer's home, Davis avenue. Mrs. Edward A. Fisher will talk on "Pittsburgh as an Educational Center;" Mrs. Floyd H. Nickeson of "Religious Life of Pittsburgh" and Mrs. Geyer will relate the history of the theater in the city.

Officers will be elected during the business hour. On June 8 the club will have a guest day.

New Officers In Aliquippa Inducted

At the Aliquipppa Woman's Club final business meeting of the year, which is being held today, the new and re-elected officers are assuming their duties for 1934-35. They are president, Mrs. H. P. Smith (serving her second year); first and second vice presidents, Mrs. Benjamin Williams and Mrs. J. R. Davis; recording and corresponding secretaries, Mrs. Walter R. Prosser and Mrs. A. L. McCabe; treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Rowley; historian, Mrs. W. E. Snow.

The program for the day is in the hands of the international relations committee, members of which have arranged a display of the handiwork of other nations, including some pieces 150 years old.

American pieces are on display, too, among these being some fine old silk quilts and, giving a touch of modernity, some work done by local high school students.

Mrs. Babcock Paid Tribute by City Club

This month's bulletin, issued by the Woman's City Club, pays a well deserved tribute to Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, retiring from the board after having been house chairman ever since the club was formed. Mrs. Babcock and her committee are to have charge of the buffet supper, which will precede the annual meeting tonight.

Election of officers and directors and reports of committee chairmen are the order of business. A program of music will be given by Miss Marguerite Lang, soprano, and Milton Thomas, 12-year-old violinist, Ralph Lewando accompanying.

Hazelwood Women Elect Officers

These officers have been elected for next year by the Hazelwood Woman's Club: President, Mrs. Percy Edwards; first and second vice presidents, Mrs. Lee Zong and Mrs. Frank Blessing; recording and corresponding secretaries, Mrs. Lewis Neff and Mrs. Thomas Digman; treasurer, Mrs. William Sample; librarian, Mrs. Charles Kohne, and directors, Mrs. Frank Rote and Mrs. Elmer Rittman.

At the next meeting, Thursday of this week, Miss Aulma Blessing will be the speaker. This afternoon Mrs. Harvey Moore is having a card party at her home for the benefit of St. Barbaras Home.

The bridge luncheon committee of the College Club has made plans for the club's May breakfast on Wednesday, May 16.

Duplicate playing will be directed by Mrs. Raymond Burns, but a section will be reserved for contract, also. Mrs. Clyde Stewart Rine's committee who will act as hostesses for the affair are Mrs. C. L. Dunham, Mrs. Carl J. Engelder, Mrs. Frederick W. Fraley, Jr., Mrs. Claude E. Gee, Mrs. Carl E. Glock, Mrs. J. K. B. Hare, Mrs. Jay Holmes, Mrs. Wesley B. Holmes, Mrs. Oscar v. d. Luft, Mrs. Myron G. Mansfield, Mrs. R. E. Parks, Mrs. Bryan B. Paul, Mrs. Albert P. Schrader, Mrs. Wilson Scott, Mrs. Charles Simon, Jr., Mrs. Grant B. Shipley and Mrs. Edward R. Williams.

* * *

Invitations have been sent out by the Zoar Home for the dedication of its new building on Thursday, May 17, at 4 o'clock. Speakers will include Judge Sara M. Soffel, Senator Frank J. Harris, the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr and W. P. Witherow.

Music will be by Miss Mabel King, contralto; Mrs. Lucille Miller Werner, soprano, and Miss Grace Hall, accompanist.

Mrs. I. S. Harris To Be Honored By Society

President's day, honoring Mrs. I. S. Harris, will be celebrated on Thursday with a musicale tea by the Ladies' Auxiliary Society to the Jewish Home for the Aged. Miss Bertha Schmidt, soprano, with Mrs. Sybil Young Chernoff as her accompanist, will present the program.

The invocation will be offered by the Rev. Jerome Rosenbloom, Miss Beatrice Polk will give "Ode to the Flag," Mrs. Harris will speak and the Rev. Dr. Herman Hailperin will pronounce the benediction.

Cabaret Dance To Be Held by Juniors

A Japanese garden has been chosen for the setting for the fifth annual cabaret dance to be given by the Monongahela Valley Section, National Council of Jewish Juniors.

The affair is to be held in the new Italian Hall, Monessen, on Wednesday, May 23.

Things I Never Knew 'Til Now About Chicago

That Walt Disney comes from Chicago. And that he saw his first little pig in the stockyards and his first big bad wolf in the City Hall.

That Chicago is the biggest inland city with the largest park and boulevard system in the world . . . And that its playground system rates second only to Boston's.

That the Chicago River is the only stream which flows backwards.

Which reminds me of the four million dollar bridle path made entirely of cinders.

That the near north side lake front was once owned by a Squatter . . . And that at one time Ol' Cap Streeter was going to appoint deputies and have them raid some of the millionaire apartment buildings which he declared were erected on his land . . . And that he scared some of Chicago's first families so, they demanded protection.

That the Irish Village was out of the World's Fair last year, but it got in this year.

That Chicago has more Negroes than the City of New Orleans and that Cab Calloway once attended Wendell Phillips High School. He began his climb in Chicago.

Which reminds me also that the Mills Brothers only three or four years ago were Loop bootblacks. . and that the agent who failed to realize their possibilities still has nervous indigestion whenever their names are mentioned.

And that four or five well-known night clubs of the prohibition era which weren't doing so well during early repeal days burned down or suffered from explosion recently.

That Chicago is the advertising Art Center of the world. . . The Leyendeckers, Russell Patterson, Dean Cornwall and Neysa McMein began their careers there.

That Johnny Weissmuller and his brother Pete used to be life guards at Oak Street Beach. And his mother is still a cook (and a marvelous one), at Lincoln Turner Hall.

That the Edgewater Beach Hotel and other property owners who thought they had riparian rights didn't. Result, they'll be way inland after the complete north side filling-in project is completed.

That Lincoln Park's new public golf course is one of the hardest in the world, each hole having been modeled after one on some champion course . . . And that even the biggest pros have difficulty equaling, not to mention cracking, its record.

That King Levinsky isn't nearly as dumb as some people believe. When he was only 12 or 13 years old he used to make $15 a week minding his brother Abie's fish stand and he could persuade the customers that any kind of left over fish was herring.

That he was once sent to the store for a pitcher of soda pop by his mother. That he parked the pitcher with the grocer, went out and fought three rounds, won, and came back home with the pop as though nothing had happened.

That Frank Bering of the Sherman has a show horse which counts, dances the black bottom, plays piano, combs its groom's hair and wears galoshes.

That the erstwhile head of the Chicago movie censor board who snipped and cut until she nearly drove exhibitors cuh-razy was in reality an ex-Shubert show girl.

That Gloria Swanson threw books at the critics when they tried to interview her on a recent visit.

That Ruth Etting and Sally Rand (Hazel Billie Beck), were once chorines together at the old Marigold . . . That Chicago has the oldest burlesque house in the country . . . That there's one there now owned by a prominent judge.

That there isn't a "Keep Off the Grass" sign in any public park in Chicago.

That Chicago was nicknamed "the Windy City" not because of the breezes, but because of the professional boosters who got so hot and bothered when, in the Nineties, Chicago's population got up to the second largest city.

That Carl Sandburg used to be a movie critic and that he dresses like a teamster—cap, blue shirt, etc.

That Paul Muni as Muni Weisenfreund used to borrow cigaret money from his pals around Gold's restaurant on Twelfth street, and that a group of admirers took up a collection to send him to New York.

And that the very library which ex-Mayor Bill Thompson sought "to purge" of English propaganda was founded from a fund donated by the late Queen Victoria.

Echoes From Cabarets

By THE ROUNDER

Huff and Chachita, who open in Bill McDonald's Walrose Night Club, near Ambridge, tonight, are said to do that Carioca exactly as Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire executed the dance in "Flying Down to Rio."

Judging from the remarks of the gang that jammed Lew Mercur's Villa Royale over the week-end, the honky-tonk idea and the 75-foot bar novelty are clicking. Lew says he is bringing several performers form Detroit and Buffalo to augment this week's show in the Villa.

Tony Covato, drummer in the Plaza orchestra, is to be married to Angie Strange, Homewood singer, this week. Pat Goode, m. c., is all set to wed Lillian Lorraine, Plaza featured dancer. Bill Lazzarina, waiter, has been Anita Doreco's hubby since Monday. Florence Wills, cashier, has been Mrs. Peter Petros, McKees Rocks, since last week.

Upholding the Show Boat's marital standard is Eddie Osmowski, parker, who on May 25, will wed Anne Miller, of the South Side. In spite of being an expert golfer, having won the South Park caddie tournament in 1933, Eddie intends to continue his present job.

With "Butch" Coyne, Monoco Gardens drink mixer, under the weather, Jack Albecker is doing double duty. But after all his experience at "Sloppy Joe's," Havana, and the exclusive local clubs during prohibition, he feels that he can "take it."

They're working double shifts at the Hi Hat Club, Aspinwall, in expectation of a big season. While one group is painting the building, another is enlarging the interior. Tomorrow work will begin on the outdoor patio, which will be opened May 25. An enlarged floor will be ready for Saturday night's crowd. Viola Lee, who opened at the club Saturday, will stay over this week with Sally Blue and the balance of the show.

Eddie Hartner will bring Paul Tremaine and his 14-piece Lonely Acres band to his Morado Cafe, Beaver Falls, tonight. Latest reports reveal that the Morado, which was formerly Club Casino, is going over big with Valley folks.

Elimination Asked Of Two Court Jobs

The elimination of the positions of Morals Court physician and nurse has been asked from Council by Health Director Ray P. Moyer. He suggests that the work be taken over by other employes of the department. The positions are now held by Dr. Elizabeth R. Childs and Miss Anne Cusick.

Robert Montgomery Signs For Feature Lead

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, May 8.—Hello! Amid all the hurry and bustle of trying to get away for his first vacation since taking up the post of production boss for Warners, Hal Wallis managed to sign Robert Armstrong for the featured lead in "The Princess from Kansas City," which will start shooting immediately.

William Gargan borrowed from RKO for a role with his pal, Leslie Howard, in "British Agent"—and now with these matters off his mind, Mr. Wallis heaved a sigh of relief and boarded a train for New York.

Three years ago a young man by the name of Tom Lenihan started sending gags to this dept. on penny postcards. Since that time he contributed hundreds of amusing wheezes.

Shortly after the first few jokes arrived I wrote him my appreciation, and he, in turn, told me his story. He was bedridden in Tucson . . . That lingering illness, you know . . . . Still, he had hopes.

Always extremely modest, he gave credit to others for his efforts, but I usually managed to tack his name on the gag in some manner. His favorites were Polly Moran and Jimmy Durante, I told Poly of Tom—and she sent him a radio for Christmas.

I received one of the usual penny postcards. It read: "Hello—Here's another: Eddie Welch wants to know if a lawyer joined a nudist colony, would he be called a BAREister?" Then Tom's handwriting ended and another's began. It continued with:

"Dear Sir—Tommy Lenihan started this to you, but he died suddenly Sunday, so I thought I would let you know.—Mrs. J. Covek, his nurse."

So long, Tom.

Wanderings Around Hollywood . . . A tip from deah ole Lunnon says that Mr. George Arliss is up for knighthood from the King . . . All day Slim Summerville wondered why a flock of seals on the "Afterwards" set were following him around. Director Jim Cruze had slipped a FISH in Slim's back pocket! . . . Sally Eilers put her dainty signature on a Universal contract for a couple of pictures a year . . . That SKIRMISH you probably didn't hear about at a popular country club, was between Billy Wellman and Lee Tracy—and both are sorry about the whole affair. Lee, incidentally, has been ordered (by his doctor) to Palm Springs for a couple of weeks . . . Lorena Layson's back from Florida—and awfully glad of it . . . The FUNNIEST crack in years was pulled by a Royal Lady (with an important title, mind you!) when she glimpsed a beautiful home. She gushed: "Ain't it swell!" . . . Dave O'Brien, former extra boy, stepped up a notch when he landed a nice role in "Arabella" at RKO . . . Al Jolson borrowed a pencil and is starting to work on a new story for himself.

Super-Snooping . . . Attention, mothers. — M-G-M is about to make a short film dealing with the care of babies . . . There is a very fine actor in Hollywood who, unfortunately, is afflicted with epileptic fits. Producers who value his performances arrange his roles so that should he have a sudden attack, they are able to continue without him for several days . . . The latest radio racket—for $100, a certain firm supplies "fan mail" for ether-wave fold. Letters of praise, you know, are necessary to keep the sponsors happy. One little lady was about to warble her radio debut and hired the racket outfit to put her over. A sudden change in the program kept the gal off the air. The next day 1,000 letters, boosting her appearance, arrived at the station, anyway! . . . Reading about Pert Kelton's glass penthouse, a local furniture builder is now making glass chairs and things. It all sounds a bit cracked—if you like puns. . . .

Some nit-wit asked Mae West if she took long walks before breakfast, and she cracked back with: "That depends on whose car I've been out in!"

* * *

Movieland Meanderings . . . Lynn Overman clicks BIG in "Half Way Decent," and his work may result in a term ticket . . . The Bill Gaxtons are practically WORN OUT from saying "Hello." They've just arrived and want to see everything and everybody . . . Arthur Lake and Betty Furness are CARRYING ON in a verra romantic way . . . W. C. Fields has the ENTIRE Paramount studio in the throes (expressive word) of giggles for his antics in an upper berth—a routine by J. P. McEvoy. . . . Since Earl Oxford has been lunching Irene Hervey those boxes of roses to Esther Ralston's house have ceased . . . Nat Pendleton, the rassler, actor and author, was once a secret service agent stationed along the Mexican border. . . . Joan Crawford is literally BESIEGED with requests from Hollywood friends for those phonograph records she made—but only a favored few get 'em . . . Universal is definitely after William Powell to play the late Ziegfeld in "The Great Ziegfeld."

Comedy With Songs

Carole Lombard is the owner of a yacht on which Bing Crosby is a sailor, and Bing sings to her, and bosses her on a tropical island, in "We're Not Dressing," coming Friday to the Penn Theater.

NOTES ABOUT NEW BILLS

Jeannete MacDonald and Ramon Navarro are co-featured in "The Cat and the Fiddle," musical comedy now in the Sheridan Square.

* * *

"As the Earth Turns," with Jean Muir and Donald Woods in the featured roles, opens tomorrow in the Cameraphone.

* * *

Mary Morris, Evelyn Vanable and Kent Taylor have principal roles in "Double Door," melodrama coming to the Warner screen Thursday. The story takes place in an old mansion, where Victoria, mistress of family millions, tries to wreck the romance of a young couple.

* * *

H. B. Warner is starred in the new talkie version of "Sorrell and Son," emotional drama opening Thursday in the Fulton. The picture tells the story of a father, who is deserted by his wife and is left with a young son, to whom he devotes his life. It is entirely new and not a reissue of the old one with talk "dubbed" in.

* * *

"Finishing School," with Frances Dee and Ginger Rogers, will be half of the double bill opening Friday in the Regent. "The Ninth Guest," with Donald Cook and Genevieve Tobin, will be the second half of the bill.

* * *

Bing Crosby and Carole Lombard have the leading roles in "We're Not Dressing," a comedy with music, coming Friday to the Penn. Bing plays a young sailor working on a yacht owned by Carole Lombard. They are shipwrecked on an island where they meet Burns and Allen, goofy scientists, conducting researches.

PULITZER PRIZE WINNERS LISTED

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP.)—Disagreeing with its drama jury, the Advisory Board of the Columbia School of Journalism announced through the university trustees the selection of "Men in White," by Sidney Kingsley, as the Pulitzer prize play for 1933.

The drama jury had voted unanimously for "Mary of Scotland," a historical play by Maxwell Anderson, but the Advisory Board, which submits the final list of winners to the trustees, selected the drama of a physician's conflict between his profession and his private life.

A similar disagreement in opinion arose between two of the three history jurors and the Advisory Board. The two jurors had selected "Over Here," the fifth volume in Mark Sullivan's series, "Our Times," while the third juror voted for no award. The Advisory Board selected "The People's Choice," by Herbert Agar.

LIST OF WINNERS

The complete list of winners, as determined by the trustees on the recommendation of the Advisory Board and announced last night, are:

Prizes in journalism—For the most distinguished and meritorious service rendered by an American newspaper during 1933, a gold medal costing $500: The Medford (Ore.) Mail Tribune for its campaign against unscrupulous politicians in Jackson County, Oregon.

SCANT COAL AID SEEN BY BAKER

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—(AP.)—Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, said last night the "New Deal can do little" to revive the "wretched, unprofitable and unsatisfactory" coal industry.

Dr. Baker, regarded as authority on problems affecting the bituminous coal industry, spoke at the fourth annual dinner of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation. The group was established to promote better relations between the United States and Germany.

Dr. Baker, who last year visited Germany in the interests of education and science, said he viewed nationalism as a corollery to "international disaster." He said he was arranging for an international conference of coal technicians in 1935 and expressed the hope Germany would send a delegation.

'JEKYLL' SPURNS AGED MOTHER

International News Service.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Even the plea of an aged mother today failed to shake Allan Hammel's dogged contention that he is a New York realty dealer and not the man charged with stealing $39,000 for an express company money truck.

At a dramatic meeting between the man's mother, Mrs. Ella McLeod, of Columbus, O., when the woman tried to embrace him Hammel coldly declared

"Madam, you must be mistaken. I don't know you. I am positive I am not your son."

Mrs. Hammel burst into tears.

Hammel has denied knowing two wives, each with five children. His first wife identified the prisoner as a former Columbus, O., policeman who was cashiered from the force in 1918 and then vanished.

Authorities said they were convinced the man is Hammel and psychiatrists pronounced their decision that Hammel is feigning a dual personality complex.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Love Is Not Important," a modern comedy by Rosemary Casey, will be this season's spring dramatic performance by the Bacchanalians, dramatic society of Carnegie Institue of Technology. The cast is composed of students of the Department of Drama and the play is being staged by Chester Wallace. It will be given in the Nixon Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12. The first performance Friday, has been purchased by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Association as a benefit for its members. The final performance Saturday evening will be for the students, friends and faculty of Carnegie Tech. "Love Is Not Important" is acclaimed to be "a sophisticated, fast-moving comedy in modern style, with a background of Broadway theatrical life." It deals with the troubles of an ambitious but unfortunate New York playwright and his actress fiancee. The cast includes Polly Rowles, Rosemary Carver, Janet Patrick, Jane Francey, George McCalmon, William Beal, Rosalind Wikander and Carl Dozerz. Miss Rowles, Miss Carver and Miss Wikander have all played in the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse productions. Last spring the Bacchanalians offered a lively revue, "Over the Coals."

* * *

Arch Selwyn, prominent theatrical producer, and Harold B. Franklin, until recently president of Radio City and the RKO Theaters, have united forces to sponsor plays and enter into other activities in connection with the theater. The Frankwyn Company has been formed for this specific purpose, but the plays will be presented by Selwyn & Franklin. Seven plays and musical comedies are on the present schedule of the new producing unit, four of which will be done in association with Charles B. Cochran, of London. Of the four plays to be presented in the fall in affiliation with Mr. Cochran, two are current London successes. These are "Escape Me Never," by Margaret Kennedy, and "Conversation Piece," with book, lyrics and music by Noel Coward. Elizabeth Bergner, starred in the motior picture, "Catherine the Great," will make her American debut in "Escape Me Never." Yvonne Printemps will be starred in "Converastion Piece."

GALLERY 'BIRDS' 'RAZZ' BEECHAM

LONDON, May 8.—(AP.)—The score is 'all even" today in the exchanage of scoldings and rebukes between Sir Thomas Beecham, noted conductor, and Covent Garden opera-goers.

Sir Thomas went one up at the opening of the season May 1, when he subdued a babble of conversation and ill-timed applause with:

"Shut up, you!"

The audience got even last night—and liked it.

"Goetterdaemmerung" was being performed in two sections and when the audience was reseated for the second section there was no sign of Sir Thomas.

Galleryites began to clap impatiently. They kept up the demonstration until the conductor appeared. Then followed a burst of ironical cheers and laughter from the house.

Sir Thomas waited for the noise to subside, tapped for the orchestra to begin—and things went along smoothly.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT UNDER WAY

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

One of the most pleasing features of the Pirate winning streak, which the fourth consecutive victory yesterday stretched to seven wins in the last nine games, has been the part played in it by Cookie Lavagetto. This not so much because of what the youngster's fine showing is counting for at present in the winning of games, but because of what it promises for the future. For Lavagetto still is on trial, and the farther he goes without weakening, the stronger becomes the chance that he will stand up under the full test and eventually become a fixture.

Cookie Lavagetto

There never was any doubt about Cookie's fielding. The only question about his future has centered around his hitting, and a week ago, when he went hitlesss in four out of six straight games, it looked as though the big league pitchers might be getting his measure. However, the recruit has come right back to thump the ball in a fashion that would do credit to any established major leaguer, and his game-winning single yesterday, following an intentional pass to Gus Suhr, which indicated Lavagetto had been picked as a possible soft spot in the Pittsburgh batting order, was only a continuance of the hard and opportune hitting he has been doing for several days. The new second sacker has been clouting all kinds of pitching and at critical points which tested his nerve as well as his batting ability, he has boosted his average to .294, and he has knocked in 13 runs, or more than anybody else on the club except Suhr. Confidence that Lavagetto is going to come through is growing daily.

CLEVELAND PITCHER SOUGHT BY GIANTS

In his quest of another pitcher to plug the break caused in the Giant staff by the incapacitation of Leroy Parmelee, Bill Terry is said to have given more than passing thought to Belve Bean, big right-hander of the Cleveland club. Bean pitched effectively in his appearances against the Giants during the exhibition games on the spring training trip, and Terry evidently believes he could tide the club over until Parmelee is in shape to resume work.

It is doubtful, however, that the Giants would be able to get Bean even if Cleveland were to consent to a deal. For before he could be transferred to the National League, it would be necessary for every other club in the American League to waive on the Indian, and with some of those clubs needing pitchers they would hardly fail to claim him at the waiver price of $4,000. Besides, the Indians themselves may want to use their spare pitchers in a deal for a second baseman. Failing to get Buddy Myer from the Senators they have renewed their efforts to acquire Oscar Melillo from the Browns. Rogers Hornsby stopped them cold in their first attempt by demanding Joe Vosmik, Oral Hildebrand, Johnny Burnett and $25,000 for Melillo.

PARMELEE TIPS CARDS AS GIANT RIVALS

Parmelee, who will leave the hospital this week for his home in Lambertsville, Mich., to recuperate during the 60-day period of retirement upon which he entered last Wednesday, thinks the Giants will go right on in a march to the pennant without his services. He tips the Cardinals as the club the Terrys will have to beat in the end, and predicts they will make a lot of trouble. Parmelee admits the Cubs may surprise him, for they will hit and won't be easy to stop, though their pitching doesn't look so good to him. The Pirates, too, he concedes, will be right up there somewhere, but he does not rate the Bucs as high as either the Cardinals or the Cubs.

Leroy Parmelee

Parmelee bases his pennant confidence in the Giants on the edge that Carl Hubbell gives them, the punch that George Watkins is expected to add, and the great difference that he expects to see in the club now that Gus Mancuso is able to catch. Not taking anything away from Paul Richards, but Leroy says Mancuso has had more experience and can be more helpful to a pitcher.

GARNER SEES DROP IN CLASS OF JOCKEYS

Mack Garner, Derby winner for Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable, and who will ride Cavalcade again Saturday in the Preakness, has entered his twentieth year in the saddle and sees a falling-off in the class of racing pilots. Mack says he doesn't like to make comparisons, but expresses the opinion that the crop of jockeys today does not measure up in the same class with the stars of bygone days.

Garner recalls that when Earl Sande, Pony McAtee and the rest of the great old-timers were in there riding, and at their best, it was a battle of wits and competence in every big race. Today, he says there are too many youngsters who have been rushed up without sufficient time to learn all the riding tricks. However, he pronounces youngsters like Coucci, Porter and Wright exceptions, and terms them very good riders who would be capable of holding their own against the stars of the past.

TILDEN BEST TENNIS CARD, WIN OR LOSE

A peddler cannot ask for much more than a sell-out of his wares on any given day. Bill Tilden, who meets Ellsworth Vines at Duquesne Garden tonight in the next number of their series, is peddling professional tennis to the country, and he has sold out at practically every stop since the start of the tour. Tilden, of course, is the magnet that draws the money to the gate. Whether or not he can beat Vines is beside the point. Jack Dempsey cannot fight a lick now, but his appearance as referee will attract more boxing fans than a bout between a couple of real battlers. Babe Ruth may no longer be in Jimmy Foxx's class as a home run hitter, but the baseball bugs still turn out in droves to see him.

Bill Tilden

Tilden is an actor. The theatrical instinct is in him, and he gives it free rein on the tennis court. Big Bill at any time may express annoyance at the officials, the vendors, the lights, or some other part of the layout, holding up the match and insisting that the condition which bothers him be remedied. He never permits the audience to concentrate long on his opponent. Vines sees and hears the same things to which Tilden objects, but if they annoy him, Elly gives no sign. His business is to play tennis. Tilden, too, plays tennis, and gives his customers their money's worth—not only of Tilden court technique, but of Tilden temperament, and the Tilden insistence on perfection in every one connected with the show. The fact that the crowds continue to go through the turnstiles is pretty good evidence that big Bill's showmanship is sound.

Sure, Suhr's the Big Punch In the Pirates' Winning Drive

CLOSEUP OF PIRATE SLUGGER

SUHR LEAPS FOR HIGH ONE

DIGGING ONE OUT OF THE DIRT THEY ALL LOOK ALIKE

The most improved player on the Pirate team this year undoubtedly is Gus Suhr, mainly in the hitting department, where he has been gladdening the hearts of the rooters. The fans now go for Gus in a big way. This is his fifth season here. They don't come any neater than Gus in fielding and, with his hitting average around the .400 mark and featured by extra-base slugging, he's just about the last word in first basemen. He has hit safely in the last 16 games and leads the club in batting in runs, an important item. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

NATIONAL LOOP FAVORITES GET GOOD START

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Three weeks of competition in the National League have vindicated without reservation the training camp predictions concerning the flag chances of the various contenders of the Heydler circuit. As the league moves into its fourth week, the four favorites—the Giants, the Cubs, the Pirates, the Cardinals—are beautifully scrambled in a race that speaks well for an exciting summer.

Victories in their last four fights, the Pirates today are in a fine spot. Gibson's club will have no tougher opposition than the Dodgers, Phillies and Braves during the remainder of the present home stay, and if they can shake off their annoying habit of pulling their punches while fighting the underdogs, the Bucs should be sitting pretty when they take to the road one week from Wednesday.

FINE HOME RECORD

The Buccos have won eight of their dozen home engagements including their extra-inning triumph over Casey Stengel's stubborn Dodgers in the Oakland Orchard yesterday afternoon. Finishing up with the Brooklyn batters today, the Buccos will entertain Jimmy Wilson's Phearless Phils in four clashes beginning tomorrow. On Sunday Bill McKechnie will show off his Braves here in the first tilt of a three-game set.

The first eastern invasion of the Pirates is scheduled to get under way May 17 in Brooklyn. From that date until June 1 there will be no activity at Forbes Field. Pirate fans will not get to see their favorites on Memorial Day, the Sunday law causing the team to lose this traditional feature.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE LEANING TOWER—The famous leaning tower of Pisa, Italy, required 156 years in building. It began to assume an oblique position while it still was in the process of construction. Measurements in 1829 indicated that the tower was 15½ feet out of the perpendicular. This obliquity increased to 16½ feet by 1910. The Italian authorities have taken steps to safeguard the tower. It is forbidden to ring the bells in the eighth story, as each bell weighs about 9,000 pounds.

ENTRY BLANK PUBLISHED FOR EVENT

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's big softball tournament, to determine the Western Pennsylvania champions in the various classes, gets under way today with the printing of the entry blank for teams.

The tournament will be divided into a number of divisions. Just how many depends upon the nature of the teams which enter. The winner of the senior class will be sent to the National tournament at Chicago, to be staged under the auspices of the Chicago American, a Hearst newspaper, in September. Winners in the other classes will receive suitable awards.

VARIOUS CLASSES PLANNED

Intermediate and junior champions also will be decided, as well as girls' champions. Teams may enter for church league or industrial competition. Upon receipt of entry blanks the Tournament Editor will send out inquiry cards to be filled in with the necessary information for the guidance of tournament officials.

All eliminations will be along bracket lines at first. That is, the teams from the various communities will be bracketed to play a round robin against each other, with the winners eligible for the tournament proper or finals. Thus the necessity for traveling in the early rounds will be reduced to a minimum. Teams will play one game a week in order not to interfere with their regular league schedules and will have the entire week in which to play that game at their convenience. The rival managers will get together and set their own playing times. The manager of the winning team will be obligated to send in the score of the game on a regular form to receive credit for the victory. A dispute board will handle all protests.

SEND ENTRY NOW

For the past two weeks the rules of the game, new here and somewhat similar to mushball, have been published in daily installments in the Sun-Telegraph. The players should be fairly familiar with them by this time.

Virtually all of the leagues organized in the district are planning to enter their teams in the competition. The district taken in covers the entire Western Pennsylvania area, approximately from Erie to the Pittsburgh sector in the west and as far east as Altoona. The tournament will be

Near-Riot Marks Wheeling Glove Show

WHEELING, W. Va., May 8.—Attempting to grab the slips showing the votes of the judges in the bout between Mose Butch, of Pittsburgh, and Frankie Wolfran, of Winnipeg, Johnny Ray, Pittsburgh second, almost caused a near-riot here last niht. Ray was ejected from the building by an officer and the bout announced as a draw.

DUDLEY WINS TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—(AP.)—Ed Dudley, Philadelphia Country Club professional, captured the district pro medal play golf championship for the third straight season yesterday, outclassing a big field of stars at the Spring Mill links of his home course. U. S. Walker Cup Stars Crippled

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 8.—(AP.)—Both good news and bad came to the United States Walker Cup team today as it headed down the home stretch toward the matches against the British, Friday and Saturday. Johnny Goodman provided the cheer with a round in 72, one under par.

The bad news was a pulled tendon in the arch of Lawson Little's right foot, which has the burly Californian hobbling around in carpet slippers, and a swollen knee, the result of an old hurt, afflicting Gus Moreland.

Both Little and Moreland made light of their injuries, however and expressed confidence they would be all right by Friday. Moreland played today despite his knee twinges and scored a respectable 75.

TILDEN, VINES AWAIT PRO NET BATTLE HERE TONIGHT

KEITH GLEDHILL, CHAPIN WITH TROUPE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Bill Tilden is back today—back amid scenes of early honor. And tonight when the great Philadelphian squares off against Ellsworth Vines, his youthful antagonist, in a professional singles tennis contest at Duquesne Garden, he will know that old friends are greeting him and wishing him well, even as they cheered him to Western Pennsylvania victories in the war years and again in '23 and '24. For at the age of 41, this mighty Caesar of the courts still basks in the sunlight of his genius.

Since Tilden first hit Pittsburgh as an Army attache at Carnegie Tech in 1917, he has traveled far and achieved renown such as has been the portion of few sports figures of this or any other time.

RANKED FIRST 10 TIMES

From England to the Antipodes, his glowing racquet has scorched the pathway to success. Ten times has he ranked first of all netmen in this country; from 1920 to 1925 and once more in 1929 he captured the national singles crown; he won at Wimbledon in '20, '21 and '30; his Davis Cup career is an enduring monument to his fame. But of all the splendor annexed to Big Bill's name, none compares with the fact that, past the two-score mark though he is, he dominates the racquet world as of yore and joins battle with Vines, most savagely brilliant youngster of the decade, at least a 50-50 shot to cop.

Festivities are scheduled to get under way at 8:30 o'clock, with Vines' crack doubles partner, Keith Gledhill, squaring off against Alfred Chapin, New England star, who last appeared here in 1924 as an up-and-coming amateur touring the Middle West with Tilden. The main contest brings together Vines and Tilden immediately after the Gledhill-Chapin affair, while the dual windup will see Bill and Chapin encounter Vines and Gledhill, national premiers in 1932. Experienced officials of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association will handle the matches. To the linesmen already announced there were added yesterday the captains of the three Steel City varsity squads: Nat Ganger, of Pitt; Don Krey, of Carnegia Tech, and Bill Purcell, of Duquesne.

INSPECTS INDOOR COURT

The Tilden tourists arrived in Pittsburgh from Mansfield, O., early last evening, and their leader motored immediately to the Garden, where he proclaimed satisfaction with the layout, except for the remains of the bicycle track, which it will be necessary to screen off in order to provide proper background for play. He also recommended certain rearrangements in the lighting in order to eliminate, as far as possible, the hazards of glare and shadows.

The troupers were led astray at Mansfield, O., last night. They were billed to play there and were not apprised that the match had been canceled.

Mrs. Vines is accompanying her husband. Both Tilden and Vines today boosted professional tennis to the skies and said they were convinced the public was getting a good run for its money from the sport.

Great Bill Tilden Here

PROFESSIONAL TENNIS STAR IN MATCH TONIGHT

PITT NET TEAM MEETS SKIBOS

Destiny of the city college tennis crown will be pretty well decided this afternoon as the varsity squads of Pitt and Carnegie Tech clash on the Trees Field courts. A victory for the undefeated Panthers virtually will clinch the title for the Blue and Gold.

The Tartans, however, boosted their rating somewhat yesterday by invading the Bluff and carrying off a 7-2 decision over Grant Siverd's Dukes, who had previously edged out the Plaid on the latter's lot by a 5-4 margin.

The Pittites are slated to leave by automobile tomorrow for a three-day eastern jaunt calling for contests with Georgetown, George Washington University and Navy on successive days. Meanwhile Carnegie will entertain Wash-Jeff on the Morewood rectangles Thursday, and on the same afternoon Duquesne will be at home to Geneva. The Bluffites are listed for another local fray Saturday, when W. & J. will visit the Hilltop.

The Carnegie Tech Frosh defeated the Duquesne Freshies in the preliminary match, 7 to 2. The summary of the varsity engagement:

Singles—Krey, Carnegie, defeated Purcell, Duquesne, 6-2, 6-2; Maczkov, Carnegie, defeated Getty, Duquesne, 6-0, 6-2; Higgins, Duquesne, defeated Pearlstein, Carnegie, 6-3, 0-6, 8-6; Petruska, Duquesne, defeated Goss, Carnegie, 6-1, 6-4; Jones, Carnegie, defeated Rowan, Duquesne, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3; Lehne, Carnegie, defeated Fagan, Duquesne, 6-3, 6-1.

Doubles—Jones and Lehne, Carnegie, defeated Hefron and McGuinness, Duquesne, 6-1, 6-1; Krey and Maczkov, Carnegie, defeated Petruska and Getty, Duquesne, 6-2, 6-4; Pearlstein and Hartshorn, Carnegie, defeated Higgins and Fagan, Duquesne, 6-1, 6-0.

Mt. Lebanon, Shady Side Academy, Wilkinsburg, Swissvale and Taylor Allderdice scored victories in the Interscholastic Tennis Conference. Mt. Lebanon defeated Crafton, 5-0; Shady Side vanquished Arnold, 3-2; Wilkinsburg toppled Turtle Creek Union, 3-2; Swissvale defeated Munhall, 5-0, and Allderdice disposed of Westinghouse, 5-0.

BUCS' BATTING OFFSETS INJURIES, KEEPS CLUB IN RACE

CORSAIRS WIN DESPITE LOSS OF STARS

Associated Press.

The heaviest batting attack in the National League keeps the Pittsburgh Pirates close to the top of the standing despite a combination of misadventures that might have proved fatal to a club less potent at the plate.

Despite the loss of Capt. Pie Traynor and Lloyd (Little Poison) Waner through injury and illness and the inexplicable failure of Larry French to round into form, the Corsairs have played winning ball from the start.

FRENCH FAILS AGAIN

French essayed his fifth start of the campaign against the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday and for the fifth time the veteran southpaw was not around at the finish. Drubbed for 11 hits in seven innings and trailing, 6-5, Larry gave way to a pinch batsman and Leon Chagnon mopped up to receive credit for the 7-6 victory the Pirates eventually pulled out in the tenth on Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto's single following Arky Vaughan's second triple of the game.

The victory left the Pirates in third place, a game behind the Chicago Cubs and a game and a half behind the champion New York Giants, both of whom won. Mel Ott's double in the ninth drove in the two runs the Giants needed to shade the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, give Carl Hubbell a decision over Benny Frey and extend the Reds' losing streak to eight games.

ROOKIE WINS FOR CUBS

The Cubs uncovered a new righthander, Bill Lee, who gave the Phillies four singles and shut them out, 2-0. Ed Holley pitched well enough to deserve a better fate, but fell victim to the Cubs' extra-base hits. The St. Louis Cardinals regained fourth place with a 10-5 victory over the Boston Braves, who dropped to fifth position.

Terrific batting by the New York Yankees and Washington Senators marked American League warfare. The Yankees backed up Johnny Allen's seven-hit pitching with a long distance attack that included homers by Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey and trounced the St. Louis Browns, 14-1. The Senators moved into a virtual tie for second place by pounding four Chicago White Sox chuckers for 15 hits and a 17-7 triumph. Nine bases on balls helped roll up the score.

ROWE WINS OWN GAME

John Welch allowed only one hit in two innings of relief pitching against the Detroit Tigers, but that one happened to be a home run by Lynwood Rowe with one on in the eleventh and the Tigers won, 8-6. The Philadelphia Athletics belted Mel Harder and Belve Bean for 12 hits and sank the Cleveland Indians, 7-3.

Sports Shorts

Hit with a batted ball on Sunday, Pitcher Bill Walker will be lost to the St. Louis Cardinals for about six weeks with a fracture of the left arm, the club management announced last night.

No changes were recorded in the major league home run hitters yesterday, with Ruth, Yankees; Klein, Cubs, and Ott, Giants, remaining in a deadlock for the lead with six apiece.

The West Virginia Association for High School Coaches will meet in Morgantown Friday night.

Clay Hopper, former Scottdale manager and last year boss of the Springfield club in the Mississippi League, has been named pilot of the Greensburg entry in the newly-organized Pennsylvania State Baseball Association.

Schenley High School defeated Peabody in a dual track and field meet at the Schenley Field yesterday, 81 to 45. The Schenley Freshies triumphed over the Peabody Frosh, 18 to 14.

The St. Louis Browns have announced that Outfielder George Puccinelli would be returned to the Rochester club, of the International League. The decision was reached to save payment on the balance of the $7,500 purchase price.

Burgess Bill Yocum will throw the first ball to Donald Eaton, president of the Chamber of Commerce, when the Wilkinsburg Baseball Club opposes Brushton in opening the Wilkinsburg home season at Ewing Field this evening.

Max Seigal and Jacques Le Vine defeated the Gendelberg brothers, 18-21, 21-4 and 21-16, to win the doubles handball championship of the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night.

SIMMONS IN HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, May 8. — (INS.) — Al Simmons, star outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, was in Garfield Hospital today under the care of a brain specialist. Al was knocked unconscious for several minutes at Griffith Stadium Sunday with a ball thrown by Manager Cronin, of the Senators. After developing a violent headache and stomach disorders it was decided to place Simmons under observation. X-ray pictures failed to reveal any serious injury to the player.

WEST VIRGINIA SWAMPED

WILLIAMSBURG, W. Va., May 8.—The West Virginia University baseball team was walloped by William and Mary here yesterday, 18 to 0. The Mountaineers were held to two hits by Elliott. The score by innings:

										R.	H.	E.

Hons Says:

By HONUS WAGNER
Former Star, Now Coach of Pirates.

To the Sports Editor:

Did you hear what happened to my old friend, Heine Groh? I hear that he has been made a scout for the Giants. Heine will make a great ivory hunter, as the sport boys call it, because he knows what it takes to make a ball player.

Honus Wagner

I don't know of any other job that requires such patience as that of a scout. Just think, he usually is working for the team of several years ahead. Say he is going scouting today. Well, if he uncovers a fellow who makes good in the big show in, say, 1939, he is doing a swell job.

Just tell your boss that what you're doing today will make money for him in 1939 and see what he says. A good scout is worth a lot to a team and Heine's friends are plugging for him.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

SUN-TELEGRAPH TOURNEY SET

staged under the rules and regulations of the Amateur Softball Association of America, with headquarters in Chicago, and all players will have to be registered as bona fide amateurs by the district commissioner, Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

Get ready, you softball players and managers. Clip out the entry blank in the Sun-Telegraph and mail it in today. This new sport is going to spread like wildfire throughout this district, and you will want to be in on the big tournament which will sponsor its growth.

NEW LEAGUE FORMED

A new softball loop was formed last night when representatives of 12 teams, meeting at the East Liberty Y. formed the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. Commercial Softball League. Frank C. Kotmel was elected president. It is likely that the league membership will be expanded. Two games are to be played each week. Several teams have their own grounds, and the Circus Grounds and Peabody High Field are to be used by teams without home grounds.

The 12 teams enrolled as members of the league are Fairmont, Eatmor, East Liberty Postoffice, Gulf, Grennan, Haller, Bradley, Bell, Superior and J. H. Murphys.

Stars Signed For Coast Bouts

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—(AP.)—Two matches bringing Baby Face Casanova and Kid Azteca here from Mexico were announced today by Tom Gallery, Olympic Auditorium matchmaker.

Casanova will meet Freddie Miller, N. B. A. featherweight champion of the world, in a non-title bout May 29, while Azteca tackles the light and welterweight champion of California, Young Peter Jackson, June 5.

Gallery also announced he had signed Kid Chocolate, former featherweight champion, to meet Tommy Paul, Buffalo, or Georgie Hansford, Hollywood fighter, May 22.

SKIBO GOLFERS OPPOSE W. & J. TEAM TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

The Carnegie Tech golf team appeared at the Nemacolin Country Club this afternoon to meet the Wash-Jeff College varsity in the only intercollegiate match on the district program.

Joe Conners, caddie master at the Chartiers Heights Country Club, won the first tourney of the season staged under the auspices of the Caddie Masters' and Assistant Professionals' Association at the Edgewood Country Club yesterday, shooting a 79 to lead home a classy field by five strokes.

WIND IS HANDICAP

A terrific wind kept the scoring high. Frank Benick, of Castle Shannon, and Sammy Mellon, of Oakmont, tied for second place with a pair of 84s. Dick Kline, of Churchill Valley, had an 87; Mike Swisdak, Edgewood, 88, and Cap Daily, of the Country Club, 101.

The kicker's handicap went to Sammy Mellon with a net 77.

The first annual golf tourney of the Variety Club went over in a big way at the South Hills Country Club yesterday and 50 golfers started out for the trophies offered by movie stars. Dick Powell gave the trophy for the low gross prize and it was won by V. Lewis Josacks. Harmar Denny, Jr., who plays from the Fox Chapel Golf Club, was runner-up with an 87.

CONFORTI WINS PRIZE

Bob Lowe, West Virginia, defeated F. Totten, Duquesne, 2 and 1; Parent, Duquesne, defeated Jack Kirk, West Virginia, 1 up; Aspinwall, West Virginia, defeated Anderson, Duquesne, 2 and 1; Matterino, West Virginia, defeated McNally, Duquesne, 5 and 4; Kirk and Lowe, West Virginia, defeated Parent and Totten, Duquesne, 4 and 3; Aspinwall and Matterino, West Virginia, defeated Anderson and McNally, Duquesne, 5 and 4.

BUS WIN IN TENTH

The Pirates had to have a fair share of the breaks to gain a 7-to-6 triumph over the Dodgers yesterday in 10 frames. The Bucs were trailing by four runs in the sixth, but they began to solve Ray Benge at this point and Ray's support collapsed. Misplays and long hits contributed to three runs. With Southpaw Perkins on the slab in the eighth, the Pirates rode to a deadlock.

Arky Vaughan and Cookie Lavagetto put the finishing act on in the tenth. Arky opened with a triple to right and after Gus Suhr had been passed intentionally, Cookie singled to left to score the shortstop.

Larry French made another start on the mound. Partly on account of handle hits, the Dodgers were able to reach Larry for six runs in three frames. Pie Traynor batter for French in the eighth and Leon Cragnon pitched the remaining rounds to receive credit for the victory. French's right thumb was painfully hurt by a liner in the seventh. Emil Leonard, who relieved Perkins in the eighth-inning crisis, was charged with the defeat.

CHILLYSAUCE

Gus Suhr held to his consecutive batting string by carving out a single in the third inning. Gus drew a couple of passes.

The Dodgers made things quite annoying for Umpire Stewart, the newest of the National League umpires. Casey and his men insisted that Jensen should have been called out on strikes when he walked in the eighth.

Stengel's strategy was commendable. Besides putting in a lefthanded pitcher to fling to the array of lefthanded batters, he yanked Hack Wilson in favor of Rookie Chapman. The Dodgers had a one-run lead at the time and Charles was nursing it tenderly.

Chick Fraser is back in battle togs as a Dodger coach. Chick avers that Manager Stengel will take the Dodgers to lofty places when he gets things straightened around in Brooklyn.

Ralph Boyle hit safely in his first three trips to the plate. The southpaw swatter also is a lefthanded thrower, and he can "go and get them" in the pastures.

Leon Chagnon should be a fine pitcher in every respect. He is great in the relief role, but with his stuff he ought to be able to go the route and win consistently.

English Derby Test To Windsor Lad

HESTER, Eng., May 8.—(AP.)—The Maharajah of Rajipila's Epsom Derby candidate, Windsor Lad, today won the Chester Vase over a mile and a half course by a half length from Zelina, with Sir Hugo Hirt's Iron Grey third in the field of seven, two lengths further back.

Windsor Lad was 3 to 1, Zelinda 4 to 1 and Iron Grey 20 to 1.

Rosenbloom Picked To Defeat Walker

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—(INS.)—Maxie Rosenbloom, world light-heavyweight champion, was a favorite to defeat Mickey Walker, the Rumson Bulldog, in a scheduled 10-round non-title bout tonight at the Olympic Club.

PARMELEE NINE, HOMEWOOD IN HEADLINER

The Parmelee-Homewood game in the City League, scheduled at the Homewood Playgrounds, heads an attractive list of sandlot contests scheduled this evening. The two City League clubs staged a slugfest in an exhibition contest last Sunday.

The Greater Pittsburgh League attractions also will come in for some consideration this evening as Mellon-Stuart, the defending titleholder, engages the Resurrection Club, of Beechview, in the headliner. Other Greater Pittsburgh League games find Brushton at Wilkinsburg, Immaculate Heart, last year's Greater Pittsburgh National Baseball Federation champion, paired with the Oakland Ambassadors at West Penn Park and the Scott Morgans matched with Hazlewood at the Magee Field enclosure.

The Books, defending champions of the City League, got off on the right foot last evening as they defeated Beltzhoover in their opening game, 18-2. Foster let the McKinley Park boys down with five scattered hits, while Heine Boll and his supporting cast were pounding the offerings of three Beltzhoover twirlers with consistency. Soapy Heyl led the attack with two home runs.

The Scott Morgans pulled a big surprise in the Independent League by invading Whitaker and defeating the Ackermans, 5 to 4. The Millikins defeated Swissvale at Swissvale in the other game carded in this circuit, 5 to 1.

Ingram captured its opening game in the Crafton-Ingram Church League by defeating St. Phillips, 4 to 1, Hurst fanning 11 batters as he pitched his team to victory. Pitcher Kornick recorded 10 strikeouts as Ingomar defeated Garvin, 3-2, in a North Side Twilight League game. The score by innings of the Books-Beltzhoover game follows:

Books	6	0	2	10	0	—			18	17	1

Batteries—Sedick, Duing, Lonerton and Lenz; Foster and Bierwirth.

Leo Carroll, classed as one of the outstanding pitchers on the local sandlots, today signed to hurl for the Books, in the City League. Carroll was with Dormont last season.

Daily Again Offers Opening-Day Prize

EBENSBURG, Pa., May 8.—(AP.)—The President's Cup, annual prize offered by Elmer Daily, head of the Mid-Atlantic League, again will be awarded to the team drawing the largest opening day crowd.

The season opens tomorrow with Charleston, Beckley, Springfield and Zanesville playing at home. Dayton opens at home May 11, while Johnstown, Wheeling and Huntington will not play before their supporters until May 15.

Johnstown won the cup last year.

George McNally, W. T. Gaston, Bill Osborne and Dennis O'Keefe, all of last year's staff, and Frank Bowdoin, former Alabama football star; Roland Mackey, of Oxford, Pa.; Maury Shannon, ex-major league ball player, and Clayton Baily, former American Association umpire.

Staging Outboard Regatta Costly, Involved Venture

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

Staging an outboard motorboat regatta under the extensive lines planned for the William Randolph Hearst Gold Cup regatta, to be held at Oakmont, Saturday and Sunday, July 14-15, is a complicated affair. In order to obtain the sanction of the American Power Boat Association many rules have to be followed, involving elaborate preparations and heavy expense.

For instance, the course must be properly surveyed and must meet certain specifications as to contour, placing of buoys, etc., and pits or floats must be constructed to accommodate a large number of boats. These pits correspond to the pits in automobile racing. It is there that the boats are tied up between races to enable the drivers to change their motors for the various class events and await the call to the starting line.

Judges' and officials' stands have to be constructed, an intricate timing and scoring system is necessary, the course must be properly patroled and capable officials must be provided. In addition, adequate traffic regulations must be made to handle the crowds. All of these arrangements are being completed by the elaborate committee of the Oakmont Boat Club, which is cooperating with the Sun-Telegraph in sponsoring the affair.

With upwards of 200,000 persons expected to view the two days' program, some idea of the magnitude of the venture is obtainable. Thrill-seeking fans from all over the tri-state area will come to Pittsburgh by motor, trains and street cars for the two days' carnival, which appears destined to be the most spectacular free sports show ever presented in these parts.

McLarnin, Carnera, Baer in Workouts

NEW YORK, May 8.—(INS.)—Principals in New York's two coming championship fights were warming up today.

Jimmy McLarnin, king of the welterweights, was to work out at a gymnasium here for his scrap with Barney Ross, lightweight champion, on May 28. At the end of the week he will leave for his camp at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH PLUS—CONVENIENCE

STOCK MARKET PRESSURE LIGHTENS

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP.)—Pressure on stocks lifted somewhat today, although prices shuffled about nervously and neither traders nor investors exhibited any pronounced inclination to expand their positions.

News again was of an indecisive character. Indications of moisture in the drought ridden crop sections brought some easiness in grains. Rubber was a loser under profit-taking. Silver steadied as the President conferred with Senate proponents of the metal. The dollar improved slightly in foreign exchange markets.

United States government securities displayed further strength, pushing into new high territory for the past year or more. Corporation bonds, however, were hesitant.

Some of the gold mining issues were moved up following declaration of an extra dividend of $1.50 by Dome mines. An additional disbursement had been generally expected in view of increased income due to the higher gold price.

Margin calls continued to go but in all directions as the result of yesterday's break, but brokers expressed considerable satisfaction at the lack of unsettlement caused by necessitous bolstering up of shaky accounts. Early selling of under-financed commitments seemed to be well absorbed.

Some market commentators pointed out that, while business seemed to be a trifle spotty in certain districts, actual business conditions were much better than sentiment. The latter, it was added, is now being governed largely by Washington happenings and relatively little attention is being paid to good trade reports, improved earnings and extra dividends.

Opinion in the boardrooms was divided as to whether the drop through the March low averages was a decisive indicator of a reversal of the upward trend. At the same time, public demand for equities on a scale down basis was at a minimum and commission houses with foreign connections said that, at the moment, Europe did not appear to be interested.

OHIO COAL RATE PLEA ARGUED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Attorney-General John W. Bricker of Ohio today opened argument in the Supreme Court of Appeal of the State of Ohio to preserve coal rate reductions ordered by the state Public Utilities Commission.

The question, which involves competition for the rich steel markets in Ohio between Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia coal operators, was before the court in two cases consolidated for hearing.

The Interstate Commerce Commission set aside the order and prohibited voluntary reductions by railroads on coal moving from three Ohio districts—No. 8, Massillon and Middle—in the Eastern and Southern coal fields to Cleveland, Lorain, Canton, Akron and other cities.

The I. C. C. was joined in its opposition by the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau, Carnegie Coal Corp., and other competing interests.

CABLES DRAG ON COTTON

NEW YORK, May 8.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 5 to 9 lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and under liquidation, May 11.14; July 11.29; October 11.42; December 11.54; January 11.58; March 11.72.

Selling was not active, but reactionary sentiment was more in evidence following the advance of over $3 per bale from the low levels of last week and Liverpool, which had been a good buyer here yesterday, sold this morning. July cotton eased to 11.23 after the call, while December declined to 11.50, making net losses of 9 to 11 points on the more active positions.

Trading was quiet later in the morning and prices showed a sagging tendency under comparatively small offerings. The small volume of business was attributed partly to a disposition to await the outcome of the expected silver conference, or development in other directions. July sold off to 11.21 or 11 points net lower and was ruling around 11.23 at midday when the general list showed net losses of about 9 to 10 points.

LIVERPOOL, May 8.—Cotton, 4,100 bales all American. Spot moderate business done; prices six points higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling 6.72; good middling 6.42; strict middling 6.27; middling 6.12; strict low middling 5.97; low middling 5.72; strict good ordinary 5.52; good ordinary 5.22. Futures closed quiet, May 5.83; July 5.84; October 5.77; December 5.75; January 5.75; March 5.76.

Let Nation Rest, Plea To Leader

By B. C. FORBES

AN INTIMATE friend of President Roosevelt, who has been closely associated with him at Washington and who is extremely anxious that the New Deal should succeed, tells me:

Mr. Forbes

"Franklin Roosevelt was the ideal man to take command in March, 1933. What was then demanded was aggressive action—very aggressive action.

"Mr. Roosevelt revelled in giving the country action. He actually enjoyed enormously tackling problems which would have caused most statesmen to shiver. He had complete faith in his own ability to lick every problem.

"He sailed in and gave the country action—plenty of it.

"His first moves were daring, but most of them proved effective. They accomplished one thing which was more vital than anything else: They served to revive among the people of this country faith in themselves, faith in the destiny of the nation.

"Some of the things the administration has since done have been much less effective; some of them, in fact, have been more harmful than helpful.

"What troubles me now is this: The time has come when Washington should cease to trot out, at feverish rate, all kinds of far-reaching experiments.

"But President Roosevelt is so constituted that I am rather fearful he will not be content to let well enough alone, that he will not be content to let the country work out its own salvation now that it has started on the highway to recovery.

"The danger is that Mr. Roosevelt will insist on churning things about, after the need for such churning is over.

"He may prove to be like the boy who sowed seeds, but could not wait to give them a chance to grow—his eagerness and impusiveness caused him to keep tearing up the ground to see what was happening.

"President Coolidge scored tremendously by giving the country a rest, so to speak, after the hectic days and years it had passed through during and after the war.

"I am worried least President Roosevelt will not give the country now a chance to get back towards normalcy, that he will not be content to wait patiently and see how his many reforms take root and blossom.

"Some of his more experienced and staid advisors favor a period of calm. But whether Franklin Roosevelt will be able to accept and abide by such advice, remains to be seen.

"It would be tragic if, after doing so well, Mr. Roosevelt should overdo things."

THE PRESIDENT of one Middle Western manufacturing company, now swamped with orders, writes that NRA has seriously interfered with maximum production and adds:

"On top of this comes the forced Labor Board election to disturb production still further. This, too, in a plant where admittedly we are paying practically the highest wages of any in the community, giving the largest volume of employment of any plant in the community, where we have been living up to the letter and the spirit of NRA with respect to collective bargaining with any and all groups, and where there has been absolutely no issue between employer and employes which has not been promptly and amicably settled.

"One agitator gets up a petition which is recognized by the National Labor Board as excuse for an election, and now we are flooded with absolutely impossible demands from this agitator, who is now seeking to justify himself with his subordinates. This seems to me a glaring example of Labor Board interference with satisfactory employe relations."

MOST STORES still are doing either fairly or unusually well.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LXIV

"You rather wanted to go with Gregg? You dreamed about it—idly of course, yet lured?"

"It would have been such fun scampering hither and yon. Gregg is the type to whom all sorts of odd things inevitably happen. For him the witch rides a broom stick and the fairy folk sing. Of course I dreamed about it. It's a pity we can't do such, Kevin."

'We're not built for it, Martha."

"But that's your name, isn't it? And a beautiful name. No one else calls you that. Martha, did you send Gregg away just because you're determined to take this job in the lab?"

"Isn't that reason enough?"

"But if you had loved him in the way you want to love, you would have gone with him, job or no job?"

Pippin had her hands clasped. Now she opened them and looked a moment at the palms as though she were reading her fate in the lines. She said with a little wavering smile:

"Will you know, Pippin, when this love that you're waiting for comes?"

She said almost too quickly: "I'll know!"

He slipped his hands about her waist and looking down said with his eyes glowing and his cheeks a little flushed:

"You haven't answered my question, Martha. Can I make up to you for Gregg? Can I make up to you for Bill?"

'Kevin Loves Me'

"Yes, Martha, I do."

She went home in a little dream of joy. Kevin took her to a small restaurant that night. It wouldn't have mattered had he taken her only to a coffee wagon, or if they had stood at the beach at a hot dog stand and afterwards run like children into the water with the waves dashing about and washing their feet. He played tennis with her on Sunday. Thursday evening he drove down to the campus. They went to a show. Then he said casually:

"Are you very lonely, Pippin?"

She answered sparkling: "I haven't had time. I'm not lonely. No! I think the world is beautiful." He laughed and held her tight in his arms and kissed her goodnight.

She went tip-toeing about her room thinking in a tide of happiness: "Kevin loves me. He loves me!"

On Saturday at 6 o'clock, Sonia and Edward were married. Pippin made the bow in Edward's tie, then helped him find the ring which he had mislaid. He was very nervous.

Gay Wedding

Then Kathleen went up to her brother and said impulsively, so that he almost broke down: "I saw Sonia in her wedding dress this afternoon. She looked sweet. I hope you'll be awfully happy, Ed!"

It was a gay wedding. Banks of spring flowers on the altar; candle-light and perfume; a chum of Edward's singing in a good rich tenor: "Oh Promise Me!"

Anna, her sister and the maid-of-honor, was just as tiny but hair and eyes were a jetty black. Prettier than Sonia, with a little straight nose and ripe, red mouth. More intelligent—provocative in that dress of flame.

Sonia looked up to Edward. Her face was beamingly proud as stern, aloof and very white he took her hand—"With this ring I thee wed—better or worse—death do us part—."

The procession coming down the aisle. Sonia smiling vividly, small teeth showing; Edward in a trance, mouth set for endurance. Just behind them Kevin with the tiny, laughing Anna on his arm. Kevin caught Mary's dark eyes shining with tears. He smiled and said with his lips, "Mother!" In a dress of magenta, wrap of the same material deeply bordered with ermine, Mary looked lovely and infinitely sad.

In the opposite aisle went Sonia's parents and her friends. The father had a long black beard and a shock of heavy, wiry black hair. He was a massive fellow with keen, snapping eyes and a bright scarlet mouth.

Pippin Catches Bouquet

The mother was short like her daughters but enormously wide. She was almost square and reached scarcely to her husband's elbow. Her hair was blonde, thin and tightly curled all over her head. She wore a dress of purple satin. Her roving eyes took in every detail—gowns, flowers, voices. She was very alert.

Janice, although miffed that Bobby had not been asked to be a page, was very much in evidence; officiating as the fond sister-in-law.

She assured Sonia: "Your mother's darling — so picturesque and your father like a Viking! You made a perfectly ravishing bride. Edward, you should be proud!"

This goaded Kathleen. She whispered to Pippin: "Isn't that thick! Just like Janice to soft-soap Edward when he's walking up the thirteen steps!"

But Pippin watched Kevin, who talked to Sonia's father. Now they were laughing in big gusty guffaws, and now the big giant was loudly and eloquently telling of the Russian wrongs through untold decades.

"A grand fellow," Kevin said to Pippin. "It's not as bad as we thought!"

Pippin caught the bride's bouquet—bovardia and lilies of the valley. Kevin stopped her as she went to Kathleen's room. He took the gardenia from his button-hole.

"Give me the lilies, Pippin!"

"No! I want them all!"

Discuss Wedding

"Would you spoil this beautiful bouquet?"

"I would not spoil it. I'll take good care of it."

She felt a strange, subtle glowing excitement. He stood at her side as she picked out the lilies.

"There's one you've missed," said he, pulling out a spray and fastening it in his button-hole. "Was it a pretty wedding, Pippin?"

"Yes—very. Sonia looked well, After all, she may make Edward happy."

"I shouldn't be surprised. Better than some cocktail sipping deb who'd run him to the ground with debt and frivolity. Ed doesn't need intellect in a wife. Her father has great intelligence. But, Pippin—will you be married in white and a veil and music—all this?"

"I've not decided. Do you like it this way?"

He laughed: "Why, no! I'd want to take you off quite alone. But of course if the trimmings mean anything—what of it! Sonia's sister is cute, isn't she? I should be down there making love to her. The maid-of-honor expects it from the best man."

"And you wouldn't disappoint a lady, Kevin? I suppose you do it very well?"

"Make love?" He put his arm about her. "Why do you suppose that, Pippin?"

"Oh—men have practice, I'm told."

"You don't believe all you hear?" His eyes were very serious. With his hand he raised her chin so that he looked long and with that seeking, imperious tenderness into her face. He stooped and kissed her twice on the mouth. "I'd like you, Martha, to think that I did it well. Thanks for the lillies."

To Be Continued.)

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes. Vivian disappears and sends a suicide note. Kevin returns. Edward's family and Pippin disapprove of his choice of a bride. Kevin kisses Pippin while on skiing party. Kevin disappoints Pippin, but saves a man's life. Bill arrives home and takes Pippin on airplane trip. They're forced to land in desolate country, but finally find a house and arrive back in town. Bill leaves.

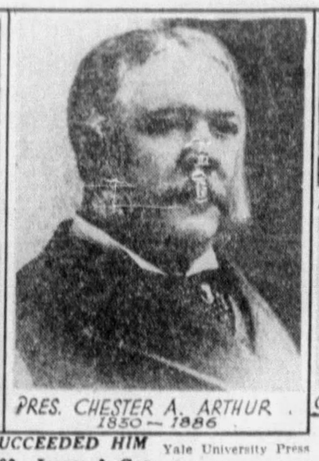
ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT GARFIELD—VICE PRESIDENT ARTHUR SUCCEEDED HIM

Yale University Press (Pageant of America)

President Hayes, unsupported by Congress, had no chance for reelection in 1880. James A. Garfield, a Civil War general was elected, only to be fired upon and mortally wounded (July 2, 1881), by Charles J. Guiteau, a lawyer seeking office. The President died Sept. 19. The murderer was tried, convicted, hanged. The hideous crime, committed by a party member, a 'Stalwart,' aroused Congress to constructive measures under President Arthur, who completed the term of the martyred Garfield. (U. S. History)



GREAT STATESMEN IN EUROPE OF SECOND HALF OF THE 19th CENTURY

Disraeli secured Indian trade control by British (Suez-Canal), made Queen Victoria "Empress of India," (with Germany) checked Russian expansion, forced through Reform Bill (1867) giving suffrage to labor. Gladstone, Home Rule, (for Ireland) failed in this. His two great achievements were the Education Act (free elementary education) Civil Service Reform

Bismarck, the "Iron Chancellor," was maker and guiding spirit of German Empire. Thiers, persecuted, exiled, became president of the Third French Republic, that proved to be stable.

Cavour was the "Brains" of Italian Unity, Garibaldi the "Sword," Mazzini the "Soul" of it. Deak, "Sage of Hungary," who attacked by chauvinists for the creation of the Dual-Monarchy, Austria-Hungary—stated: "I love my country more than I hate her enemies." (World History)

STEEL FROM PIG IRON—OPEN HEARTH PROCESS

The open hearth process—making steel from pig-iron in the open hearth furnace—originated with the Siemens Brothers and Pierre Martin in 1864. The open hearth furnace (right) has a wide saucer-shaped hearth, lined with magnesite (in "basic" process; the "acid" process using silica lining) covered with a low roof.

First linestone, then scrap-iron or iron oxide ore are dumped into the hearth, finally pig-iron is charged; producer gas or oil spray is burned in an airblast over the hearth melting the charge. Impurities, C, P, S, Si, are burned out or fused into the slag. Fuel and air are preheated by passing through the regenerators, checkerwork of fire brick, that have been made red hot previously by combustion gases. Process takes 8-12 hours. At tapping, high carbon steel, Mn and other desoxidizers are added to obtain the desired composition. Slag flows out last overrunning the steel ladle and is separated in the slag-ladle. Recent construction of open hearth furnace permits its tilting forward for easier discharge of steel at tapping (above). (Chemistry) (72-III-A)

WHAT AND HOW WE INHERIT

All that is inherited by a living thing are the materials of the fertilized egg cell, zygote, from which it grows. By powerful microscope were detected in the nuclei of cells (after staining) tiny stripes, called chromosomes. These divide during embryonic development and go to every cell of body, controlling growth so, that structure remains alike to that of parents. It is concluded, chromosomes consist of a chain of parts, the genes, each pair of genes (in a pair of corresponding chromosomes) possess force to control one attribute, one unit character, a physical or mental trait the living thing inherits.

THE MARBLE FAUN

This is the last complete romance (publ. 1860) by Nathaniel Hawthorne, written with mature composition. It presents the "transformation" (this is the title of the English edition) of the morally unconscious Count Donatello — resembling the beautiful marble faun of Praxiteles—under pressure of sin and suffering.

Donatello loves Miriam, an art student, who is persecuted by a mysterious stranger. During a moonlight excursion with Miriam to the Capitolian Hill, Donatello kills the shadower by flinging him from the Tarpeian rock. Miriam cannot bear the secret, she disappears: Donatello gives himself up to justice. (American Literature)

HOT WATER HEATING SYSTEM

Never Smash the Picture Frame

We have noticed with illustrated grief diluted with editorial horror that some famous actors, politicians and other performers no longer like their pictures taken by our newspaper boys.

Well, like it or not, you're going to have 'em taken. Neither rain, nor wind, nor sleet shall stay these appointed camera carriers from their rounds.

Another thing, if you want to wrestle, the boys will wrestle. If you desire to slug three fancy rounds they will mix with you. Some of those camera men do very well in a small but select riot. We

Hypo would carom that camera off anybody's ears. He was there to get pictures. We always went with him on his assignments because we knew there would be excitement. He is gone now to no reward. But he was the toughest man in the town. Hypo would smack you with the camera for no other reason than that you refused to smile.

If you wouldn't watch the birdie, whang, would come the camera around with its metal edges. Then you had a lot of birdies to watch. A flock of them would be eating cracked corn in your hair.

Sometimes he would lose a camera or two. But he always got back to the office with the plates. His right name wasn't Jenkins. He was a reliable, steady man except on his feet. He drank a little at a time all the time. Nobody ever sent him out on a false alarm. If there wasn't a forest fire there when he arrived there was one when he left. He used so much powder getting a picture that the City Council passed a law saying that Hypo couldn't touch off a flashlight any place but in a stone quarry.

We saw him blast a big town Mayor right out of office two years before his term expired. A Supreme Court justice of the state said, "One of us has got to go," and went. Prima donnas, kings, generals and bums were all sardines for Hypo's picnic lunches.

His exploits are remembered wherever newspapermen meet. His work was standard. So, you know what you are going up against when you try to smash a camera. It will earn you a pretty penny, for two can play at that game if it is a game.

Morons At Large

The State's Failure to Provide Accommodations for the Feeble-Minded Is Inexcusable.

Officials of the Bureau of Mental Health of the State Welfare Department are expressing concern over the lack of appropriate accommodations for morons, and the public may well feel anxiety, too.

The state schools for the feeble-minded are filled to capacity, and have long waiting lists of applicants for admission. In come cases the waiting lists alone would more than fill the institutions.

A preliminary survey shows 836 awaiting admission to the Polk State School, 1,097 awaiting admission to Pennhurst State School, and 757 awaiting admission to Laurelton State Village.

Not only for their own protection but also for the protection of society these morons should be placed in institutions. The state's failure to provide for them cannot be defended.

The Bootlegger Problem

Federal Taxes Handicap the State in Competition With Illegal Venders

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board has reduced prices still further in an effort to take trade from the bootleggers.

Although the state's profits from the sale of liquor are modest, the Philadelphia Record calls the prices exorbitant and says:

"The board should forget about making a profit until it destroys bootleg competition by low prices."

But even if the state should sell liquor at cost, it would still be handicapped in its competition with bootleggers by the federal taxes. That tax is $2 a gallon, and if the liquor is imported there is an import tax, in addition, of $5 a gallon.

Since competition with the bootleggers on equal terms is out of the question so long as the federal taxes are imposed, the remedy lies in detection of the bootleggers and liquor smugglers, and vigorous prosecution.

The Ample Gas Supply

The Warnings of a Few Years Ago Now Seem Rather Foolish

A few years ago we were warned that the natural gas supply was nearing exhaustion. The gas companies published advertisements telling the people to use gas sparingly. West Virginia tried to keep gas from its wells from being sent out of the state, but was not allowed by the courts to carry out this policy.

The Philadelphia Company says in its annual report that notwithstanding severe curtailment in well drilling programs in recent years, there was no deficiency in the gas supply at any time during the past year. No shortage was reported even during the sub-zero weather in February and March.

There is no need to worry about the gas supply now. We shall long continue to enjoy the blessing of this clean, convenient fuel.

Second in Income Taxes

Pennsylvania Is Entitled to a More Generous Share of U. S. Appropriations.

The announcement of Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, that Pennsylvania was second only to New York in the number of individuals who filed income tax returns for 1932 is merely another reminder of the unfairness of the treatment that the state receives from the federal government.

As a supplier of revenue to the United States Treasury Pennsylvania occupies a prominent position; as a receiver of grants for federal undertakings it has an inconspicuous place far down in the list of states.

Some of the southern and western states have received during the past year from the Federal government many times the amounts that they contributed to the Treasury. Pennsylvania has had to supply much of this money.

And to add impudence to the injury, some of the Army engineers had the effrontery to suggest at a hearing in Washington last week that Pittsburgh assume the cost of some of the proposed improvements in the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

Pennsylvanians who were thought to be influential with the administration at Washington have failed us. We should seek representatives who will see that the state gets a square deal.

An Unusual Achievement

L. Herbert Smith, a Middle-Aged Eagle Scout, Deserves Much Credit

Three cheers for L. Herbert Smith, of Oakland, who has just become an Eagle Scout!

Do you know what a Scout must do to attain that distinction? Consult a Scout Manual and find out, and you will have a healthy respect for the boys who advance that far in Scoutdom.

The candidate for an Eagle Scout badge must acquire merit badges in 21 subjects. Not a little study and work are required in each of these subjects, and the boy who passes in all of them is a mighty handy person to have around the camp or the home.

The boy who becomes an Eagle Scout deserves a lot of credit; but Mr. Smith deserves special credit, because he is not a boy but a middle-aged man, the father of two other Scouts. And middle-aged men, as a rule, do not have the enthusiasm and ambition that carry boys so far.

If Mr. Smith did not have youthful enthusiasm, he at least had patience and persistence; and, as he has proved, they are sometimes just as effective in getting results.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 8.—I went loitering this afternoon among the old clothes markets of Baxter street, a thoroughfare so highly romanticized in the Horatio Alger books. Along the curbs are the dumpings of those roaming Ol' Cloe men who scavenge uptown byways for cast-off garments.

There is a genial to-and-fro of salesmanship. The pullers-in accost and follow you and at the slightest hesitation almost yank you inside their dim shops. "Niftick clothes, gentleman!" they wheedle. One assured me he had something special in a discardment right out of Clifton Webb's wardrobe.

Now and then a salesman displays ambassadorial qualities. He does not plunge into the crass barbarities of trade. He establishes a contact of easy chat. He wonders if you are a stranger, walks along with you a stretch and then assures you he has a treasure you cannot overlook.

Few can resist their beguilements, and once one stops one is lost. These days the Baxter street bargains are not entirely seized upon by denizens of the Bowery and the lower East Side. Many rather well dressed men make selections there and have them refurbished at a Seventh avenue tailor's, known for such handiwork.

Someone Broadwaywise tells me the biggest dinner check of the year was run up at Billy Rose's new madhouse, Casino de Paree, by a roystering sextet, remaining from eight in the evening until 3 in the morning. The chit totaled $1,100. Legend credits Harry Thaw with being on the fright-wig end of a check for $4,000 at a dinner party for eight in a private room at Martin's 25 years ago. Tod Sloane tossed a $2,000 binge for six at Ciro's many years ago.

Every world cataclysm in the past has produced a poet, unknown, who has caught the throb of the grievous years and immediately joined the immortals. Yet the depression has not as yet lifted a voice of this sort. Older poets seem mute in the interlude and it is literature's contention the newest poet to rhapsodize the period will be gloriously young. A Keats or a Shelley. Yet Tennyson wrote "Crossing the Bar" at 80 and Goethe "Faust" at 82.

Psychologists, too, say the greatest bewilderment is among men of 50 who have found they must start life all over. There are in New York alone a half million this age facing such a plight. All this despite an exhaustive study of the lives of 400 famous men proved each did his best work after 50. John Quincy Adams did not begin to show form until 65. Gladstone was at his best at 83 and Titian painted his greatest masterpiece at 99.

Einstein has become a regular stroller in the avenue's late afternoon crowds. Hatles,, his wild mop of hair in constant flurry, he is usually with his buxom wife. The scientist walks a few steps ahead and sometimes gets so far away he stops for her to catch up. While many recognize and stop slowly to pivot, the crowds generally show little recognition. The window displays catch his fancy and, due to his astigmatism, he crowds up close with a running fire of comment.

I think the saddest change in Broadway's decadence has been around that boiling corner of 47th and 7th avenue where the Palace stands. It was there vaudeville's merry-go-rounders caught at the brass ring. The mute song-and-dance men were there in belted coats and bowler derbies. Now and then a leash of trained dogs and a handful of midgets. Ponies with silver lettered throws, pert queens of song with that buoyance peculiarly their own and a "mug" or so from Variety. There was the faint aroma of cold cream and pungent toilet water, talks of routine, wows and laying eggs. It was a gallant and volatile crew, more honest and understanding than the crew, well, say at the Algonquin!

* * *

Straight vaudeville again clutched for a permanent hold a few blocks above the Palace in Earl Carroll's million dollar folly. It brought Elmer Rogers, old Palace manager, out of long retirement. But the stuff of vaudeville, the meaty marrow, one fears, has joined the pug dog and puff sleeve.

Not long ago, caught in a shower, I bought a dollar umbrella at a subway entrance. Everywhere I try to leave it an attendant rushes with it down the street. Everybody to whom I loan it, returns it pronto. Just now, loaned 20 minutes ago, it came back by special messenger. You'd think it had smallpox.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Why Do Women Have More Moods Than Men?

He's 24. Married eight months. So won't I tell him—only please don't let The Wife know that he asked:

WHY WOMEN HAVE SO MANY MOODS?

WHY WOMEN HAVE MORE MOODS THAN MEN?

IS IT—he supposes it is—BECAUSE WOMEN ARE "MORE SENSITIVE," "MORE HIGH STRUNG?"

Whereupon, if you're a man, you'll probably give a sympathetic grunt. Or, if you're a woman, you'll indulge in a complacent smirk—and cut those questions out to show your husband.

For haven't you been trying to make him realize, for years 'n' years, that you, too, are a Helpless Sufferer from Moods? You certainly have!

But can any Mere Male understand the agonies a Sensitive Woman endures through Moods? He certainly can't! Then won't I, as another woman, try to tell him?

I will, indeed, lady. But what a peeve you'll have when I get through! For, though I am another woman, and though I too suffer from Moods, I no longer kid myself that they're a sign that I am "sensitive" or "high strung;" or that they are a peculiarly feminine attribute or affliction.

To the contrary I now know that males are quite as prone to Moods as females—if they let themselves be prone. And, instead of being Helpless Sufferers from Moods, most of us girls (including myself) are apt to be Ruthless Racketeers.

Yet we women ourselves pay plenty. For, from the time we can toddle, we are taught that we are "creatures of moods," that they are a result of our "delicate feminine organization," and that there is nothing we can do about them. Because of which cockeyed instruction our own lives and those of the folks who have to live with us are wretched and wasted.

So—just what are moods? And what should we do about them? In answer, one might read volumes of scientific analysis. The simple truth is:

MOODS ARE ENERGY RUN AMUCK—EMOTION GONE GAGA.

All energy, male and female, must do something with itself.

All energy, male or female, must express itself in Motion and Emotion.

THE LESS MOTION ENERGY PRODUCES, THE MORE EMOTION IT WILL PRODUCE.

Why are Moods? That is why. MOODS ARE UNDIRECTED, UNUSED ENERGY BLOWING ITS HEAD OFF — ENERGY RUN AMUCK—EMOTION GONE GAGA!

Why do women have more Moods than men? That is why. They have more moods because they have more opportunity to let their emotions run amuck. Generally speaking, their lives are less well organized than men. They are not disciplined by the pressure of time and responsibility which men know. They are less satisfied, less rooted to their jobs.

Modern conditions have robbed woman's life of the purpose, power and pride it once possessed. Modern freedom and idleness have endowed woman with abundant,, aimless vitality. As a consequence, modern women are "all dressed up with no place to go.". So they go into a tantrum.

Busy human beings, male or female, who are interested in their work, who are finding and giving a measure of happiness in their work, suffer little from moods.

Idle, dissatisfied, restless, peevish people, male or female, suffer greatly from moods.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Bravery

How fine the man who shows with pride
His scars in battle won,
Nor frets for dreams those scars denied.
For hopes forever done!
How splendidly he plays his part
And asks no pity's dole;
But wears his hurts with happy heart
As though unscarred and whole.

One man alone is braver still:
The man of whom none knows
That he has suffered any ill
Or fought with any foes.
Unheralded this one goes by,
With no victorious air,
For all his conduct would deny
That any scar is there.

Human Side of the News

Many Interesting Personalities of Both Sexes Figure In the Reports of Current Events

By Edwin C. Hill

THE NEWS presents an unusually attractive picture gallery of personalities. There's that very able-minded lady, Fanny Hurst, who has just written her eighth novel and who has seen her name over at least 500 short stories. A close friend of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, she lives almost as vigorously as the Lady of the White House. Six hours a day she devotes to work, with the regularity of a bank cashier. She has a whole menagerie of pets, including a monkey. It was only the other day that the little gray sage, Col. Edward Mandell House, named Fanny Hurst as one of 15 women who could hold down a big government job. One wonders who the other 14 are, and why 14. There must be hundreds, actually, if not thousands.

John T. McCutcheon, one of us Hoosiers and proud of it, tells the Literary Digest that he was born in 1870 near the banks of the Wabash, and never put a foot off Indiana soil until he was 18. Then with George Ade he went to Chicago, to become the most famous of American cartoonists. He has covered six wars and cartooned 11 national political campaigns, been around the world four times and has kept his chin up through six depressions. He plays golf in the hundreds and spends his winters on a little island he owns in the Bahamas.

Beery Enacted Feminine Role

WALLACE BEERY, who plays the late Pancho Villa, Mexican bandit general, to the life in one of the most successful of recent talking pictures, was Gloria Swanson's first husband, the original of a fairly celebrated collection made by that glamorous lady of the sapphire eyes. That was back in the old Keystone comedy days under Mack Sennett, when both Beery and Miss Swanson knew the curious shock of a custard pie thrown squarely into the face. Beery flies his own plane, loves big game hunting, weighs 240 pounds and would rather eat than be hailed as one of the very finest actors of the screen, which he is. At various times in his colorful career he has been a railroad section hand, a circus elephant trainer, a chorus man, a stage electrician and a studio director. And once upon a time, in motion pictures, he played the part of a Swedish servant girl.

A very youthful celebrity from distant lands, taking his first look at the towers of New York is 11-year old Prince Varanand of Siam, adopted son of King Prajatipok. The king and queen are coming over in September, and the youngster is their avant courier. He has strange passion for spaghetti, which is by no means a Siamese delicacy.

Woman Is Mayor In Arkansas Town

DOWN IN Washington, Arkansas, Grandma Charlean Moss Williams has just been made mayor of the town, and not only that, has nothing but women officeholders to help her. She is 65, but when they asked her to become mayor telling her that the town needed common sense, she said yes like a shot, and started some municipal housecleaning. There's a real matriarchy in Washington, Arkansas, which has a population of 500, for the recorder and the five aldermen are women, along with Grandma Charlean Moss Williams.

Southern ladies will be writing letters without a doubt, and peppery letters, to Dr. Harley N. Gould, of Tulane University. For Dr. Gould comes out with the bold statement that southern women have bigger feet than northern women. He is one of the most distinguished educators of the South.

That interesting adventurer-explorer, Father Bernard Hubbard, "Apostle of the Volcanoes," and "Priest of the Glaciers," as he has come to be known, is ready for another visit to the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, in Alaska. He will use an airplane, pack-dogs and a canoe in a big job of mapping the volcano-torn Alaska. Father Hubbard is professor of geology in Santa Clara University, at Santa Clara, California.

Problems of the New Deal

By James T. Williams, Jr.

WITH THE adjournmment of Congress and the cruise of the President into the Pacific, administration will be given its first real opportunity under the New Deal to catch up with legislation.

There has been such an avalanche of legislation since the administration entered power 14 months ago that it has been difficult and, in some instances, impossible to assemble the machinery necessary to administer and enforce effectually all of the new legislative enactments.

Repeal of prohibition, for example, revived problems in the control of the liquor traffic that are a long way from solution. The ordering of many of the relief agencies created to combat the depression is still seriously embarrassed by the foisting upon the President of political incompetents, who owe their jobs solely to the greedy manipulations of pork-barrel politicians.

Many of these incompetents must be weeded out before the new Congress comes into session next January, if the record of the administration is to be worthy of the vigorous leadership which President Roosevelt has raised up. This weeding out process can only be accomplished by a bold and general extension of the merit system.

Important Decision Soon to Be Made

IN ADDITION to weeding out incompetents and extending the merit system, the administration faces another urgent task. It must soon determine which emergency measures and agencies are to end with the passing of the depression and which are to be retained. Already this question is forming a line of cleavage in both houses of Congress. Whether this line of cleavage is to follow party lines, or to cut across them, will depend upon the course the President steers after Congress adjourns.

The situation, in which the Roosevelt administration finds itself as the country emerges from the depression and the revival of confidence quickens anew the spirit of self-reliance among the people, is not unlike that which overtook the Wilson administration at the end of the Great War.

While the war was on, the American people were willing to pay any price, however high, to win the war. When the war was over, they wished to free themselves, as soon as possible, from the regimentation required to win the war.

Well Described By Coolidge

THIS SITUATION was well described in an address delivered by Calvin Coolidge at Boston when he was Governor of Massachusetts. Here is what he said:

"During the conduct of the war, it was necessary for the government to be given and to assume, the most arbitrary of powers. We had but one thing in view at that time, and that was the winning of the war and everything was sacrificed for that particular object.

"That is over now. Some of these arbitrary powers are powers people like to use. They like to have prices fixed for them on something they are going to buy, but they would not like it and would not relish it if prices were fixed for things they were going to sell.

"What we need to do is to escape as soon as possible from the exercise of arbitrary powers and come back again to the natural economic relationship of business."

Speaking again, at Lewiston, Me., Mr. Coolidge said:

"There are times when it is necessary to fix prices, times of distress and times of public exigency that require that it shall be done, but, speaking generally, it is a dangerous operation and one which we should pursue only in case of great necessity."

It was precisely upon this theory that Congress gave to the President, in the year that followed his inauguration, extraordinary powers to wage war against the depression.

How many of these powers the President will be willing to relinquish when the end of the depression ends the emergency, how many of these powers Congress will insist upon reclaiming—these are the questions to which the people North, East, South and West are beginning to ask both the President and the Congress for answers.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

As you look about you and see the advantages which have been afforded others you think that you have not had a fair chance in the world.

Perhaps you had no one to boost you.

Everything you have was procured by hard and individual effort.

You see others backed financially while you never had a dollar's worth of aid.

Lack of education is a handicap you regret since you have learned that it might have been a great benefit to you.

But you never blame yourself for your lack of progress.

Yet you know many men who have reached positions of importance and affluence solely by their own efforts.

They exercise self-denial, put in many hours in hard study and thought — which you, probably, never have done.
